Maryland has 1,500 beekeepers that own 10,000 colonies of bees. During 1991 honey production was valued at $205,000. More importantly, these bees annually pollinate $30 million worth of Maryland crops.

Wetland Reserve Pilot Program Response High

The pilot Wetland Reserve Program elicited response from over 2700 farmers who offered nearly 500,000 acres for enrollment. Farmers in nine states were allowed to submit easement bids to ASCS to protect wetlands on their property. USDA pays landowners easement costs and up to 75% of the costs for work approved to restore the land to healthy wetland condition. Up to 50,000 acres may be enrolled this year. Program expansion nationwide in 1993 has been denied for lack of Congressional appropriation of funds.

Washington County Teen Crowned Maryland Agriculture's Queen

Maryland agriculture crowned its 1992 Farm Queen at the state fair in Timonium on August 30, before a crowd of over 800. Washington County's Dawn Downey, age 16, won the two day long competition between 23 contestants who represented every county in Maryland. Miss Downey will receive a $2,000 college scholarship from the Maryland State Fair and the use of a GMC vehicle of her choice for three months.

Downey will serve as an agricultural ambassador for her home county of Washington as well as the state of Maryland. Her duties will include educating the public about agriculture, various appearances throughout the year and speaking engagements.

Serving in the royal court are first runner-up Heather Hull, Carroll County; second runner-up Jennifer Trout, Harford County; third runner-up Amanda Fry, Kent County; and fourth runner-up Maggie Boyden, Charles County.

Dawn Downey is the daughter of Frank and Carolyn Downey, who own a dairy, beef and grain farm. She is currently serving as the Maryland State Jersey Queen and recently completed her reign as 1991 Washington County Dairy Princess. An active 4-H member, Downey has won numerous public speaking competitions and has promoted the dairy industry to the general public.

Downey is a junior at Williamsport High School where she is a member of the National Honor Society, student council and the Blue Band. She aspires to attend a four year college and major in elementary education, communications or public relations.

First runner-up, Heather Hull, hails from a 101 acre farm in Carroll County where her family raises dairy heifers, garden products, corn, soybeans, alfalfa and ornamental trees. An active 4-H members for nine years, Hull has won many public speaking, dairy and photography awards. As a senior at Westminster High School, she is a member of the National Honor Society and is involved in S.A.D.D., Key Club and photography. Hull hopes to attend college to pursue a career as a broadcaster, journalist or entertainer.

Second runner-up, Amanda Fry, lives on a 1,200 acre dairy and grain farm in Kent County where she milks and works in the office. She has been a 4-H member for eight years. Fry will be a freshman at Dickinson College this year where she will major in international studies. She hopes to spend her junior year in France and work toward her goal of becoming an international lobbyist.

Third runner-up, Jennifer Trout, lives on a dairy farm in Harford County where she is responsible for milking, feeding the calves, registering calves, raking hay, sire selection, dispensing medications for herd and grounds upkeep. Phase II Disaster Plan For Program Crops Planted In '91 For '92 Harvest Approved

A total of $995 million for 1990 and 1991 crop losses was approved on December 12, 1991, when The Dire Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1992 was signed into law. The law also provides for an additional $755 million to be made available for one of the crop years 1990, 1991, or 1992, but not for a year for which disaster payments were provided under the $995 million. In addition, it provides that $100 million of the $755 million was to be set aside for program crops planted in 1991 for harvest in 1992. The 1990 and 1991 Disaster Program is referred to as Phase I.

An official budget request for the additional $755 million has been made by the president. The implementation will be referred to as Phase II, for the $100 million, and Phase III, for the remaining $655 million.

The provisions for the $100 million Phase II allocation describe eligible crops as program crops planted in 1991 for harvest in 1992 and meeting the same production loss requirements of Phase I. The application period for these Phase II Disaster Program crops, which include barley and wheat, began in the Garrett County ASCS office on September 8 and will continue through October 2.

The Dire Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1992 allowed benefits for either of the years 1990 or 1991 under the $995 million allocation (Phase I), and allows for one of the years 1990, 1991, or 1992 under the $755 million allocation (Phases II and III), but not for a year receiving benefits in Phase I. Therefore, if an application was filed under Phase I, a farm may be eligible for benefits in two out of three years. More specific information can be obtained from the Garrett County ASCS Office by calling 334-1901.

Any producer receiving Phase II disaster benefits must agree to obtain multiple peril crop insurance for the 1993 crop of the commodity.

The application period for Phase III of the Disaster Program, which is for all other program crops for years 1990, 1991 and 1992, begins in the Garrett County ASCS Office on October 13.

1992 has been proclaimed the "Year of Clean Water" and October 1992 as "Clean Water Month." The presidential proclamation was made in part to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Clean Water Act.

The Golden Years

by Melissa Groves

In the late 1930s, a guitar-playing Connecticut teenager got an offer to join the Tommy Dorsey band. Charles Kaman opted instead for aeronautical engineering. In 1945, at age 26, he started a company to turn out pioneering helicopters. He created the first copter powered by a gas turbine engine and the first intermeshing twin rotors. The Kaman H43B became the prime rescue copter in the Korean and Vietnam wars. Today, Kaman Corp. makes advanced copters and high-tech aerospace products -- and guitars favored by rock stars. Kaman, in his 70s, was still working a 70-hour week. Retirement? "I can't imagine anything worse."

Are older people more fearful of crime than younger men and women? Not according to a national study by researchers at Northern Illinois University. They found that people in the 18-to-34 age group were more afraid of crime that involved physical attack. The study found no meaningful difference among age groups in fears about theft and other forms of property crime.

Estimating Corn Yields

There are good reasons for knowing ahead of time what your corn will produce at harvest. If the "weatherman" cooperates for two or three more weeks we may have a good yield on grain. If not, we are going to have a lot of corn silage. Having a general idea of yields can help you line up your storage or plan your marketing strategy.

The following method of determining yields is fairly accurate and at worst will over-estimate yields by less than 10 percent.

• Determine the number of ears in 1/1,000th of an acre. For most of you one of the following length would correspond to width of row.

Row Width (Inches)	Length of Row To Equal 1/1,000 Acre
30	17 ft. 4.1 in.
32	16 ft. 3.8 in.
34	15 ft. 4.7 in.
36	14 ft. 6.2 in.
38	13 ft. 8.9 in.

To measure the length of row that is equivalent to 1/1,000th of an acre, form a hook with wire and attach it to a cord that is marked at the desired length. Place the hook on a stalk and measure off the distance.

• Determine the number of rows of kernels and kernels per row on at least three ears within the sample row length. In order to keep yield comparisons fair and the procedure standardized, it is suggested that you check for example, the second, sixth and tenth ear at each location. Do not count large butt kernels or tip kernels that are extremely small.

• Calculate (one ear at a time) the estimated yield per acre for each of the three ears sampled at each location. To do this, multiply number of kernels per row, times number of rows per ear. Multiplying the number of ears in the sample site, times the number of kernels per ear, times .01116 gives bushels per acre of 15.5 percent moisture corn.

• Estimate yields at five to 10 locations in the field and average these yields to arrive at an overall average yield for the field. Make a minimum of one check for every five acres. Try to select sample locations that are representative of the field, being sure to avoid end or border rows and low or high spots in the field.

Crops Late But In Good Condition

By September 13 the major crops were in good condition across Maryland. Crops, however, were behind averaged progress. Only a few acres of small grains were planted.

An average of 5.1 days was suitable for fieldwork during the week ending September 13, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, 81 percent of the topsoil had adequate moisture and 19 percent had surplus moisture. Subsoil moisture was short in 13 percent of Maryland, while 81 percent had adequate moisture and six percent had a surplus.

Soybeans were in mostly good condition. Most are setting pods and some are beginning to turn. Corn and sorghum are in good condition across the state. Corn and sorghum maturity continue to lag. Pastures were in excellent condition, with adequate hay supplies. Apple and peach crops were in good condition throughout the state; peach harvest is nearing completion and apple harvest was slightly behind normal. Potato, vegetable and melon harvests are nearing completion.

Maryland's progress for the week ending September 13 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Soybeans setting pods: 89, 98, 89; turning, 10, 29, 20. Corn dent, at least 63, 94, 85; mature, 27, 68, 48; grain harvested, 3, 17, 12; silage harvested, 11, 76, 56. Sorghum turned, 43, 85, N/A. Hay harvested: alfalfa, fourth cutting, 32, 49, 37; other, third cutting, 62, 31, 39. Peaches harvested: 92, 98, 94. Apples harvested: 24, 34, 35.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending September 11 was warmer than normal with heavy precipitation. Precipitation averaged 1.94 inches, ranging from 0.76 at Bel Air to 4.62 inches at Patuxent. Regional averages were: Western, 2.14; North Central, 1.96; Southern Maryland West of the Bay, 2.44; and Eastern Shore, 1.48 inches. Temperatures averaged 73.8 degrees, 3.9 degrees above the normal of 69.9 degrees for the September 5-11 period. Minimum temperatures ranged from the low 50's to the mid 60's. Maximum temperatures were in the 80's.

Wild Ginseng Season Opened August 20th

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced Maryland's annual ginseng gathering season opened August 20 and will last through December 1.

According to Charlie Staines of the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Office of Plant Industries, yearly ginseng collecting permits are required under Maryland Law.

The $2 state permits are needed by gatherers of the rare and fabled root to legally sell their harvest in commercial channels. Buyers are required under law to record the permit numbers and identifications of their suppliers when they seek a federal export permit for the root.

In 1991, according to Staines' records, some 200 collecting permits for ginseng were issued in the state. Sixty-five of the permit holders reported selling 165 pounds of root at an average price of $190 per pound.

"The plant is uncommon enough that a pound or two of dried roots represent a great deal of effort. Searching for ginseng is obviously not a way to become wealthy. It does provide a good excuse, if one is needed, to get out into the woods," Staines said.

Wild, American ginseng, is prized in parts of the Orient and the best price for the root is paid by exporters who cater to those markets. In Maryland, ginseng is found mostly west of Frederick in the rich soil of shady hardwood Appalachian forests.

For more information on ginseng season contact Charlie Staines, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401. Telephone: (410) 841-5920.

Administration Rejects Indexing Capital Gains

The Bush administration has rejected pleas from the American Farm Bureau Federation and various conservative groups to authorize indexing of capital gains and depreciation schedules to reflect inflation.

"An economic policy move of this type would receive a highly positive response from both farmers, specifically, and financial markets, in general," AFBF President Dean Kleckner had said in a letter delivered to the White House last month. "It would signal your determination to do what is right for the American people by getting the economy back on a strong growth path."

Tax reductions are among features of the economic plan proposed by Bush in his acceptance speech in Houston last month, and one recent legal opinion indicated the president might have the authority to take action on indexing without waiting for congressional approval.

Late last week, however, the White House announced that the Justice Department had decided the president does not have the authority to act unilaterally. Bush will continue to seek a cut in the capital gains tax rate.

AFBF has long urged a maximum capital gains tax rate of 15 percent and indexing of capital gains for inflation.

Kleckner told Bush in his letter: "In the case of farmers, we have many young farmers who want to buy farms from retiring parents who cannot afford to sell to them because of the huge capital gains tax penalty, much of which is traced to inflated gains.

"This is not a rich-poor issue. It is an economic growth and real job opportunity issue."

Milk Pricing Organization Cancels Active Signup Program

At the September 8 meeting of the Producers' Equalization Agency, the PEA board voted to discontinue the active signup program which has been underway for the past three years to build PEA membership to the point where dairy farmers could price the milk they sell to milk processors.

According to John Siglow, general manager of the group, "Since the first of January, we've been able to average only 14 signups per month. Over 400 dairy farmers shipping milk to fluid milk processors have been visited from three to as many as six times by board members and other PEA representatives. Their reasons for not signing have ranged from "let supply and demand work," to "just not interested."

He continues, "PEA will continue to exist as a business entity with a goal of providing a means for dairy farmers to price their milk. Now, however, unsigned dairy farmers must contact PEA board members if they want to sign a PEA agreement. We feel we owe it to those dairy farmers who have signed to leave this door open."

Siglow concluded by saying that he and the dairy farmer board members of PEA would like to publicly thank all the dairy farmers and other people in the industry who have helped PEA during the last three years. He pointed out that dairy farmers are now more aware of how their milk is priced and that they can have a voice in pricing if they join together.

Under federal law, dairy farmers can jointly price their milk. But to be truly effective, the vast majority (90 percent) must express a unified desire to price their milk by signing a marketing agreement.

Volunteers Of Loar Auxiliary Are Recognized

The Loar Auxiliary held its bi-monthly meeting September 8 in the Garrett Memorial Hospital board room.

Benjamin Rosenthal, president of Garrett Memorial, presented certificates to the following volunteers in appreciation of over 1,000 hours of service provided to the Auxiliary from January through July 1992: Dorothy Bittinger, Mildred Cecil, Helen Earls (treasurer), Dorothy Frame, Norma Frazee, Lollie Fridinger, Betsy Gergoff, Sally Gonder (secretary), Donna Heginbotham, Mary Lambert, Lena Long, Harriet McClung (vice-president), Helen Nordeck, Ruth Porter, Betty Pritt (president), Kate Stewart, Dee Vecchio, Dottie White, and Phyllis Winklevoss.

The purpose of the Auxiliary, in addition to providing a better understanding of the hospital and its purposes to fellow Auxiliary members and the community, is to generate funds and donate them for the use and advancement of Garrett Memorial. The Auxiliary recently completed a $50,000 pledge to Garrett Memorial and has just pledged another $50,000 to be met within the next five years.

Betty Pritt, president of the Auxiliary, emphasizes the continuing need for volunteers. "It is through volunteers contributing their time to the Auxiliary, that we are able to raise money for the hospital," she said.

Volunteers Donating Time, Materials At Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area

The ranger staff at Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area has taken a novel approach to maintaining services during difficult economic times.

Through a combination of volunteer services and cooperative involvement by local businesses, a number of work projects have been completed that ordinarily could not have been done within the park's existing budgetary constraints.

Projects that are being completed this fall include new signs on the Deep Creek Lake State Park trail system, picnic area improvements, and landscaping in various areas of Deep Creek Lake State Park.

Coordinator for this new program is Carson Hummel, a part-time contractual employee for Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area. Hummel is a native of Garrett County and has returned after a 20-year career in the U.S. Army.

Hummel will be spending his time supervising park volunteers, as well as soliciting services and donations from civic organizations and businesses in the local area.

Volunteer opportunities at the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area include the volunteer ranger program, campground hosts, public information, landscaping, nature programs, and volunteers for special events. To date over 50 volunteers have assisted the Recreation Area with these duties.

Opportunities for local citizen groups and businesses exist in the area of cooperative brochure development and special event sponsorship. According to Recreation Area Manager Paul Durham, there are several park publications that are available for business sponsorship.

"This is an excellent opportunity for local businesses or organizations to reach our park visitors with advertising, while at the same time providing a positive public service," stated Durham.

Information regarding the volunteer program can be obtained by contacting Hummel at the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area, (301) 387-5563.

State Forest Hearings Slated

Steve Hamilton, manager Potomac/Garrett State Forest, announced the schedule for public hearings on the FY 94 annual work plans for all three state forests located in Western Maryland.

According to Hamilton the hearings are designed to maximize public involvement in the overall management of the regional State Forests by involving them in the decision making process.

"Each session will begin with a short presentation by the Forest Manager who will describe the work plan followed by a question and answer session. Formal comments may be given about any aspect of the plan after the question and answer period," Hamilton said.

The hearing for Green Ridge State Forest is scheduled September 18, beginning at 7 at the Flintstone Fire Hall, while the hearings for Savage River State Forest will be held September 19 at 9 a.m., Room 314, Garrett Community College.

The Potomac/Garrett State Forest hearing will be held September 19 beginning at 1 p.m., also in Room 314 of Garrett Community College.

Each session is expected to last three hours and copies of the proposed work plans will be available at the hearing or may be obtained by contacting the forest manager at 301-334-2038.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

FELLOWSHIP DINNER

The 25 Area Women's Fellowship dinner was held Wednesday evening at the United Methodist Church in Grantsville with 55 persons in attendance. Marsha Swauger welcomed the group and Ruth Hetz gave the invocation for the carry-in meal.

After the meal Alice Younkin gave a brief history of how the fellowship got started. It began when Maple Grove ladies invited those of the other church to the sportsman's club for a fellowship meal. In 1968 members from the other churches were invited to the Younkin home to plan for an organization. Those attending were Stella Edwards, Betty Jo Swauger, Shelby Diehl, Margie Menges, Esther Yoder, and Alice Younkin. Margie Menges was elected secretary and Alice Younkin, president. They have served for the 25 years and are still serving.

Margie Menges read the minutes for 1991 and Alice Younkin closed the meeting with a poem.

Everyone then went to the sanctuary for the program. Ruth Hetz led a memorial service for the deceased. They include Melva Yommer, Jeanette Lohr, Nellie Wilburn, John Menges, Donald Newman, Edwin Robeson, and Orlo Falk.

Pastors in attendance were: David Lancaster from the Zion Methodist Church, Roger Cale, and Richard Green. Mrs. Lottie Green from LaVale was the speaker. Her topic was "How Faith Brings Love in Your Life."

BLOODMOBILE TO VISIT

The bloodmobile will be at the Grantsville fire hall on Wednesday, Sept. 23, from 12:30 to 6:30 p.m.

W.O.W. DINES

The Woodmen of the World Lodge 61 held its corn roast and covered dish dinner at the Bittinger Community Building on Sunday. Walter Younkin gave the invocation. A business session was then conducted by Thomas Bender.

Real Estate Facts

Cause and Effect!

When you decide to sell, don't expect your real estate agent to sell your home! In fact, the odds are against it.

Here's why. Locally, there are numerous buyers on any given day, all looking for the right home to purchase. There are also many active agents, each working with different buyers. Because real estate companies cooperate closely with each other, any of those agents can and may show your home to their buyers.

If there are 100 agents showing homes like yours to buyers today, and your agent is one of them, there would be only a one in a 100 chance that your agent would sell your home. That also means there is a 99 to 1 chance that one of the other agents will provide the right buyer for your home.

What is the lesson here? When selling, don't choose an agent who claims to be able to sell your home. Choose one who will cause it to sell, and yes, there is a difference.

Choose an agent who understands the importance of exposing your home to the entire pool of available buyers. Because the odds are great that another agent will actually provide the buyer, your agent should devote most of his or her time and activities to attracting other agents (and their buyers) to your home. This process is called marketing - not selling.

The more potential buyers who see your home, the more likely it is to sell at the best possible price. Buyers will actually compete to purchase your home - if enough of them see it. Your agent should be the catalyst who stimulates showings by other agents, resulting in the intense interest that produces a ready, willing and able buyer.

When choosing an agent to represent you, ask for details about the marketing plan which will be implemented to attract agents and buyers. This marketing strategy will determine how soon your home sells, and at what price.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303 or come by our office located at McHenry Plaza.

Maryland's Gas Pipeline Safety Rated Top-Notch

The U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) recently gave the Maryland Public Service Commission's Gas Pipeline Safety Program its highest rating for state inspection programs. Maryland has nine major natural gas distribution companies, serving 850,000 customers over 18,000 miles of gas pipelines.

Maryland earned a perfect score of 100 in DOT's comprehensive evaluation of safety inspection programs. Federal evaluators stated that Maryland's high score is "indicative of a very good pipeline safety program." The federal evaluation considers the state's gas pipeline investigation procedures, enforcement measures, documentation of records and the qualifications of its inspectors. DOT's annual audit is strict, as only three states received a perfect score in 1991.

The Maryland Public Service Commission has the responsibility to assure that intrastate (within Maryland) gas facilities are operating safely. The Commission has the authority to enter and inspect a pipeline facility, checking such things as records of operation, historical data, construction, operation and maintenance plans, emergency procedures, as well as equipment. An effective inspection program provides for a quarterly inspection of every operator to determine potential risks.

A field inspector will inspect pipelines looking for proper corrosion control, regulating equipment, leak repairs and emergency valves. The results of each inspection are documented. Provisions are made to notify the operator of any problems and a follow-up ensures that any corrective action has been taken.

If an operator does not satisfy a request to correct a problem, the Commission can schedule a hearing and order corrective action. Failure to obey such an order would subject the operator to a civil penalty of $10,000 per day for each violation; not to exceed $500,000. In certain hazardous situations, the Commission can suspend or severely restrict the operation of a natural gas or liquified natural gas facility.

The nine distribution companies sent over 23 billion cubic feet of natural gas to Maryland customers in January, 1992, during a relatively warm winter. Gas safety inspectors predict that an additional 7 billion cubic feet of gas could be consumed in January, 1993, if Maryland has a colder winter.

The Commission regulates gas, electric, telephone, steam heating, for-profit water and sewage companies, and common carriers, such as bus companies, transporting persons for hire within Maryland.

GCC Announces Apprenticeship Training Program

Garrett Community College, in cooperation with Associated Builders and Contractors, Inc., has announced that trade apprenticeships will again be offered in Garrett County. An orientation meeting for all new and returning apprentices will be held in the auditorium at the McHenry Campus at 7 p.m., Monday, September 21.

Apprenticeship opportunities will be made available in the fields of carpentry, plumbing, electrical, masonry and heating/ventilation/air conditioning. Any individual who is at least 18 years of age is eligible for the classroom training. Those who are employed in the trade will register with the State of Maryland as apprentices. Those students who are currently unemployed may use the services of the Associated Builders and Contractors, Inc., job referral service.

According to a GCC spokesman, a trade apprentice spends three to four years in a combination of on-the-job training and related classroom instruction. On-the-job training consists of 2,000 hours per year in the trade employment. Most related instruction meets two evenings per week for a total of about 144 hours per school year. After successful completion of required related classroom instruction and on-the-job training, apprentices receive their journeyperson's certificate from the Maryland Apprenticeship and Training Council.

All interested potential participants should plan to attend the orientation meeting. For further information, persons may call Tom Kierstead, at the Continuing Education Division of the college, 1-800-695-4221 or 1-301-387-6666, ext. 169.

Rangers Arrest Nine FSU Students On Drug Charges

Park rangers at the Swallow Falls State Park arrested nine Frostburg State University students on Sunday, charging them with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia as well as with camping in a non-designated area. Rangers discovered one of the students to be wanted in Allegany County on an outstanding arrest warrant.

Schaefer Announces Plan To Trim Another $450 Million From Budget

Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer announced last week during a press conference his plan to further reduce the state budget by $450 million, proposing to cut $150 million of that amount from the local jurisdictions. Along with those proposed areas of cuts, the governor announced his intention to institute a new state lottery game that would reportedly generate $50 million in extra revenue for the state.

The plan also involves slashing another $240 million from state programs that have reportedly been cut seven times in the last two years, and would especially impact on the state's poorest citizens, preventing 30,400 people from receiving Medicaid benefits and rolling back welfare payments to the 1988 state level.

The proposal is predicted to mean the loss of jobs for hundreds to thousands of state employees.

The state's higher education system could lose as little as $27.7 million or as much as $67.7 million, depending upon whether or not the full proposed $150 million is actually cut from local governments.

A reported $30 million

Flu, Pneumonia Vaccine Clinics Set For October

Influenza and pneumonia vaccines will again be available this fall through the Garrett County Health Department.

According to a Health Department spokesman, the influenza vaccine for 1991-92 protects against Texas, Beijing, and Panama strains of the virus. These are thought to be the types of flu virus most likely to occur in the United States this year. These viruses usually infect the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs. Accompanying symptoms may include fever, cough, chills, and soreness in the back, arms, and legs. Most healthy people recover in a few days; however, there are people who develop more serious complications include the elderly and people with health problems such as chronic lung disease, heart disease, diabetes, kidney disease, and frequent respiratory infections. The flu (influenza) shot should be repeated every year, the spokesman said.

The pneumonia vaccine stimulates resistance to the 23 most common types of pneumonia. Like the flu viruses, pneumonia can be life threatening, especially for

Ferrell Case To Be Topic Of TV's "Final Appeal"

The murder conviction of Paul Ferrell and the circumstances surrounding that conviction will be one of the subjects of NBC's television show "Final Appeal" to be shown Friday, September 25, at 8 p.m. The premise of the show is to present controversial convictions to the television-viewing public and provide information and opinions on both sides of the cases.

Ferrell was convicted in 1989 for the kidnapping and murder of Catherine Denise Ford, who was last seen on February 17, 1988. Ferrell was a deputy sheriff of Grant County, W.Va. in 1988, and was accused and convicted of killing Miss Ford, who was 19 years of age at that time. He is presently serving a life-term prison sentence in the Moundsville, W.Va., Penitentiary. Ferrell reportedly maintains his innocence in the case, as does his defense attorney, Dan James.

According to reports, State's Attorney James Sherbin and prosecutor Dennis DiBenedetto were both interviewed for the program.

NY Woman Pleads Guilty To Unlawful Shooting Charge

A New York State woman pleaded guilty (alford plea) in Garrett County Circuit Court to the charge of unlawful shooting Presiding Judge Fred A. Thayer accepted the plea of Regina Dasilva Potter, 43, and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. He revoked bail and remanded the defendant to the custody of the Garrett County Sheriff.

Potter allegedly shot her husband, Frank N. Potter, 51, in the face at the Yough Valley Motel, Friendsville, on November 11, 1991. According to the report, Mrs. Potter first maintained that Potter had threatened her with a knife and that she had shot in self-defense. She later stated that he did not actually have the knife, although it was in the motel room. The couple was apparently arguing about returning to New York when the violence took place. According to the defendant's statements, the shooting was the result of "years of domination" by her husband.

Other charges against her that were not prosecuted were assault with intent to murder, attempted murder, handgun felony, and assault and battery. The defendant first claimed to be not criminally responsible and not competent to stand trial, but later withdrew that claim. A sentencing date was not indicated on the court document.

New Dean Of Administration Named At GCC

On the recommendation of Garrett Community College President Dr. Stephen Herman, a new dean of administration (formerly titled comptroller) at GCC has been approved by the Board of Trustees. Theodore Along was named dean of administration at a recent meeting of the trustees.

Also at that meeting, an interim psychology professor was named in the absence of Dr. Craig Abrahamson. Filling that position will be Dr. Paul Freda. Dr. Abrahamson is on a leave of absence without pay for one year.

In other college board news, Dr. Lillian R. Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, announced that enrollment figures were up considerably from last year at this time.

She said the head count for the fall semester is 689 as compared to 651 last fall - - or a six percent increase. In FTE (full-time equivalency) averages that represents 240.87 FTE, up from 223.65 last year -- or an eight percent increase.

Dr. Mitchell also told the trustees that 58 percent of the students are full-time students. She added that 43 sections had closed for full enrollment for the fall semester and that only eight classes were canceled for

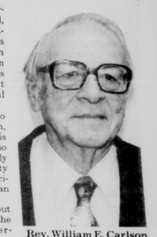
Extension Office Officials Concerned About U. Of Md. Budget Cut Proposals

At a meeting with the Garrett County Commissioners last week, Alice Hevner, Garrett County Extension director, advised the county officials that the impending state budget cut to the University of Maryland system could result in a critical downsizing of the Garrett County Extension Office. How severe that downsizing might be, however, is not yet known, according to Heavner.

In an effort to avoid a cut that might debilitate, or even eliminate, the extension services provided in Garrett County, Hevner urged the commissioners to voice their concerns about the prospect to the proper state officials as part of an "awareness campaign" being conducted by the extension office. The commissioners agreed to support the county office by writing a letter to the governor.

At this point, the severity of the cuts hinges on how the local governments will decide to deal with the $150 million cut they will, most likely, collectively bear, said Hevner, who noted that her office is dependent on funds from within the University of Maryland system as well as county funding.

She added that the University of Maryland Board of Regents will begin the process next week of determining where cuts will be made within the system.



"We're very appreciative of all those who have sent letters (which have been forwarded to the governor) explaining how the extension services have helped them in their lives," said Hevner.

The thrust of the awareness campaign, added Hevner, is for the extension service to be considered as an equal component of the university system. "We realize that, as part of a state system, there are going to be cuts but, even though we are not classroom oriented and do not generate that kind of income, we think we should be treated equally," she explained.

At one time, however, when discussions were centering around the need for

Woman Indicted By Grand Jury For Theft, Fraud

A local woman was indicted last week by the September Term Grand Jury on charges of theft, welfare fraud, and perjury. Roselee Mikulik, 35, faces these charges and is currently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail on $10,000 bond.

Mikulik is accused of stealing money in the amount of $3,339 from the state of Maryland from November 1989 through June 1990. According to the report, she allegedly obtained funds to which she was not entitled under social and health service programs based on need.

The Grand Jury made a second indictment, but the defendant had not yet been arrested, therefore the name and charges have not been released.

COUNTY NATIVE WORKS ON MARS OBSERVER - Jeff Sincell, a Garrett County native, will be among several other anxious engineers Friday afternoon as they watch the NASA Mars Observer launched into space from Cape Canaveral, Florida. Sincell, pictured above center with the Observer, has worked for over three years on the satellite along with four other engineers, and Friday's launch culminates thousands of hours of intricate and complex craftsmanship. The satellite is scheduled to reach Mars in about 11 months and establish an orbit around the planet. It will orbit Mars for two years, sending back information never before gathered. Sincell said the Observer is one of the most complex satellites both in hard and software ever launched. "It's a quality job," he said. "We're expecting great things." The satellite will study weather, mineral content, and electro-magnetic characteristics of Mars, among other things. Sincell said the launching is a pre-curser to a possible manned mission to the planet. The original launch date was September 16, but because of extenuating circumstances indirectly connected to Hurricane Andrew, the launch has been re-set for Friday. A feature story on the Mars Observer (including launch coverage) and Sincell's involvement with its construction is scheduled to appear in the October 8 issue of The Republican.

Northern Garrett Band Takes First In Two Contests

The Northern Garrett Marching Band brought home the first place trophies of Group I (35 playing members or less) from the Frostburg State University Tournament of Bands, held Saturday afternoon, and from an evening competition held at South Carroll High School, Carroll County.

In the FSU contest, the band garnered a score of 72.7, placing them first in the class above Westmar and Petersburg (W.Va.) high schools. The Northern marchers also captured awards for best music, marching, percussion, and drum major.

The band went on to compete on Saturday evening at South Carroll High School against three other Maryland bands and again placed first in Group I with a score of 79.4. The specialty awards of best music, marching, percussion, drum major, and guard were all given to Northern. This is the first time in eleven years that Northern has received all available awards in its group, according to a spokesperson.

In addition to the Group I honors, Northern took second overall. There were eight other bands in the competition.

Northern will travel to Keyser (W.Va.) High School this Saturday (Sept. 26) to compete in the fourth annual "Showcase of Bands," which will begin at noon. The marchers will participate in a second contest in the evening at Frankfort High School, beginning at 6 p.m. Tickets will be available at the gate for both competitions.

The band is under the direction of James Boord.

Other awards netted by the group were best guard, best drum major, and best percussion in Group II. The drum line received the highest score of all other percussion lines in the event. The drum major, Tiffany Powers, also achieved the highest mark of the day. She is assisted by co-drum major Maria Massi.

According to Blair Glass, percussion instructor, the judges praised Southern for presenting an interesting show. He reported that one judge said the performance "stays with you long after it ends" and that it is "refreshing to see something different attempted."

This Saturday, Southern will travel to Keyser High School for the "Showcase of Bands" in the afternoon, and on to Frankfort High School for an evening competition. Tickets to the shows will be available at the gate.

Woman Shot When Attempting To Prevent Suicide

A young Westernport woman was shot in the hand Saturday morning as she was attempting to pull a shotgun away from a man who was trying to shoot himself, according to state police reports.

Amy Moomau, 21, was treated and released from Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W.Va., following the early morning incident, according to a hospital spokesperson.

As a result of the shooting, Alan Green, 22, Bloomington, was arrested and charged with reckless endangerment. The incident allegedly occurred at the Green residence on Patterson Avenue in Bloomington when Moomau reportedly pulled the shotgun away from Green who was reportedly attempting suicide in front of her. The gun then discharged and struck Moomau in the hand, police said.

Cumberland Man Charged After Tuesday Mishap

A Cumberland man was charged with driving on a highway without the required license or authorization, failure to yield the right of way when turning left, and failure to wear a seat belt following a Tuesday morning mishap on U.S. Rt. 219 near Grantsville.

Parrish E. Harris, 27, was charged with those counts by Cpl. G.R. Chaney of the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry.

Chaney said the 7:45 a.m. mishap occurred when Harris, operating a 1981 Ford Escort, stopped on U.S. Rt. 219 at the light at the intersection of Alt. U.S. Rt. 40. When the light changed, Harris made a left turn into the path of a 1989 Ford Probe, operated by Connie A. Murray, 32, Salisbury, Pa., which was traveling south on U.S. Rt. 219. The Murray vehicle subsequently struck the right side of the Harris vehicle.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched Northern Rescue Squad personnel and Grantsville volunteer firefighters to the scene. There were reportedly no injuries in the mishap.

ONE TREATED

State police also released the details of a September 15 accident this week in which one person was treated and released from Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Treated was Laurie N. Walker, 19, Frostburg, according to a spokesperson from the hospital.

Cpl. Gary M. Long investigated and stated that the accident occurred when Walker, operating a 1990 Dodge Daytona, was exiting a private drive onto Md. Rt. 495, and pulled into the path of a 1990 Toyota Camry, operated by Candace H. Ferrell, 33, Mtn. Lake Park.

Ferrell reportedly applied her brakes and skidded approximately 100 feet prior to striking the Walker vehicle which finally came to rest in a ditch.

Cpl. Long stated in his report that Walker's visibility was impaired. She was charged with failure to yield the right of way from a private driveway, however.

Garrett County Emergency Management dispatched the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and Bittinger volunteer firemen to the 6:45 p.m. mishap.

How About Some Help?

When natural disaster strikes in other nations, the United States is always the first to send relief money, supplies, and many times, manpower, to assist with rescue, clean-up, and restoration. One of the most recent examples of this was when a tidal wave struck the coast of Nicaragua, causing extensive damage and claiming a number of lives. Within hours the United States sent several million dollars worth of aid.

We are also spearheading efforts to provide food and supplies to the African nation of Somalia, where thousands are starving and dying of disease.

Our nation undoubtedly leads the world in the number of missionaries and volunteers, such as Peace Corps workers, who are bringing help and hope to so many fellow human beings in third world nations.

Meanwhile, our nation has been smacked not once, but twice, in the past several weeks by major hurricanes, with the damage tab for Hurricane Andrew estimated to be around $20 billion in Florida. Hurricane Iniki added a couple more billion dollars of loss in Hawaii.

The American Red Cross and the various other relief agencies cannot afford this. The insurance companies involved will not cover it. Donations by our own citizens will not come close to paying for such damage. Even our federal government is unable to come up with such an enormous sum of money.

While we believe wholeheartedly that we should never cease to reach out to assist other peoples of the world, it would certainly be refreshing if, just for once, some of our fellow nations would kick in some bucks to help us out when we are ravaged by natural disaster. We obviously would not expect such assistance from nations like Somalia and others that simply do not have such financial resources. But what about Japan, the nation we virtually rebuilt after World War II? What about Germany and Great Britain and France and Canada and the various Scandinavian countries? Have we received any financial assistance whatsoever from these nation in the past several weeks to help cover our losses? We have heard nothing in the national media about such donations. If there have been some, then we apologize for this column today.

Yes, we are the strongest nation in the world. But we certainly have some significant economic problems and our resources are not unlimited. How about a little help from our friends?

Jesse Brobst, the artist of the above cartoon, is a Garrett County native and presently a student at Garrett Community College.

To the Editor:

The observance of Mental Illness Awareness Week for 1992 will be held October 4-10.

The Garrett County Alliance for the Mentally Ill urges everyone to hear the special message of that week: "Mental illnesses are both prevalent and treatable, and we simply must break the code of silence that keeps us from talking about them."

It is a message we must repeat, not only in October but throughout the year and not only here at home but in our state capitals and Washington, D.C., especially.

Why in our nation's capital? Because the near future will see Congress, the states and major national organizations such as the Alliance for the Mentally Ill engaged in creating the legislation and regulations that will decide the future shape of health care in this country, how it will be paid for and what it will cover. Most of the proposals now being discussed give short shrift to coverage for mental illnesses.

This is continuing evidence that mental illnesses, and those who suffer with them and treat them are devalued because of the stigma attached to these devastating illnesses.

It's terribly sad, but few law and policy makers understand even the basic facts of mental illnesses.

In any six-month period over 29 million adult Americans--nearly 19 percent of the population--suffer from one or more mental disorders, ranging from mild to severe, but for whom treatment is appropriate.

People between the ages of 25 and 44, our population's best workers, accounted for the largest percentage of admissions to in-patient psychiatric services in the last decade.

Suicide, one potential outcome of untreated mental illness, is the eighth leading cause of death in the U.S.

By studied estimates, mentally ill people account for nearly a third of the homeless thronging our streets.

Thankfully, this is an election year. AMI of Garrett County asks those who want fair and adequate mental illnesses coverage in any and all medical insurance plans to join us in calling and/or writing to your congressperson and senators. Tell them it is imperative that whatever health care legislation they co-sponsor or create has equal coverage for mental illnesses' treatment.

Tell them your vote depends on it.

Respectfully,
Carol L. Cox, President
Garrett County AMI

To the Editor:

Over the past few weeks, various media around the state have written articles about the Department of Economic and Employment Development's (DEED) decision to terminate its contracts with private organizations which have traditionally operated many of the state's tourist information centers. I believe it is important for the public to understand why we have made this decision.

First, let me express DEED's understanding and appreciation that strong ties exist between each information center and the community in which it is located. Our decision to change the way these centers are operated is made with full respect for these relationships and their histories. We are also very much aware that many of the centers would not even exist were it not for the time, energy and resources of the local communities.

Our decision was driven by budget pressures. As in many areas of state government, the state's Office of Tourism Development is faced with a decreased level of funding. We have determined that it will be more cost-effective for the state to centralize the management of the centers within our department, for example purchasing and other support functions. I would like to stress that we only intend to terminate the contracts, not the relationships. In fact, we intend to contract directly with the people who have been staffing the centers and we hope that each local organization will continue to be very involved, on an advisory basis, with their local center's operation.

Some have pointed out this decision contradicts current efforts to privatize government services. The point to privatization is to be able to deliver a service traditionally provided by government either at no cost to the state or at reduced cost. However, in this case, we believe the state can do the work at less cost than the private sector.

After careful consideration, DEED has concluded that the six information centers currently under contract to local organizations can be managed centrally by DEED at less cost than the current arrangement, while continuing to provide excellent service to the traveling public and local tourism-related businesses.

Savings would result from the elimination of certain costs which the state does not have to incur, such as insurance, accounting services and banking fees. Central management would give the state the opportunity to use information center staff on other state marketing projects. In addition, the state would no longer need to pay a management fee to the contractor. We estimate that by contracting directly with the people currently staffing the information centers, the state would save nearly $100,000 per year.

Unless we take quick action to reduce state expenditures for the information centers, we will be forced to curtail the centers' hours of operation, resulting in less service to the traveling public and reduced exposure for local tourism-related businesses.

We believe that this move is in the best interest of the state of Maryland and the members of its tourism industry, who rely on the local tourist information centers to help generate business. Under the new management system, information centers will be operated more cost effectively and will benefit from consistent and systemwide promotion, while maintaining their traditional levels of excellent service to regional attractions, lodging, transportation and food services.

Sincerely,
Mark L. Wasserman
Secretary DEED

Universal Pictures; directed by Phil Alden Robinson; starring Robert Redford, Sidney Poitier, Dan Aykroyd, River Phoenix, David Strathairn, Ben Kingsley and Mary McDonnell.

Sneakers is a lightweight caper film, romping over a scary premise to those wary of the information age.

What if there were a decoding machine so powerful that its microchip was capable of unscrambling every computer code in the world? In this film, it exists — and is the object of desire by every government, hacker and techno-criminal in sight.

Robert Redford is Martin Bishop, leader of the crack crew of misfit high-tech wizards who steal the gizmo for the government only to discover that they may have been duped by a most dangerous enemy.

Each of Martin's merry men has a shady past. Sidney Poitier is an elegant ex-CIA operative. Dan Aykroyd is a gentle paranoid electronic whiz who sees cattle mutilations and conspiracies behind every bush. River Phoenix is the wiseacre kid. Best of all is David Strathairn, as the blind computer whiz (complete with Braille Playboy) who has radar sensitive hearing.

It is Redford's Martin, whose past as a 60's radical still on the run, threatens to do them all in. His suave, worthy adversary Ben Kingsley provides more than a foil. He is truly Martin's twisted dark side.

Plot here is minimal, but action is fast-paced. The technology (mostly based on state of the art existing equipment) is intriguing. The actors shine most when they have tongue firmly imbedded in cheek (which is most of the time). Mary McDonnell's low key performance as Martin's sometime love interest lacks charisma, but she has a shining moment in a nightmare computer date.

Director Phil Alden Robinson (Field of Dreams) casts a whimsical, pranksterish air to all the ensemble's thefts and counter thefts. His film may lack substantive depth, but it is infectious fun to share the cinematic precocity of these eccentrics who revel in the game of conquering their high tech world.

Rated PG-13 for adult theme, profanity and violence.

1-10 Rating: 8. A group of renegade techno-wizards are blackmailed into stealing a decoding machine that could potentially control the world.

September Term Grand Jury Submits Report

The September Term Grand Jury convened on September 14 and 15 and submitted a report concerning the jurors' visits to the Garrett County Sheriff's and Treasurer's offices, courthouse, the board of education office, Ruth Enlow Library, the county roads department, and the office of the Garrett County Commissioners. The Grand Jury also announced the indictments of two persons with "numerous charges," according to the report.

Courthouse

The Garrett County Courthouse was found to be clean and in order, according to the jury's report, except for the Emergency Services area, which is in need of new carpet.

The records department has records dated back to 1872, and the personnel is going to "open filing" for more space, and eventually to microfilm. This should allow sufficient space for the next 10 years.

Sheriff's Office/Jail

Garrett County Sheriff Van Evans spoke with the jurors about his office and the jail. He indicated a need for more space in the correctional facility. With the number of inmates doubling since 1980, Evans said he must now double-bunk the facility to allow more room for the inmates. He said the average daily population is 50.

The number of this year's arrests to date is approximately the same as last year's.

The sheriff's office employs 10 correctional officers, one cook, one part-time cook, and 15 deputies. The busiest time for the office is 4 p.m. to midnight.

The jail was found to be clean and in order, although the entrance overhang is still in need of repair.

Evans indicated that he is ready to implement a home-monitoring system for non-violent offenders in order to temporarily alleviate the over-crowding. A recommendation is being made for the long-range planning of an off-site multi-correctional facility in the county, according to the report.

The jurors commended the sheriff's office DARE program, and expressed the hope that the officers will be able to maintain it even with recent budget cuts.

Treasurer's Office

Patty Glover, county treasurer, has five persons working in her department. It takes approximately two to two and a half million dollars per month to operate the county. Ms. Glover reported that she is pleased with her staff and has no room for additional employees. She also noted that the vault is full. Jurors noted that space may eventually become a problem.

Board of Education

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools, spoke with the Grand Jury members and gave them copies of the annual report.

Ryscavage voiced his concern that the fire marshal may limit the use of the planetarium. The marshal visits the facility frequently.

Concerning budget cuts, the superintendent stated that funds are allotted from the state at 54%, from the local fiscal authority at 37-38%, and from the federal level at 8-9%. He explained that cuts will come first from the state, then through the local funds which the state allocates to the county commissioners. The education board budget has been cut for fiscal year 1993 already by $45-50,000. Ryscavage has requested that teachers and other employees cut the budgeted spending by 50% to help ease the cuts.

The storage of files continues to be a problem. Ryscavage explained that the rooms are fireproof but there is no sprinkler system in them.

The jurors questioned as to what could be done to help the education system with the exception of more funding. Ryscavage said more public involvement would be appreciated. The Grand Jury commended Ryscavage and the education board for maintaining a high standard of education despite budget cuts.

Roads Department

Robert Fousek represented the Garrett County Roads Department and expressed his concern with proposed budget cuts this fall of approximately three-fourths of one million dollars. This would place the current budget about 26% down from what it was two years ago. The bridges are currently being worked on by county employees rather than outside contractors. This should save the county $750,000, according to the jurors' report.

Fousek said the department is currently working on a recycling program. There is no market currently in this area for newspapers, which causes a problem.

The roofing problem noted by the previous Grand Jury has been partially repaired.

Employees still use the furnace room as a lunch area. The jurors recommended better accommodations for the employees' lunch room.

County Commissioners

The Grand Jury stated that the jurors recognize the difficult task ahead of Garrett County Commissioners John Braskey, Elwood Groves, and Brenda Butscher with the state budget cuts which may amount to as much as $1,500,000 from the county. The roads department will take the largest cut of approximately $750,000. Garrett Community College will take the next largest cut at $300,000.

The Glendale Road bridge project is at a stand-still because there are problems concerning the right-of-way.

The new landfill has to be opened by September 1993 and the old one closed within six months. This is mandated by the state and is a costly project, according to the jury report.

Bush, Clinton and The Disraeli Test

WASHINGTON — Before that thoroughly likeable aristocrat, James Buckley, ran for and won his only term in the U.S. Senate as the nominee of New York's Conservative Party, he had never dined at a McDonald's. With fondness, former Buckley staffers recall their boss's first visit to the Golden Arches when, after waiting in line to order a cheeseburger and fries, he was asked by the teenager behind the counter what he wanted to drink. Candidate Buckley's response remains a classic: "What's your house chablis?"

This vignette could mean that Senator Buckley would have flunked Benjamin Disraeli's test for political leadership. A successful leader, according to the insightful prime minister, must first know and understand himself (politics in the mid-19th century was exclusively a men's club) and also know and understand the times in which he lives.

When applied to the 1992 presidential campaign, the Disraeli test finds an incumbent who seems to think it's still 1984 and who in 1988 had wanted to be Clint Eastwood and now seeks to be Harry Truman pitted against a challenger who understands that it's 1992 but after years of thinking he was JFK now devoutly wishes he were Colin Powell.

In a year when it seems every weekly advertising supplement and 150-watt FM station has its own scientific, in-depth public opinion poll (with a margin of error no more than plus or minus 20 percent), the sheer weight of the numbers argues collectively that the Republican incumbent is politically in deep doo-doo. The wide and wild fluctuations in most of the polls up to now have been almost entirely the reflection of the rising and falling numbers of Bill Clinton.

When Clinton is winning 53 percent in trial heats, his lead has usually been 13 percent and when Clinton's support has slipped to 46 percent his lead has usually slipped to 6 percent. The explanation for this is that the constant throughout most of September has been support for the president which has generally reached a ceiling of 42 percent and a floor of 38 percent of the electorate. Unless and until George Bush can crack through that low ceiling of public support, the Democratic challenger must be the favorite to win in November.

History offers little consolation to the Republicans. In the forty-plus years of modern survey research, no incumbent president has won reelection without a favorable job rating of 50 percent or above. Mr. Bush's marks have consistently been in the high 30's. Add to that the voters' mid-September judgment that Bill Clinton by a 3 to 2 margin would be better on the economy than George Bush and by an even more impressive 3 to 1 margin that Clinton would be better than Bush at creating jobs and you have a glimpse of the bleak picture facing the Bush-Quayle campaign.

According to pollster Peter Hart, the economy so dominates this presidential campaign that all other issues are collectively only a distant second. Hart uses the childhood game of rock, paper and scissors to explain the current electoral dynamic. But this time instead of the paper covering the rock or the scissors cutting the paper or the rock breaking the scissors, the economy, by itself, is all three: rock, paper and scissors.

Each day that the central focus of the day's debate and political news is the economy, it is a good day for Bill Clinton and a bad day for George Bush. Any day that the draft or Clinton's Arkansas record is front and center, it's a better day for Bush.

In fact, Bush has a tough assignment. In the remaining month and a half, the president must accomplish two difficult objectives: He must convince voters that he knows how to and is committed to making his second term different from his first and simultaneously he must, in the jargon of his chosen trade, "blow a major hole" in Bill Clinton's public character. That's the race with six weeks to go.

PSI Ordered For Aurora Man Found Guilty Of Battery, MDOP

Marvin L. McCloud, 39, Aurora, W.Va., was found guilty of battery and malicious destruction of property in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week. Judge Jack R. Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation in the case.

McCloud was found not guilty of a second charge of malicious destruction of property.

McCloud had been charged with those offenses by John King who stated that McCloud had blocked his car in his driveway. He said McCloud then got out of his car and struck him twice in the face. He also stated that McCloud threatened him with a piece of pipe and kicked in his car door, breaking the window. He also damaged a pair of $40 jeans in the scuffle.

In other District Court news, Darren T. Ream, 31, Oakland, was sentenced last week after being found guilty of battery and assault during July 21 court proceedings. A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered at that time.

Ream was sentenced to six-month suspended jail terms, fined $50, and placed on one year of supervised probation for each count. They are to run concurrently. The judge also ordered him to have no contact with Winters.

Ream had been charged with those offenses by Suzette Winters stemming from a June 16 incident in which Ream reportedly threw an object at Winters's head, picked her up by the neck and threw her on the bed, hit her in the face with his fist and threatened her with a gun.

John W. Weeks, 27, Oakland, was sentenced for CDS (controlled dangerous substance) possession. He was found guilty of that charge on July 14, at which time a pre-sentence investigation was ordered by the judge.

Weeks was sentenced to 90 days in jail (all was suspended but 48 hours) and the fine was waived.

He had been apprehended by the Maryland State Police on April 22 when he was served an arrest warrant for another crime. Police searched his vehicle and found two suspected marijuana cigarette butts in the glove box.

Gary A. Ashby, 19, Oakland, was found guilty of violation of probation. He had been placed on probation after being found guilty of felony theft in January court proceedings. At that time, he was handed a one-year suspended jail term, fined $100, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation. He was also ordered to pay restitution to the Durst Funeral Home

Ashby had reportedly failed to make restitution and failed to appear before his probation officer on five separate occasions. He was remanded to the Garrett County Jail for a period of 30 days and his probation was reimposed.

John E. Filsinger Jr., 38, Oakland, pleaded guilty to one count of battery. The judge accepted his plea and ordered a pre-sentence investigation in the case.

Filsinger reportedly kicked a seven-year-old child in the head several times in an incident earlier this year and was charged with battery by the Maryland State Police. Police said there were no marks or bruises on the child, but that a sibling attested to the battery.

A motion to revise the sentence of Gordon L. Walters, 20, Oakland, was denied by Judge Turney last week.

Walters had been sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections in earlier court proceedings after he was found guilty of two counts of reckless endangerment. He had been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office in January when, as an inmate in the Garrett County Jail, he broke one inmate's ankle and cut the wrists of another inmate,

Editor's Note: In the interest of fairness, The Republican news staff has instituted a new policy regarding DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) District Court cases. While many persons charged with that crime are indeed found guilty, some are found not guilty. We feel it is important to print the outcomes either way -- to protect the innocent on the not guilty findings and to hopefully provide one more deterrent to drunk drivers who are found guilty.

DWI CASES

James Eric Kahle, 26, Pa., was found guilty of DWI last week and handed a 60-day suspended jail term, fined $500 ($300 was suspended), and placed on 12 months of supervised probation.

William Edward Boyce, 27, Md., was found guilty of DWI and given a 60-day suspended jail term, fined $500 ($300 was suspended), and placed on 12 months of supervised probation.

Hillary Charles Hoffer Jr., 22, Pa., entered a guilty plea to the DWI charge against him and was handed a 10-day suspended jail term, fined $450 ($300 was suspended), and placed on 12 months of supervised probation.

A bench warrant was issued for Charles Jerome Merrick Jr., 40, Md., for failure to appear in court to face a DWI charge against him.

Kurtus Anthony Aiello, 32, N.Y., was handed a 60-day suspended jail term after being found guilty of DWI, fined $500 ($200 was suspended), and placed on 12 months of supervised probation.

Walter J. Asonevich, 42, Md., was found guilty of DWI and fined $200. He was also placed on six months of supervised probation.

Donald W. Coddington, 48, Md., failed to appear in court on a DWI charge. The judge ordered a bench warrant for Coddington.

Arrests Logged

last Thursday, charged with failing to vacate a family home after being ordered to do so. He was later charged with battery as a result of the same incident, according to the report.

Robert K. Critelli, 35, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failing tc appear in court in November 1986. He was scheduled tc face traffic charges, according to the report. He was incarcerated on $5,000 bond.

Donald W. Coddington, 48, McHenry, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failing to appear on a DWI (driving while intoxicated) charge.

A bench warrant was issued for Amy L. Whitacre, 18, Oakland, for failing to appear in court on September 15. She was originally charged with harboring a nuisance dog, according to the report.

The most striking differences between the two are the absence of the B&O Railroad tracks and the presence of blacktop in the contemporary shot. The old photo is from a collection at the Friend Family Library and Museum in Friendsville and is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican. AAA Health Fair Successful; Volunteers' Work Is Commended

The Area Agency on Aging (AAA) recently sponsored two comprehensive health fairs for Garrett County senior citizens. Thirty volunteers from the Catoctin Association, Central Atlantic conference, United Church of Christ spend two days in Garrett County at their own expense, according to a spokesperson. The volunteers included nine nurses and two physicians. These volunteers donated time and expertise to assure the success of the fairs,

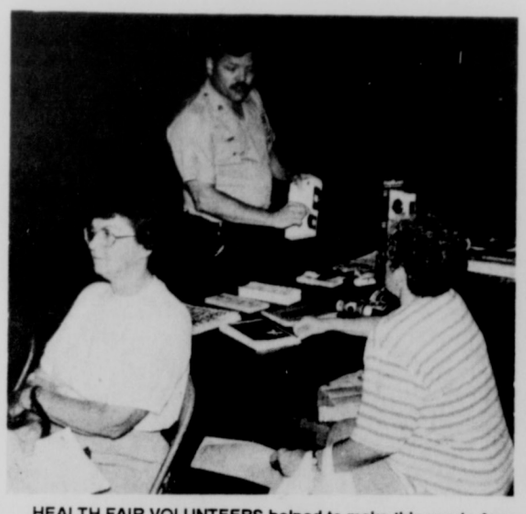
"These fairs would not have been possible without the selfless hours spent by both out-of-county and local volunteers. The AAA wishes to applaud the generosity of all these individuals," said Adina Brode, director of the AAA, "It is heartwarming to know that there are individuals willing to give of themselves in order to benefit others."

Also participating in the fairs were Garrett Memorial Hospital/Wellness Together staff persons Francy Mountain, Kendra Stemple, Lori Peck, Jennifer Moon, and Wendy Wakefield, R.D.

The Garrett County Health Department, another large contributor to the fairs, provided numerous staff persons who acted in various capacities implementing the fairs. They were Norma Bolding, R.N. planning and exit; Jay Cross, M.D.H., drug & Alcohol prevention; Pauline Faucett, R.N., cancer education; Jackie Snelson, R.N., breast/cervical cancer; Linda Moe, R.N., exit; Joelle Plauger, safety belt education; and Ann Sherrard, R.D., nutrition screening.

Those participating in the fairs for the second year were Alvin Friend, D.D.S., providing oral cancer screening, and Jana Kight from Allegany Hearing & Speech Associates. Also assisting with the hearing screening this year was Christine Lindeman.

A vision screening, including tests for cataracts and glaucoma, was provided by James Jones, optometrist from The Vision Group.



Other health fair participants included Cpl. Rick Chaney, Maryland State Police, Safety for Seniors, and Glen Besa, American Lung Association.

The Area Agency on Aging received numerous hours of volunteer service from the Southern Republican Women's Club before, during and after the fairs. Members who served were Bea Crosco, Mary Bennett, Arzella Parsons, Sue Shockey, Pat White, Joan Crawford, and Nancy Helbig.

Volunteers from the community were Betty Foy, Virginia Stemple, Jean Clark, James R. Clark, Mabel Smouse, Edna Friend, Mildred Dunbar (RN), Eileen Beitzel (RN), Betty Shaffer (RN), Mary Katherine Speicher (RN), Ferne Beachy, Helen Vitez, Eleanor Teats, Holly Bartlett, Ruth Lenhart, Earl Wentz, Gladys Betley, Eleanor Deal and Pauline Georg.

Standard Food Service, Mountain Lake Park IGA, Farmer's Market, Midway Discount Beverages, C.P. Martin's, Short Stop, and Hometown Market all donated food and beverages for the volunteer workers.

In addition to providing dozens of volunteers, the Catoctin Association was responsible for funding the project through a donation of over $3,600. Additionally, Garrett Memorial Hospital supported the cost of the prostate screening valued at over $3,800. "Without the financial support of these organizations, the health fairs would not have reached fruition," a spokespersons stated.

HEALTH FAIR VOLUNTEERS helped to make this year's Area Agency on Aging's Health Fair a success. "These fairs would not have been possible without the selfless hours spent by both out-of-county and local volunteers," said Adina Brode, director of AAA. Shown above, left, is Cpl. Rick Chaney of the Maryland State Police, discussing safety for seniors, while above, right, is Dr. Jim Jones, optometrist, testing for cataracts and glaucoma. Below is Tom Bittinger, a member of the Oakland National Guard Armory, where the health fair was conducted recently. He is shown with staff members of AAA.

Don Storck, director of planning and institutional research for GCC, outlined the periodic review report for accreditation for the Middle States Association. The report is a "midway report" on the status of the college that will be up for accreditation again in a few years.

A lengthy review of the GCC Mission Statement and Interim Strategic Plan was also completed by the board at that meeting. The Mission Statement was approved in concept and some numbers have been or will be changed to bring budget cuts up to date with the plan report.

Also discussed at the board meeting was the newly instituted open meetings law in which all state agencies and boards must conduct open meetings and may call executive session within state guidelines. GCC is abiding with that law.

To adequately plan for board meetings, an executive committee was set up. Chairman Charles "Bus" Bender, vice chairman Marjorie Fratz, and one rotating board member will comprise that committee. Suzanne Conger will be the board member to serve for the month of October. Bender also reported on the MACCT (Maryland Association of Community College Trustees) quarterly meeting which will be held October 14 at the new headquarters in Annapolis.

Dr. Herman discussed the worst case scenario if further state financial cuts are announced. He said that the college must, once again, prepare for the worst, although he and the board are hopeful that the cuts won't be as deep as they have been in the past.

The next GCC board meeting will be held October 20 at 7 p.m.

She was recently invited to the Rolling Acres Gospel Sing near Keyser, W.Va., and the Keyser Founders' Day celebration .

DeWitt attends Freedom Chapel on Bear Creek Road, where she is the praise and worship leader. She has ministered in song at various churches and nursing homes, and "enjoys using her voice for the Lord and sharing His love wherever she goes," said the spokesperson.

More information may be obtained by calling 387-9352 or 334-8891.

Death Certificate Fees Increased

The Garrett County Health Department announced this week that fees for death certificates purchased at the Oakland office will increase to $6. The State Legislature has authorized the local health jurisdictions to charge a fee for the preparation and handling of copies of death certificates for funeral directors and the general public. This fee is in addition to the $4 that has been charged by the State of Maryland. The fee for death certificates will increase to $6 on October 1, 1992.

Two dollars of the fee will enable the Garrett County Health Department to defray some of the costs of issuance of the documents, according to a department spokesman. Four dollars will continue to be remitted to the State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene. Copies of death certificates are still available from the State Health Department in Baltimore at the $4 rate.

Local funeral directors were notified of the increase by letter last week. Anyone who wishes more information may contact the Health Department at 334-8116 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Foresters To Hold Regional Meeting Sept. 30

The business meeting, which is open to the public, will be 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Topics of discussion on the agenda will include information on the proposed severance tax on harvested timber, the increase in the fees for the Forest Conservation and Management Program for private woodland owners, and the proposed Maryland Department of Environmental permit fees.

Eastern Star Chapter Meets, Celebrates 68th

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of The Eastern Star, met September 15 at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple for a covered dish dinner in recognition of the chapter's 68th anniversary.

After dinner the chapter was opened in regular form with the Worthy Matron Deborah Raynovich presiding. The flag ceremony was led by Worthy Patron Theodore Raynovich. Mrs. Raynovich's opening thought was "Autumn's Delight."

Those greeted were Juanita Leese and Wilda Hile, Deputy Grand Lecturers of Maryland; Juanita Bosley, Deputy Instructor of West Virginia; four visitors and 25 officers and members. Mrs. Raynovich reminded all about the old fashioned supper on October 29 and the trip to Oglebay Park on Nov. 7. Persons interested may call Betty Foy at 334-3630 or Mrs. Raynovich at 387-8133. Programs were presented for Juanita Leese and for the chapter's anniversary.

The Worthy Matron's church service will be this Sunday, Sept. 27, at 10:30 a.m. in the chapel of the St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Cumberland. Those members planning to attend should take Johnson St. exit, go to light and turn right, go through light, bear left to stop sign, and turn right. The church is at the top of the hill on the right at the corner of Washington and Smallwood streets.

Signs and passes were reviewed by the Worthy Patron and the conductress, Wilda Hile.

The Worthy Matron's closing thought was "I said a Prayer for You Today."

The next meeting will be October 6 for Friendship Night. All members are urged by Mrs. Raynovich to attend.

Potomac Edison Bills To Go Up By 1.3 Percent

In an application filed Sept. 8, 1991, with the Maryland Public Service Commission, The Potomac Edison Company requested an increase in the fuel portion of rates that would increase residential customers' bills by about 1.3 percent.

The increase, designed to produce additional annual revenues of $4.9 million, will take effect on Oct. 3, 1992, subject to Commission approval. Residential customers using 1,000 kilowatthours of electricity a month would see their monthly costs rise 79 cents under the proposed increase, from $63.10 to $63.89.

For the first seven months of 1992, revenues from the fuel portion of electric rates were $2.2 million below the fuel expenses level, according to a PE spokesman. Customers often benefit from Potomac Edison's sales of electricity to neighboring utilities by seeing a reduction in the fuel rate, however, demand for these sales has declined in recent months. An increase in Potomac Edison's fuel rate was last approved by the Commission in November 1990.

The Commission reviews and approves fuel rate increase requests separately from its consideration of all other costs of supplying electricity to customers. Fuel costs have not been included in recent base rate cases filed in Maryland.

Potomac Edison serves more than 180,000 customers in all or parts of seven Maryland counties.

Board Of Revenue Estimates Reduces Earlier Projections By $422 Million

The Maryland Board of Revenue Estimates, consisting of State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, State Treasurer Lucille Maurer and State Budget Secretary Charles L. Benton, informed Governor William Donald Schaefer that it believes the state's General Fund revenue will produce $6.228 billion during fiscal year 1993, which began July 1, 1992. In making the projection the board reduced its earlier estimates, made in December 1991 with some revisions in March 1992 by $422.6 million.

"These are reductions in the amount of income the state can expect to receive and do not include expenditure increases which also contribute to the projected budgetary shortfall," the board noted.

In revising its revenue estimates the board solicited the views of local economists from the private sector, universities and throughout state government as well as national economic forecasters.

Based on its study, the board believes that the employment picture will not improve and the general economy will not turn up at least until the first calendar quarter of 1993. A depressed commercial real estate market, defense cutbacks and continued low inflation will also hold down state revenue growth.

The board's reductions of its earlier estimates came despite accounting for law changes and tax increases enacted by the General Assembly in 1992.

The board's action by major revenue category:

Individual income tax: The board reduced its earlier estimate of $3.295 billion to $3.043 billion. "When we made the estimate in March 1992," Comptroller Goldstein said, "all indications were pointing toward a second quarter recovery. It wasn't until after April 15 that employer withholding payments stopped growing and refunds grew significantly larger than expected. The March estimate was in line with other national and local projections when it was made."

Corporation income tax: The board reduced its earlier estimate of $162.7 million to $130.4 million. While corporate profits are increasing, corporations will be claiming prior losses to minimize their taxes for the foreseeable future.

Sales and use tax: The board reduced its earlier estimate of $1.794 billion to $1.710 billion. The current growth in sales and use tax revenue is about one-half of the inflation rate, indicating the underlying problems in the construction sector of the economy as well as consumer caution associated with employment concerns. In addition, some newly-taxed services are not yet producing expected revenue.

State Lottery: The board reduced its earlier estimate of $327.1 million to $302 million.

Other revenues: The board reduced its earlier estimate of $1.072 billion to $1.043 billion, reflecting law changes and falloffs in cigarette tax stamp sales, insurance premium taxes and district court revenue such as traffic fines.

The Board of Revenue Estimates projected General Fund revenue for fiscal year 1994 to be $6.429 billion, a 3.2% increase over the fiscal year 1993 projection.

RECYCLING BIN IN PLACE AT BROWNING'S -- Through the efforts of the Civic Club of Oakland and the League of Women Voters of Garrett County (LWV), a recycling bin has now been placed at the Browning's Foodland parking lot in Oakland. The groups have contended that some residents need to be made more aware of proper recycling habits, and the visibility provided by the new location will help to improve that situation, said a spokesperson. Representatives from both groups will voluntarily staff the recycling bins during peak hours, and will answer any questions posed by the recyclers. B&S Scrap has had to refuse to take some of the recyclables out of the bins at the dumpster sites because of contamination. As a result, the items have recently ended up at the county landfill. Although steel and aluminum items may be mixed in the bins (B&S has a machine to sort those), mixing glass items presents is unacceptable. Pictured above, left to right, are Bob Mallot, who placed the bins; Browning's Foodland Manager Rick DiSimone; Civic Club President Martha Jachowski; and LWV President Connie Margison.

ROTARY DONATES TO BOY SCOUTS - The Oakland Rotary recently donated $300 to the Boy Scouts of America Potomac Council. Several Thefts Being Probed By Sheriff's Office

Several thefts were reported to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week, and investigations into the incidents are currently underway.

Arthur Taylor, Deer Park, reported to the police that someone had broken into his aunt's home located in the Brunson Subdivision. The owner, Naomi Tregoe, was not at the residence at the time of the theft, which apparently occurred sometime in the last few weeks.

Police responded to the scene and upon inspection of the area, began to locate various items which had apparently been dropped as the culprit(s) fled the scene. Those items were a microwave, telephone, lantern, three kerosene lamps, tackle box, lazy susan with jewelry, and a television. The television and microwave had been dropped and were destroyed, according to the report.

A damage estimate was not available. However, because of the manner of the crime, police officers have some leads in the case.

In a separate incident, Ruth E. Mitchum reported the theft of her son's Seico brand watch, worth $329. The watch was stolen sometime in late June from the Mitchum's home. The investigation has been continuing and there is a suspect in the case, according to the report.

A property destruction case is also under investigation. An employee of Appalachian Mountain Spring Water, Deer Park, contacted police last week after he discovered that 12 windows of the water storage facility had been shattered. A wood frame door had been damaged as well. Witnesses said several youths were loitering at the facility the day before, according to the report. The damage estimate is $100.

Earl Harvey, Gravely Run Road, reported the theft of a white crock and a 100-year-old brass coffee pot. The responsible persons apparently entered Harvey's residence through an unlocked basement door and removed the items. A loss estimate was not given in the report.

Extension Office

classrooms at the university system to be extended to the outlying, rural areas, Dr Ray Miller, president of the Ag Institute, reportedly stated that the classroom already exists in the outlying areas in the form of the university extension service's local offices.

According to an article in the September 22 issue of The Delmarva Farmer, Dr. Shaila Aery, secretary of the Maryland Higher Education Commission, has submitted to possible scenarios to the budget reduction problem to Maryland Governor William Donald Schaefer, both of which hit the agriculture programs harder than the colleges and universities.

One of those solutions calls for the Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources to be cut by 15 percent, and the other one projects a cut of 50.35 percent. One Eastern Shore delegate reportedly stated that the 50 percent cut would render the program "ineffective."

The Delmarva Farmer also reported that Schaefer has received in excess of 2,000 letters last week from farmers, 4-Hers, homemakers, and others benefitted by the cooperative extension throughout the state in support of minimal cuts to the program.

Hevner concluded that, even though the projections for the budget cuts are "constantly changing, we should know more by next week."

She added that the local extension office has had "excellent support from the county government and local legislators."

B&L DONATES TO DPCVFD - The Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department was the recent recipient of a $500 donation from Bausch & Lomb. Butch Sumpter, plant manager, left, presented the check to Tim Gnegy, a member of the Deer Park CVFD. "We have been a long-term provider for local volunteer fire departments because we recognize the important community service they provide for our area," Sumpter said.

the Ruth Enlow Library. In three separate state-wide surveys, the Garrett County library system has placed second in the state, according to the report. The funding has been restored and the bookmobile is back on schedule. The library has reopened on Mondays as well.

The Grand Jury commended Miss Brock's 42 years of service to the library.

Garrett Memorial Hospital

James Harvey conducted a tour of all departments of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The jury found the hospital to be well-organized and to have a friendly atmosphere.

The jurors felt the operating room waiting area should be larger with more seating available. The report indicated that persons were sitting in the hallway and on the floor which made passage difficult. The jurors also noted the need for additional out-patient facilities and emergency room space and staff. The hospital administration is aware of the E.R. space problems and has taken corrective action.

The Grand Jury thanked Judge Fred A. Thayer of Garrett County Circuit Court; James Sherbin, state's attorney; Wayne Wilt, court bailiff; David Martin, circuit court clerk; Paul Frantz, deputy clerk; Ruth Warnick, court stenographer; Edward Golden, foreman; Frederick Sanders, doorman; Cheryl DiSimone, clerk; Susan J. Frickey, clerk; and all other officials for their cooperation.

Hinebaugh Kick In Final Seconds Gives Huskies Win

A tenacious defensive effort by both teams highlighted the contest between the Northern High Huskies and Beall Mountaineers Friday night at the Cove, as neither team could put the ball in the end zone until only five seconds remained in regulation play. That's when Northern place kicker Jon Hinebaugh booted a 19-yard field goal to give the Huskies their third straight win in as many starts and their second consecutive victory over the Mountaineers.

The winning kick was set up at the 1:03 mark of the fourth quarter when Ryan Folk intercepted a Jason Feagley pass at the Huskies' 42-yard line. The Huskies were aided in their drive, the deepest into Beall territory, by a personal foul penalty and a 15-yard pass interference call with just 20 seconds left.

The Huskies held Beall to just 99 yards of total offense, all but 21 of which was recorded in the first half. The Mountaineer defensive unit was also impressive, giving up just 157 yards in total offense. Northern finished with nine first downs, while Beall managed only five.

Senior halfback Paul Edwards led Northern's rushing effort with 66 yards, while junior fullback Adam Patterson paced Beall with 55 yards.

NORTHERN		BEALL

0	First Down Pass	0
0	First Down Penalty	1
9	Total First Downs	5

7-33	Punts-Average	4-26
6-50	Penalties-Yards	5-55
2-1	Fumbles-Lost	1-1
157	Total Offense	99

"The kids really played hard," Northern Coach Tom Vent said, "especially on defense. Our offense is still not where we want it to be, but this win was an entire team effort. We have worked for several years to try to build some consistency and we're starting to see that on the field."

The stingy Northern defense has allowed an average of only two points and 120 yards in total offense so far this season. The secondary is giving up only 22 yards per game through the air.

Named the Defensive Player of the Week was Alan Sebold, who finished with a high of 20 points in the coaching staff rating scheme. Hinebaugh was named Special Teams Player of the Week for his winning kick, while three-year starting offensive linemen Jason Fazenbaker and Greg Wagner were selected Co-Offensive Players of the Week. Receiving the Hammer Award for the best hit of the game was Bill Younkin.

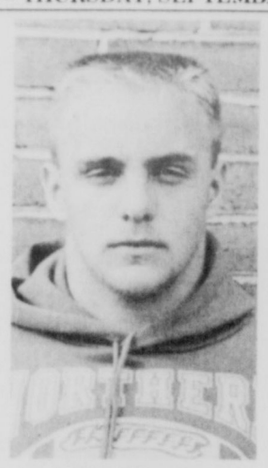
"It's always really difficult to make these selections when you get such outstanding play out of so many kids," Vent said.

While Northern and Beall went into last week's game almost evenly matched, the Huskies will be the favorite of most oddsmakers this Friday night when they host Turkeyfoot.

However, Vent describes Turkeyfoot as a "much improved" football team, a team that is currently 2-1 on the season.

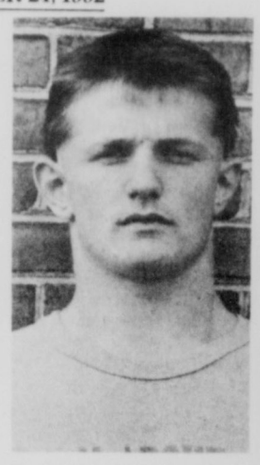
"Turkeyfoot is the smallest school in Pennsylvania that has football," Vent said. "But because of that they have a lot of enthusiasm. I think there are about 53 kids eligible to play football and most of them are on the team. So they really get up for every game.

"They play a tough schedule, with Meyersdale and us among their strongest opponents," he continued. "It would be a real feather in their cap if they beat us."



Vent is also concerned that his team may look past Turkeyfoot to their Oct. 3 encounter at Notre Dame or, more likely, to their Oct. 9 engagement with county rival Southern. "We are really trying to focus our efforts on Turkeyfoot and no one else this week," he said.

Vent said that all of his players are healthy other than general soreness from the Beall contest, and should be "at least 90 percent" by Friday, barring any injuries during practice this week.



The kickoff at Northern is slated for 7:30 p.m.

MOVING THE BALL WAS DIFFICULT for both teams in Friday night's contest between the Northern Huskies and Beall Mountaineers on the Northern field, although Husky Alan Sebold managed to pick up some yardage on the play pictured above. Sebold was also named the Defensive Player of the Week. The game was all defense until the five-second mark of the fourth quarter when Jon Hinebaugh booted a 19-yard field goal for the Huskies to win the game, 3-0. It was Northern's third win in as many outings. They will go after number four this Friday night at home against Turkeyfoot.

Local Whitetail Chapter Adds 78 To Membership

The Garrett Woods Chapter of Whitetails Unlimited, a national organization dedicated to sound deer management, held its first annual membership drive Saturday, September 12, at Silver Tree Inn, Deep Creek Lake.

A total of 78 new members were present for the evening which featured guest speakers and displays from the Maryland Fish and Wildlife Management Office and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources police, along with numerous silent auction and raffle items unique to Whitetails Unlimited. A trophy Canadian fishing trip and a 12-gauge Mossburg shotgun were also raffled and won by Dave Duggan of Deep Creek Lake and Bill Funk of Terra Alta, W.Va.

With the addition of the 78 new members to the existing roster, this brings the total to 111 since the formation of the chapter in January by president, Tommy Thayer. The Garrett Woods Chapter of Whitetails Unlimited is the only such chapter in the State of Maryland and the largest in the southeast region. Proceeds from the drive will be used to initiate and support habitat improvement programs and youth education activities to promote regulated deer hunting as a recognized conservation method.

Musselman Lives Up To Reputation, Crushes Rams

Most area high school football enthusiasts have described the 1992 Musselman team as one of the best Applemen teams ever, and judging from Friday night's performance against the Southern High Rams, such an assessment is accurate.

In fact, Southern defensive coordinator Dave Bosley, who has faced every Musselman squad over the past two decades, said the present team is the best he has ever seen. The Applemen brought their 3-0 record to Oakland and manhandled the Rams, 42-14, to drop Southern's record to 1-2.

Behind the running of Chris Triggs, Andy Horner, and Matt Canby, the Applemen rolled up 459 yards on the ground, while quarterback Roger Butts passed for 82 more yards.

One of the few bright spots for the Rams, however, was the fact that they scored 14 points against the Musselman defense, which had not given up a single point to the three previous opponents, including powerful Martinsburg the week prior. Southern quarterback C.J. Getson scored all of the Rams' points and led his team in rushing, as the Southern offense generated a total of 231 yards. Getson completed nine of 19 passes for 109 yards.

The Applemen wasted little time getting on the board, as they held the Rams on their first possession and then blocked a punt to take over on Southern's 11-yard line. Triggs scored his first touchdown on the next play and Chris Luttrell booted the extra point to give the visitors a 7-0 lead.

11-85	Penalties-Yards	6-43
3-2	Fumbles-Lost	2-1

Later in the first quarter Horner broke loose on a 28-yard scoring run and, after a Southern penalty on the conversion attempt, Triggs ran for the extra two points. The touchdown had been set up by a 42-yard scamper by Triggs.

A 23-yard scoring strike from Butts to Mike Bain in the second period, followed by Luttrell's kick, put the Applemen on top 23-0 at halftime.

Horner scored his second touchdown, this time on an eight-yard run in the third quarter. The failed conversion attempt left the score at 29-0.

The Rams finally got on the board when Getson broke numerous tackles during a 26-yard run and sneaked into far left corner of the end zone to break the Musselman defensive unit's perfect record. Getson also zig-zagged and covered numerous yards on his successful run for the two-point conversion.

Musselman came right back, however, on its next two possessions and scored on four- and 40-yard runs by Triggs to conclude the Applemen's point production for the evening.

Southern recorded its final six-pointer of the night on a 46-yard run by Getson in the fourth period.

The Applemen nearly added three more points when Luttrell successfully booted a 48-yard field goal, but the kick was nullified by a motion penalty. Luttrell's subsequent attempt at 53 yards was short.

The contest was still more costly for the Rams, as Josh Woods went down with a neck injury and will be out of the line-up this week because of continued spasms in his neck. Dave Hammersla re-injured his shoulder, tailback Jeremy Bosley sustained a calf bruise, and Steve Eyler received a serious bruise to his thigh, which will keep him out of the contest this week as well. Josh Hinebaugh continues to be sidelined because of a hip injury.

"We knew this would be a tough evening for us, but we tried to remain as positive as we could throughout the game," Southern Coach Fred Gregg said. "Hopefully we learned some things from the experience that will make us a better team. We just have to pick up the pieces, work harder, and move on."

Gregg praised the efforts of his senior quarterback C.J. Getson, saying it was the best game of his career. "C.J. not only ran and passed well, but he provided excellent leadership during a very tough situation, especially after Jeremy got hurt."

Named Offensive Lineman of the Week was junior tight end Rich Warnick (5-10, 150), who received the highest point total in the grading system used by the coaching staff. Offensive line coach Scott Harvey noted, "Rich has worked very hard to provide good blocking at tight end, which our offense really depends on."

Junior Andrew Lane (5-11, 158) was named Defensive Player of the Week. "Andrew is a first-year player, but a good athlete who is learning very quickly how to play the game," stated Dave Bosley, defensive coordinator. From his defensive back position, Lane was the leading tackler in the game and also had a fumble recovery.

Special Teams Player of the Week was J.R. Reams, a 5-11, 162-pound junior. "J.R. played an excellent game as our long snapper and on kick-off and kick-off receive teams," stated Terry Kendall, special teams coach.

While the level of competition for the Rams this Friday night at Keyser will be somewhat lower than it was last Friday, Coach Gregg is expecting the Golden Tornado to be "a formidable opponent."

"Keyser is a much improved team," he said. "They beat a very good Bishop Walsh team (12-8) and lost to an improved Tucker County team in overtime."

The only similar opponent faced thus far by both teams is Musselman, who defeated Keyser 42-0.

Keyser's flanker-I offense is powered by junior tailback Jammie Fields (6-0, 160) and huge senior lineman Jason Redman (5-10, 290). "These two athletes can literally control the game if you let them," Gregg said. "Fields is a hard and fast runner and Redman is outstanding on the line. We have to figure out a way to keep them contained."

Redman plays in the secondary on defense, while Redman anchors the line at the nose guard position.

"Their defensive line is the real strength of their team," Gregg said. "We are going to continue to mix it up on offense. If we can find a way to run inside on them, we should be in pretty good shape."

The kickoff at the Keyser field is slated for 7:30 p.m.

A TOUGH NIGHT on the home gridiron was experienced Friday night by the Southern High Rams, who were defeated by a powerful Musselman team, 42-14. Above, Southern quarterback C.J. Getson is about to be sacked by an Appleman defender. Getson, however, played one of the best games in his career, as he scored all 14 of his team's points against a defense that had not allowed a single point in its first three games. The loss dropped the Rams' season mark to 1-2. They will travel to Keyser this Friday night. Also identifiable in the photo are Rams Larry Shreve, No. 74, and Galen Glotfelty, No. 73.

Steelers Blank Raiders, 19-0, In Youth League

Zack Leverenz passed for one touchdown, ran for two more, and caught a pass for a two-point conversion to lead the Northern Steelers to a 19-0 win over the Oakland Raiders in Mountaintop Youth Football League action Sunday afternoon on the Southern High School field.

After a scoreless first quarter, Leverenz fired a seven-yard halfback pass to Terry Howard to open the scoring in the second quarter. The run for the conversion failed.

Later in the same period, Leverenz scored on an eight-yard run and Cody Brenneman passed to him for the conversion to give the Steelers a 13-0 halftime lead.

The third period was all defense and the Steelers added an insurance score in the final quarter when Leverenz broke loose on an 18-yard scoring run. The conversion kick failed.

Leverenz finished with 95 yards on 11 carries. Quarterback Scott Sisler connected on six of eight passes for 64 yards.

Pacing the Steeler defense were Brenneman, who had eight tackles and five assists, Jason King, and Jimmy Dennison.

The Steelers, who are now 2-1, are idle this week. Their next encounter will be Oct. 3 at 6 p.m. on the Southern High field against the Parsons Vikings.

The loss dropped the Raiders to 1-1. They will play the Parsons Vikings next week in Parsons at 3:30 p.m. The 1:30 game will pit the Oakland Jets against the Thomas-Davis Rams.

SHS Harriers Defeat BW, Then Place Second

The Southern High School boys' and girls' cross country teams competed twice this past week, defeating Bishop Walsh in a dual meet last Thursday in Cumberland and then placing second in a home meet Monday against Keyser, University, and Preston.

The Southern boys finished with 15 points to top Bishop Walsh with 49, while the Ram girls edged the Spartan girls by a point, 28-29.

Bryan Clickener blew away the rest of the field in the meet against Bishop Walsh, as he recorded a first place time of 18:31. Southern's Matt Newcomb was second in 19:05, followed by Andy Craver, Aaron Chorpenning, Dan Skipper, and Todd Howard, all of Southern. Skipper, who is running with a full arm cast, and Howard are both freshmen, as is Chris Jones, who placed eighth. Tom Breighner, who placed seventh, was the top Spartan finisher.

Tonya Mehanna, of Bishop Walsh, topped the field of girls, recording a time of 22:43. Southern's Jenny Reams, Shannon Dabney, and Kara Freyman followed. Freyman was running in her first meet after being injured early in the season. Freshman Andrea Devens placed seventh.

In Monday's meet the Southern girls placed second with 44 points, with Keyser winning the event with 19 points and University finishing with an incomplete score.

Keyser's Valerie Smith topped the field with a time of 24 minutes flat, edging Southern's Reams by just four seconds. The Golden Tornado harriers won the next eight places, with Rams Shannon Dabney and Andrea Devens finished 11th and 12th, respectively.

The Southern boys also finished second with 39 points, while Keyser won with 20, Preston placed third with 80, and University had an incomplete score.

Clickener again dominated the race, recording a time of 18:56, over a minute ahead of Keyser's D.J. Likens. Keyser runners finished third through sixth, followed by Southern's Newcomb and Howard. Newcomb had led early in the race, but was hampered by cramps midway through the event.

Both Southern teams will compete again this Saturday in the Uniontown, Pa., Invitational.

To Play Volleyball For GCC Lakers

Cara Wachter

Sheila Butt

Three local athletes have signed National Junior College Athletic Association letters of intent to play volleyball for Garrett Community College. They are Peggy Evans and Sheila Butt, Oakland, and Cara Wachter, McHenry.

Ms. Evans, a sophomore elementary education major at GCC and daughter of Gary and Linda Evans, was new to the sport of volleyball last season, according to Laker Coach Margaret Quinn.

"Peggy maintained the highest grade point average of any female athlete during her freshman year," Quinn said, noting that she received the Most Improved Player Award following the 1991 season.

Ms. Butt, daughter of David and Beverly Butt, is a freshman accounting major and a former volleyball standout at Southern High School. Under SHS Coach Sue Snyder, Butt was named Most Valuable Player in the 1989-90 season and won the Most Points award for the 1990-91 campaign.

"I'm looking for Sheila's setting ability to set the pace for our offense," Quinn said. "She is a talented athlete with a sound volleyball background."

Ms. Wachter, a freshman speech pathology and audiology major at Garrett, is the daughter of Walter and Mary Wachter, McHenry. She is a graduate of Northern High School where she was a three-sport letterman. She won the Most Improved award under NHS Coach Vonda Yunker.

She was also selected to Who's Who Among American High School Students two years and received the National Youth Congressional Leadership Award.

"Cara's academic achievements are reflected on the volleyball court, where she maintains a high level of intensity and is constantly trying to improve her game," Quinn said.

Youth Soccer Season Begins; A&A Wins Again

The Mountaintop Soccer Association started its season for the youth this past weekend with participation by more than 250 youngsters of all ages. According to an Association spokesman, it was evident that skills have improved over past years and that development is paralleling the growth of the program.

A limited number of enrollments are still being accepted in some age groups and others have closed their increases now that the season has started. Scores posted by the youth teams were:

Under 16 - DSI Tigers, 2, B&L Bobcats, 0; and State Farm Dynamos, 15, Party line Shooters, 1.

Under 14 - Railey Realty Kickers, 3, The Republican Blast, 1; and Englander's Jammers, 3, Beachy Lumber Express, 1.

Under 12 - A&A Bays, 7, V&S Variety Cobras, 0; Boardroom Cosmos, 5, Uno Wildcats, 1; First United Spurs, 1, Arrowhead, Rangers, 0.

Another highlight of the soccer weekend in Garrett County was the third straight victory against no losses for the Deep Creek Soccer Club, sponsored locally by A&A Realty. The men's team posted a 6-1 win over Frostburg "in one of the best displays of amateur play to come to the area in quite some time," the spokesman said.

Scoring opened with a drive through the heart of the Frostburg defense by center forward Mike Seibert. When he was confronted by the oncoming goalkeeper, James DiCarlo, Seibert placed a perfect outlet pass to his right wing, Eric Beiser who jammed it into the net for the 1-0 advantage.

The second score of the game came just three minutes later when center halfback Nick Heil set up an overlapping pass to Seibert who broke through the defense and slammed a shot off the crossbar and into the goal.

With three minutes left in the first half, Beiser made a long run down the right side and was confronted deep in his attacking zone. He hit a long crossing pass to the midfield about 30 yards away from the goal. The pass found E.J. Benning open who made the shot of the day when he smashed a rocketing volley high into the left corner of the net over the hands of all defenders. The first half ended with a penalty kick being awarded to the visitors when one of the Deep Creek booters was called for tripping in the penalty area. Ray Bear was called upon to take the shot which he placed low and into the corner past goalie John Steele. Controversy ensued when one of the Deep Creek squad was ejected for dissent. (This type of infraction in soccer causes the team that experiences the action to play short-handed the remainder of the game. It also means that the person who received the red card may not play in the next regularly scheduled league game.)

Deep Creek entered the second half somewhat tentative and thinking defensively to protect the lead, but at the five-minute mark made their own luck with some good inside/outside passing that again had Beiser and Seibert in Tandem. The two forwards switched positions on the fly and crossed up the defense. This time Seibert set up Beiser in the middle for a shot an unsuspecting DiCarlo. Seibert was knocked down in the fracas and had to leave the game with an apparent broken collar bone.

With 10 minutes left in the game, Mike Steinrich made a run from the right halfback position into the right forward zone. On the dead run, he hit a crossing pass that was headed for the far post and may have gone in on its own, but left wing Neil Beggy rushed in and chested the ball into the net for the fifth score.

Less than two minutes remained in the game when Beiser once again broke open down the right side. This time he chipped the ball into the middle toward center forward Steve Prosser. As the ball was dropping, the shell-shocked Frostburg goalkeeper attempted a diving save, but Prosser touched the ball first for an arching shot that fell into the back of the goal for the sixth and final A&A point.

Deep Creek goalie John Steele made numerous saves and now has a goals-against average of 1.0. He has not surrendered a natural goal in his last two outings.

The club puts its 3-0 record on the line this coming Sunday against Coney Pizza from Lonaconing. The game will be played on the Bausch & Lomb field at Southern Middle School. The competition starts at 1 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

Dominick's, Toy Chest Added To MSA Sponsor List

The Mountaintop Soccer Association has announced that two more local businesses have been added to the list of team sponsors for the 1992 season.

Dominick's New York Style Italian Pizza Restaurant, McHenry, is sponsoring the entire Under 8 division, which consists primarily of 4-, 5- and 6-year-old players.

The Toy Chest, Mtn. Lake Park, is sponsoring the Lazers, a new team recently organized in the Under 10 division.

"We now have a total of 16 team sponsors," stated Carole Ann Lovett, MSA president. Others are: Bausch & Lomb, Rob Michael State Farm Insurance, Party Line, D.S.I., The Republican, Beachy Lumber, Englander's Pharmacy, Railey Realty, A&A Realty, Oakland V&S Variety, The Board Room, Arrowhead Market, First United National Bank & Trust, and Uno Deep Dish Pizza.

"We are very happy to have the support of such fine area businesses," Lovett added.

The MSA season began with games this past Saturday and will continue each Saturday morning through early November. Games are played at Southern Middle School and Southern High School. Spectators are welcome.

Rangers Arrest

Park Ranger M.L. Cooper, discovered the individuals camping in a non-designated area on the morning of September 20. Cooper and rangers W.C. Thomas, R.L. Riley, R. Lewis, and J. Herndon entered the campsite and took Kern into custody, having discovered the Allegany County warrant. While searching the defendant, officers found him to be in possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

An extended inspection reportedly turned up enough evidence to charge all individuals with the controlled dangerous substance violations. The defendants were transported to the Garrett County Jail and were later released on their own recognizance.

The Positions Of Soccer

(This article is the second in a series of articles designed to help educate the public about the world's most widely played sport. It has been contributed by guest writer, Dave Spirk.)

Last week we focused on the 17 laws of soccer to try to explain some of the basic rules of play. This week we will begin to talk a little about how the game is played. If you want to really see some great soccer action, I strongly encourage yo to come out and watch the Deep Creek men's team this Sunday. You will be able to see in action the things we are describing in this brief series. That is how you will be able to begin to translate these words into your own personal understanding of the game. Now, let's talk position.

Soccer is a funny game in that there are several names for the same positions. However, there are basically three positions on the field. They are defenders, midfielders, and forwards. Let's talk defense first.

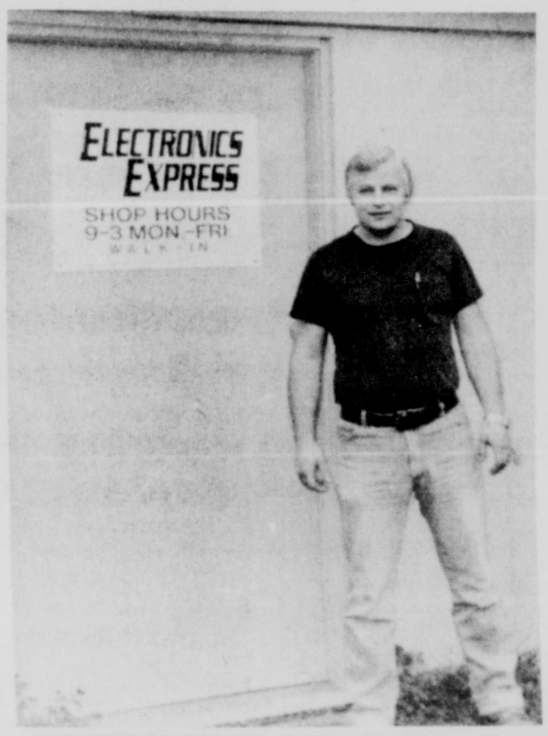
The anchor of the team in the goalkeeper. He is sometimes called the goalie or the keeper, but not a goaltender as in hockey. This is the only person on the whole field who may use his hands when controlling the ball. He can only use his hands when he is inside the penalty area, a large rectangular box painted on the field in front of the goal. He can play anywhere on the field just like a field player, but his main job is to stop shots on goal from going into the net. He is easy to find because he must dress differently from all his team mates and he can't even match the other team's colors. Usually they wear some sort of protective clothing with long sleeves or pants and most often he wears specialized gloves to help in controlling the ball.

Most teams use four other defenders. The one closest in front of the goalie is called a sweeper. His job is to serve as the final line of defense to prevent shots on goal. Usually to the left and right of the sweeper are the fullbacks, sometimes called wing defenders. Their job is to prevent attacks from the outside areas of the field. The final defender plays a bit more up the field and in the middle of the area. He is called a stopper. It is his job to break up an attack that comes through the heart of the defense where shots have a good chance of going into the net.

Using this same system, the next line of players moving up the field are called midfielders. Sometimes they are referred to as halfbacks. Whichever they are called, they are usually designated as left, right, and center. These players must be in top condition because they must set up breakaways on offense and just as quickly recover to prevent breakaways by the opponents. They must go both ways to ensure success. It is commonly known that the team that controls the midfield wins the game. The center halfback is typically one of the best ball handlers on the field and tends to be a play maker for his team.

The front line players are called the forwards. Their job is to score goals. They must come back on defense somewhat, but rarely go into their own territory beyond the halfway line. In the system I have described thus far, there would be three of these players. Their names vary widely. Some coaches refer to them as left, right, and center as with the midfield. Others refer to the outside attackers as wings and the center as strikers. Whatever their name, the job is always the same. These players are typically the fastest on the team.

The system I have described for you is referred to as a 4-3-3 system of play. You never count the goalie when you set up a system, and they are always counted from the back (defense) to the front (offense). Other systems commonly used in full-sided games include a 3-3-4, a 4-2-4, and a 5-3-2. Coaches design their system around the skills of their players and the style of their opponents.



As you begin to watch soccer, you will begin to understand more about the game. One difference you will quickly note is that any player may go forward and score. This is called total soccer when teams have this kind of skill. I hope you find this helpful and welcome the opportunity to answer your questions. Here's hoping we see you sometime soon at the "pitch" (field).

$450 Million

would be cut from the state transportation department.

The budget announcement came after a series of closed meetings between Schaefer and state legislators, and constitutes the eighth time in two years the governor has had to cut spending.

The reductions are necessary because the state's budget for the current fiscal year was based on "overly optimistic" revenue projections, according to reports. Largely, the proposal can be implemented without legislative approval.

Garrett County will suffer along with the rest of the state, according to local officials -- especially in light of the fact that a disparity grant designed to help Baltimore City and the state's five poorest counties (which includes Garrett) would be trimmed by $7.5 million.

The governor reportedly hopes to receive a proposal from local legislators by October 1 that indicates how they would allocate the $150 million in cuts to the local jurisdictions.

Giving Diet Soda To Sick Children Not Recommended

According to the medical journal Pediatrics, doctors often tell parents to give children clear liquids as a fluid and nutrition source for vomiting and diarrhea. The soft drink 7-UP may be recommended. A 12 ounce serving sweetened with sucrose contains about 100 calories, whereas the diet version sweetened with aspartame contains only one calorie. A child given diet soft drinks for a prolonged period developed symptoms of starvation. The authors of the report conclude that pediatricians should "inform parents that aspartame-sweetened fluids should not be used" when clear liquids are recommended.

BURSITIS IS A BURSA INFLAMMATION

A bursa is a small sac, filled with a slippery fluid. It is located between two body parts that move upon one another. They occur in several parts of the body and serve the same purpose as a bearing. The bursa near the ligaments of the shoulder joint is a frequent pain causer.

Rest and treatment are usually required to reduce the inflammation and enable the bursa to regain its slippery quality. You can save yourself a lot of future pain by visiting your Doctor.

The game is almost over, and this is the critical moment. The final score hangs on what Ken does with that ball. If he is successful, he will be the hero of the day. If he isn't, people may not entirely blame him, but even so...

Throughout our lives, even if we never touch a football, we cannot avoid coming up against moments when the "final score" depends upon our actions.

Decision-making is never easy, especially when the decision involves others as well as ourselves, and major decisions almost always do. This is when we need a place to go where we can empty our hearts and souls and let the peace and understanding which is God's flow into us...that place is the church.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SLOW LEARNERS
September 27, 1992

Background Scripture:
Judges 4 through 5.
Devotional Reading:
Judges 6:11-16.

In March, my wife and I rented a car and drove through a sizable portion of what had been until recently East Germany, the German Democratic Republic. One of the places we visited was the old city of Weimar, one of Germany's greatest centuries of culture. Among the many notables who lived here at one time or another were Goethe, Schiller, Bach and Liszt.

On the outskirts of this venerable city, however, is a shameful monument that seems utterly incongruous with the city. On a low mountain overlooking Weimar are the remains of the Buchenwald Concentration Camp, where thousands of Jews and others were cruelly imprisoned and many executed during World War II. Some of those who survived these terrible experiences tell us that, during the war, some of the inmates questioned how, if there was a God, a place like Buchenwald could exist. Some people lost their faith as a result of this experience, while others found their faith intensified.

WHY?, GOD, WHY?

Whenever some tragedy or injustice takes place, people want to know how God can let these things happen. If God is in charge of the world and if he loves us all, how can he permit such inhumanity? Part of the answer is, of course, that while God wills justice, righteousness and peace, he gives us the power to either fulfill those purposes or thwart them. God wants us to be good, but he does not compel us to be so. So then, if God allows us to make those choices, how can he be in control of the world?

I think the answer is to be found in the time frame from which we view the world. In the short run, it is definitely homo sapiens who chooses the day-to-day events of history. But in the long run, it is God who shapes all these human patterns into a pattern which will eventually accomplish his will. We can see some of this in the Book of Judges. No matter what God does for the people of Israel, no matter how many times he forgives the people for their rebelliousness, still the people stubbornly resist God's will on a daily basis: "And the people of Israel again did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, after Ehud died" (4:1). So, in the short run, the people of Israel made their rebellious choices that were contrary to God's will.

Although God does not forbid these choices, in the long run he can even weave these bad choices in a mosaic of forces that allows him to accomplish his will. This is what we find in the story of Deborah and Barak. The people have sinned grievously and brought destruction upon themselves: "And the Lord sold them into the hand of Jabin, King of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor" (4:2). Typically, when they begin to suffer for their evil choices, the people of Israel pray for God's deliverance. Disobedient as they have been to him, he is always ready to listen to their prayers.

MOSAIC OF CHOICES

The military preparedness of Israel is probably at one of its lowest ebbs. The Israelites do not seem to have what it takes to fight against foes like Sisera and Jabin. But God enlists the aid of a gifted woman who wisely governs in the Israelite state. She can't relieve Israel's troubles and neither is Israel's general, Barak, a bold enough man. But God gives Barak a message through the popular woman judge, Deborah, and through her he is able to muster the courage to field his small army against the foe.

In the end, by the power of God the Israelites forge a smashing victory. In time, the concentration camps of Nazism were torn down. In time, the Communist world threat was eliminated. Dictators come and dictators go. No evil power has ever been able to indefinitely sustain itself in this world. Eventually, God manages to undo our rebellious choices and still accomplish his purpose.

And, instead of learning from these long waits of God's justice and providence, like the people of Israel, we quickly forget and soon do again "what was evil in the sight of the Lord." Like them, we are still slow learners.

COVER STORY

Vince Gill prepares to visit Dreamland again

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

Last year, virtually everything Vince Gill could have dreamed of in all of the years he has been watching the Country Music Association Awards came to pass.

He was the evening's big

winner, walking away with Male Vocalist of the Year, Song of the Year ("When I Call Your Name") and Vocal Event of the Year (as part of the New Nashville Cats). This year could be even better. He is hosting "The 26th Annual CMA Awards" (airing Wednesday, Sept. 30, on CBS) with Reba McEntire (herself a multiple-award winner from years past) and is tied with Travis Tritt for the most nominations at five. Gill is up for Entertainer, Male Vocalist, Single, Music Video and Song of the Year.

The reality of winning wasn't all that far from his imaginings, but he hadn't been prepared for one thing. "The thing that surprises me is how nervous you get right before each award," he says. "You really get an uneasy feeling in your stomach."

This year, like last year, Gill doesn't plan on preparing any acceptance speeches.

"My whole life is winged – in every facet, it seems like," he says. "I would never want to be so presumptuous as to think I would win. I just take it all when it comes, and if it comes, and try to speak what's in my heart at that very moment."

He's taking a similar approach to his duties as host. "I'm just going to try to do my job with some humor and with some class," he says. "And I've got an awesome tux to wear. I bought it special for this."

He backs off when he's asked for forecasts. "It's so funny. You look at album sales and all that and think that naturally so-and-so would have to win, but it never works that way. Billy Ray Cyrus was nominated for a lot of things. Whether the success and popularity of that song ('Achy Breaky Heart') will translate into the voters voting for him, who knows? Whether they'll vote for Garth (Brooks) selling 8 zillion records, who knows? Picking who the faves are is kind of like picking horses. If everybody could do it, they'd be making money at it."

Gill is married to Janis Gill, who's in the duo Sweethearts of the Rodeo. "There have been times of not the greatest times," Gill admits when he's asked if it has been difficult having two musical careers in one family. "But, all in all, throughout the 12 years we're been married, the good outweighs the bad by a mile. Right now, they're not doing so good. There was a time when they were doing good, and I wasn't doing so good. It'd be nice to see them both get in sync for a while. But at the same time, maybe it's good that they don't."

Reba McEntire and Vince Gill host "The 26th Annual Country Music Association Awards," which air Wednesday, Sept. 30, on CBS.

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

BERGEN'S BACKGROUND – We hear a lot about Candice Bergen these days because of her success in "Murphy Brown," but I never hear anyone mention that her father was probably the most famous ventriloquist who ever lived. Could you tell me something about his background and if he had any children other than Candice? – W.S., Liberty, N.Y.

Edgar Bergen

Edgar Bergen was born in Chicago on Feb. 16, 1903. He started out as a ventriloquist, working with such puppets as Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd. He became a major radio star and a movie actor, appearing in such films as "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man" (1939), "Charlie McCarthy, Detective" (1939), "I Remember Mama" (1948) and "Don't Make Waves" (1967). In 1937, he was honored with a special Academy Award (made of wood) for the creation of Charlie McCarthy (who was later donated to the Smithsonian Institution).

MOVIES ON TV

The movie week is filled with royal family stories

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

After a freak accident results in the electrocution of the entire royal family, a successor to the throne must be found, and the royal bloodline is traced straight to a plebeian Las Vegas lounge lizard named Ralph (John Goodman), in the 1991 comedy "King Ralph" (NBC, Sept. 27). We follow the exploits of the new King Ralph as he's instructed in the courtly graces but can't seem to shake those endearingly gross American ways. This mostly unfunny farce should give the otherwise talented Goodman nightmares for years to come. Peter O'Toole and John Hurt slum through the movie with genuine British accents.

• As if any more pain could befall the royals, NBC follows up "King Ralph" with a dramatization of the marriage and separation of the second runner-up royals, the Duke and Duchess of York, in "Fergie and Andrew: Behind the Palace Gates" (NBC, Sept. 28). British actors Pippa Hinchley and Sam Miller star.

• Michael Moore directs his critical lens back to Flint, Mich., and the plight of its autoworkers in "Pets or Meat: The Return to Flint" (Sept. 28, PBS; check local listings), a "P.O.V." exclusive. In conjunction with the television premiere of Moore's 1989 critical hit, "Roger & Me," PBS airs this '90s sequel, celebrating "P.O.V.'"s fifth birthday and updating viewers on the "bunny lady," the minister of Flint tourism and a host of characters introduced in the film named Best Documentary by the National Society of Film Critics, the New York Film Critics Circle and the Los Angeles Film Critics Association.

• "The Fisher King" (Showtime, Oct. 3), an expressionistic fable of a New York City shock jock (Jeff Bridges) who hits emotional rock bottom after triggering a listener's mass murder and suicide, has its cable premiere. Derailed by booze and self-loathing, Bridges hooks up with a similarly delusional homeless man (Robin Williams) obsessed with finding the Holy Grail in joyless modern New York. New York City takes on the dimensions of Williams' medieval dementia as he quests for the Grail and his fair damsel (Amanda Plummer), a socially stunted but awkwardly appealing office worker. Bridges acts as a matchmaker for the two hopeless people as a way to make up for a long-ago wrong that also drove Williams into his depression. "The Fisher King" has enough timely social commentary and emotional insight to carry its low moments.

Walsh's wiles should produce Cardinal wins

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

Don't tell Bill Walsh that you can't go home again. Because that's exactly what the former head coach of the San Francisco 49ers was counting on when he agreed to return to Stanford University to coach football this fall.

Stanford visits Notre Dame Saturday, Oct. 3, for a game with Lou Holtz's Fighting Irish. It airs live on NBC.

Bill Walsh

Citing a desire to return to the camaraderie of the game – without the relentless pressure to win that had become inescapable with the 49ers – Walsh ended his three-year retirement to return to the job he gave up 13 years ago for a shot in the pros.

Walsh's success in San Francisco is a matter of record. The Niners had finished out of the playoffs for six straight years when he took the job in 1979; three years later, he had won his first of three Super Bowls with the team that came to define NFL excellence in the 1980s.

The 60-year-old coach has inherited an ideal situation at Stanford: The Cardinal returns 18 starters from last year's 8-4 team that finished tied for second in the tough Pac 10 and played Georgia Tech in the Aloha Bowl. If not for the presence of the Washington Huskies in the conference, Stanford could be favored to make its first trip to the Rose Bowl since 1972.

Four faces from Walsh's successful 49ers teams have joined his coaching staff: Tom Holmoe (defensive backs), Bill Ring (running backs), Keena Turner (outside linebackers) and Mike Wilson (receivers).

Walsh won't make any guarantees, but he believes that Stanford has the potential to regularly rank among the nation's top 15 teams.

• NBC has the doubleheader and CBS the single game when Week 4 of the NFL season gets under way on Sunday, Sept. 27. But the two biggest matchups of the weekend are the San Francisco 49ers at the New Orleans Saints (TNT, Sunday night) and the Los Angeles Raiders at the Kansas City Chiefs (ABC, Monday night).

In New Orleans, the Saints are looking to repeat as champions of the NFC West, while the 49ers are seeking to reclaim that top spot for the eighth time since 1983.

The Raiders and the Chiefs are renewing a rivalry that dates to the early days of the AFL, and both are contending with the Denver Broncos for the AFC West title. The game marks the second date in a treacherous five-game stretch in which Kansas City plays Houston, the Raiders, Denver, Philadelphia and Dallas.

FOX Trots: Fox continues to roll out new series and season premieres. On Sunday, Sept. 27, the network airs the series premieres of its new comedies "Great Scott," "The Ben Stiller Show" and "Woops!" as well as the season premiere of "In Living Color." • Also on Sunday, Sept. 27, the season premiere of "Murder, She Wrote" airs on CBS. • CBS begins a new season of "Northern Exposure" with the episode airing Monday, Sept. 28. • On Monday, Sept. 28, cable's Learning Channel begins a new series, "Archaeology." John Rhys-Davies ("Raiders of the Lost Ark") hosts. • The syndicated series "Catwalk" premieres nationwide with a two-hour movie Monday, Sept. 28. (Check local listings.) The series focuses on six working-class young people trying to make it as a rock band. Sounds like they're reaching for "The Heights." • On Tuesday, Sept. 29, a new episode of "Nova" airs on PBS. (Check local listings.) It profiles pioneer atomic scientist Leo Szilard. • The delayed premiere of "Laurie Hill" finally airs Wednesday, Sept. 30, on ABC. • Ted Turner's latest cable enterprise, The Cartoon Network, launches Thursday, Oct. 1, on systems across the country.

SOAP SCOOP

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Starting Tuesday, Sept. 29, "The Young and the Restless" character Lauren Fenmore (played by Tracey E. Bregman-Recht) will segue into "The Bold and the Beautiful" for five episodes. ("Y&R" and "B&B" are both CBS soaps that are written and produced by Bill Bell.) Fashion executive Fenmore goes to Los Angeles, ostensibly for the Forrester fall fashion show.

Residing now in Los Angeles and just happening to work for the Forresters is nurse Sheila Grainger (played by Kimberlin Brown). Lauren, of course, thinks Sheila died in a fire last February. (Sheila faked her death and fled to Los Angeles, where she became a character on "B&B.") Just before the blaze, Sheila finally confessed to Lauren that she (Sheila) had switched Lauren's newborn son Scotty in the hospital nursery with her own son, who was born on the same day.

In the meantime, Lauren's "son" died. So (are you getting all this?) all the while Sheila secretly had been bringing up Lauren's natural (and still alive) son Scotty.

During her years in "Y&R" 's Genoa City, nasty Sheila would often have nasty confrontations with Lauren (who is now a heroine, but who at one point was a fabulous villainess, too). Just before Sheila "died," the two had a cat-fight that was not to be believed – chiefly because it was all too obvious that stunt doubles were used.

Now Lauren and Sheila are again in the same town! Of course, the two will have to confront one another. (N.B.: When Kimberlin Brown's Sheila first arrived in Los Angeles on "B&B" last February, "B&B" 's ratings jumped.)

With her inexplicable '40s hairdo and non-stop sneer, Brown's Sheila is the closest thing we've ever seen in daytime to Cruella De Ville (the campy villainess of "One Hundred and One Dalmatians"). But the audience loves her! She has also been the only woman in "B&B" history to be able to bring out the true sex appeal of haute-couture designer Eric Forrester (played by John McCook). In playing a character older than he is (McCook is in his late 40s, while Eric is supposed to be in his 50s), McCook's natural appeal had been foolishly watered down. Now, if the show would only let super-serious Eric exhibit some of McCook's trademark personal good humor once in a while!

But Eric certainly won't be laughing when he finds out his new best friend, Sheila, is a kidnapper and an arsonist!

Stay tuned!

"Other People's Money," premiering Saturday, Oct. 3, on HBO, is something out of the ordinary: a romantic comedy about economic issues. Penelope Ann Miller (r.) plays a lawyer determined to block the takeover, who finds the barracuda unexpectedly charming.

BURSITIS IS A BURSA INFLAMMATION
A bursa is a small sac, filled with a slippery fluid. It is located between two body parts that move upon one another. They occur in several parts of the body and serve the same purpose as a bearing. The bursa near the ligaments of the shoulder joint is a frequent pain causer.
Rest and treatment are usually required to reduce the inflammation and enable the bursa to regain its slippery quality. You can save yourself a lot of future pain by visiting your Doctor.

TOUCHDOWN

The game is almost over, and this is the critical moment. The final score hangs on what Ken does with that ball. If he is successful, he will be the hero of the day. If he isn't, people may not entirely blame him, but even so...

Throughout our lives, even if we never touch a football, we cannot avoid coming up against moments when the "final score" depends upon our actions.

Decision-making is never easy, especially when the decision involves others as well as ourselves, and major decisions almost always do. This is when we need a place to go where we can empty our hearts and souls and let the peace and understanding which is God's flow into us...that place is the church.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SLOW LEARNERS
September 27, 1992

Background Scripture:
Judges 4 through 5.
Devotional Reading:
Judges 6:11-16.

In March, my wife and I rented a car and drove through a sizable portion of what had been until recently East Germany, the German Democratic Republic. One of the places we visited was the old city of Weimar, one of Germany's greatest centuries of culture. Among the many notables who lived here at one time or another were Goethe, Schiller, Bach and Liszt.

On the outskirts of this venerable city, however, is a shameful moment that seems utterly incongruous with the city. On a low mountain overlooking Weimar are the remains of the Buchenwald Concentration Camp, where thousands of Jews and others were cruelly imprisoned and many executed during World War II. Some of those who survived these terrible experiences tell us that, during the war, some of the inmates the long run, it is God who shapes all these human patterns into a pattern which will eventually accomplish his will. We can see some of this in the Book of Judges. No matter what God does for the people of Israel, no matter how many times he forgives the people for their rebelliousness, still the people stubbornly resist God's will on a daily basis: "And the people of Israel again did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, after Ehuddied" (4:1). So, in the short run, the people of Israel made their rebellious choices that were contrary to God's will.

Although God does not forbid these choices, in the long run he can even weave these bad choices in a mosaic of forces that allows him to accomplish his will. This is what we find in the story of Deborah and Barak. The people have sinned grievously and brought destruction upon themselves: "And the Lord sold them into the hand of Jabin, King of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor" (4:2). Typically, when they begin to suffer for their evil choices, the people of Israel pray for God's deliverance. Disobedient as they have been to him, he is always ready to listen to their prayers.

MOSAIC OF CHOICES

The military preparedness of Israel is probably at one of its lowest ebbs. The Israelites do not seem to have what it takes to fight against foes like Sisera and Jabin. But God enlists the aid of a gifted woman who wisely governs in the Israelite state.

These firms invite YOU to a House of Worship each week.

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

Last year, virtually everything Vince Gill could have dreamed of in all of the years he has been watching the Country Music Association Awards came to pass.

He was the evening's big

winner, walking away with Male Vocalist of the Year, Song of the Year ("When I Call Your Name") and Vocal Event of the Year (as part of the New Nashville Cats). This year could be even better. He is hosting "The 26th Annual CMA Awards" and Sam Miller star.

"My whole life is winged – in every facet, it seems like," he says. "I would never want to be so presumptuous as to think I would win. I just take it all when it comes, and if it comes, and try to speak what's in my heart at that very moment."

He's taking a similar approach to his duties as host. "I'm just going to try to do my job with some humor and with some class," he says. "And I've got an awesome tux to wear. I bought it special for this."

He backs off when he's asked for forecasts. "It's so funny. You look at album sales and all that and think that naturally so-and-so would have to win, but it never works that way. Billy Ray Cyrus was nominated for a lot of things. Whether the success and popularity of that song ('Achy Breaky Heart') will translate into the voters voting for him, who knows? Whether they'll vote for Garth (Brooks) selling 8 zillion records, who knows? Picking who the faves are is kind of like picking horses. If

• Michael Moore directs his critical lens back to Flint, Mich., and the plight of its autoworkers in "Pets or Meat: The Return to Flint" (Sept. 28, PBS; check local listings), a "P.O.V." exclusive. In conjunction with the television premiere of Moore's 1989 critical hit, "Roger & Me," PBS airs this '90s sequel, celebrating "P.O.V."'s fifth birthday and updating viewers on the "bunny lady," the minister of Flint tourism and a host of characters introduced in the film named Best Documentary by the National Society of Film Critics, the New York Film Critics Circle and the Los Angeles Film Critics Association.

• "The Fisher King" (Showtime, Oct. 3), an expressionistic fable of a New York City shock jock (Jeff Bridges) who hits emotional rock bottom after triggering a listener's mass murder and suicide, has its cable premiere. Derailed by booze and self-loathing, Bridges hooks up with a similarly delusional homeless man (Robin Williams) obsessed with finding the Holy Grail in joyless modern New York. New York City takes on the dimensions of Williams' medieval dementia as he quests for the Grail and his fair damsel (Amanda Plummer), a socially stunted but awkwardly appealing office worker. Bridges acts as a matchmaker for the two hopeless people as a way to make up for a long-ago wrong that also drove Williams into his depression. "The Fisher King" has enough timely social commentary and existential insight to carry its low moments.

MOVIES ON TV

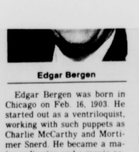
BY FELICIA A. FEASTER



After a freak accident results in the electrocution of the entire royal family, a successor to the throne must be found, and the royal bloodline is traced straight to a plebeian Las Vegas lounge lizard named Ralph (John Goodman), in the 1991 comedy "King Ralph" (NBC, Sept. 27). We follow the exploits of the new King Ralph as he's instructed in the courtly graces but can't seem to shake those endearingly gross American ways. This mostly unfunny farce should give the otherwise talented Goodman nightmares for years to come. Peter O'Toole and John Hurt slum through the movie with genuine British accents.

• As if any more pain could befall the royals, NBC follows up "King Ralph" with a dramatization of the marriage and separation of the second runner-up royals, the Duke and Duchess of York, in "Fergie and Andrew: Behind the Palace Gates" (NBC, Sept. 28). British actors Pippa Hinchley

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Starting Tuesday, Sept. 29, "The Young and the Restless" character Lauren Fenmore (played by Tracey E. Bregman-Recht) will segue into "The Bold and the Beautiful" for five episodes. ("Y&R" and "B&B" are both CBS soaps that are written and produced by Bill Bell.) Fashion executive Fenmore goes to Los Angeles, ostensibly for the Forrester fall fashion show.

Residing now in Los Angeles and just happening to work for the Forresters is nurse Sheila Grainger (played by Kimberlin Brown). Lauren, of course, thinks Sheila died in a fire last February. Sheila faked her death and fled to Los Angeles, where she became a character on "B&B." Just before the blaze, Sheila finally confessed to Lauren that she (Sheila) had switched Lauren's newborn son Scotty in the hospital nursery with her own son, who was born on the same day.

In the meantime, Lauren's "son" died. So (are you getting all this?) all the while Sheila secretly had been bringing up Lauren's natural (and still alive) son Scotty.

During her years in "Y&R"'s Genoa City, nasty Sheila would often have nasty confrontations with Lauren (who is now a heroine, but who at one point was a fabulous villainess, too). Just before Sheila "died," the two had a cat-fight that was not to be believed – chiefly because it was all too obvious that stunt doubles were used.

Now Lauren and Sheila are again in the same town! Of course, the two will have to confront one another. (N.B.: When Kimberlin Brown's Sheila first arrived in Los Angeles on "B&B" last February, "B&B"'s ratings jumped.)

With her inexplicable '40s hairdo and non-stop sneer, Brown's Sheila is the closest thing we've ever seen in daytime to Cruella De Ville (the campy villainess of "One Hundred and One Dalmatians"). But the audience loves her! She has also been the only woman in "B&B" history to be able to bring out the true sex appeal of haute-couture designer Eric Forrester (played by John McCook). In playing a character older than he is (McCook is in his late 40s, while Eric is supposed to be in his 50s), McCook's natural appeal had been foolishly watered down. Now, if the show would only let super-serious Eric exhibit some of McCook's trademark personal good humor once in a while!

But Eric certainly won't be laughing when he finds out his new best friend, Sheila, is a kidnapper and an arsonist!

Stay tuned!

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

Don't tell Bill Walsh that you can't go home again. Because that's exactly what the former head coach of the San Francisco 49ers was counting on when he agreed to return to Stanford University to coach football this fall.

Stanford visits Notre Dame Saturday, Oct. 3, for a game with Lou Holtz's Fighting Irish. It airs live on NBC.

Bill Walsh

Citing a desire to return to the camaraderie of the game – without the relentless pressure to win that had become inescapable with the 49ers – Walsh ended his three-year retirement to return to the job he gave up 13 years

BURSITIS IS A BURSA INFLAMMATION
A bursa is a small sac, filled with a slippery fluid. It is located between two body parts that move upon one another. They occur in several parts of the body and serve the same purpose as a bearing. The bursa near the ligaments of the shoulder joint is a frequent pain causer.
Rest and treatment are usually required to reduce the inflammation and enable the bursa to regain its slippery quality. You can save yourself a lot of future pain by visiting your Doctor.

The game is almost over, and this is the critical moment. The final score hangs on what Ken does with that ball. If he is successful, he will be the hero of the day. If he isn't, people may not entirely blame him, but even so...

Throughout our lives, even if we never touch a football, we cannot avoid coming up against moments when the "final score" depends upon our actions.

Decision-making is never easy, especially when the decision involves others as well as ourselves, and major decisions almost always do. This is when we need a place to go where we can empty our hearts and souls and let the peace and understanding which is God's flow into us...that place is the church.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

SLOW LEARNERS
September 27, 1992

Background Scripture:
Judges 4 through 5.
Devotional Reading:
Judges 6:11-16.

In March, my wife and I rented a car and drove through a sizable portion of what had been until recently East Germany, the German Democratic Republic. One of the places we visited was the old city of Weimar, one of Germany's greatest centuries of culture. Among the many notables who lived here at one time or another were Goethe, Schiller, Bach and Liszt.

On the outskirts of this venerable city, however, is a shameful monument that seems utterly incongruous with the city. On a low mountain overlooking Weimar are the remains of the Buchenwald Concentration Camp, where thousands of Jews and others were cruelly imprisoned and many executed during World War II. Some of those who survived these terrible experiences tell us that, during the war, some of the inmates questioned how, if there was a God, a place like Buchenwald could exist. Some people lost their faith as a result of this experience, while others found their faith intensified.

WHY?, GOD, WHY?

Whenever some tragedy or injustice takes place, people want to know how God can let these things happen. If God is in charge of the world and if he loves us all, how can he permit such inhumanity? Part of the answer is, of course, that while God wills justice, righteousness and peace, he gives us the power to either fulfill those purposes or thwart them. God wants us to be good, but he does not compel us to be so. So then, if God allows us to make those choices, how can he be in control of the world?

I think the answer is to be found in the time frame from which we view the world. In the short run, it is definitely homo sapiens who chooses the day-to-day events of history. But in the long run, it is God who shapes all these human patterns into a pattern which will eventually accomplish his will. We can see some of this in the Book of Judges. No matter what God does for the people of Israel, no matter how many times he forgives the people for their rebelliousness, still the people stubbornly resist God's will on a daily basis: "And the people of Israel again did what was evil in the sight of the Lord, after Ehud died" (4:1). So, in the short run, the people of Israel made their rebellious choices that were contrary to God's will.

Although God does not forbid these choices, in the long run he can even weave these bad choices in a mosaic of forces that allows him to accomplish his will. This is what we find in the story of Deborah and Barak. The people have sinned grievously and brought destruction upon themselves: "And the Lord sold them into the hand of Jabin, King of Canaan, who reigned in Hazor" (4:2). Typically, when they begin to suffer for their evil choices, the people of Israel pray for God's deliverance. Disobedient as they have been to him, he is always ready to listen to their prayers.

MOSAIC OF CHOICES

The military preparedness of Israel is probably at one of its lowest ebbs. The Israelites do not seem to have what it takes to fight against foes like Sisera and Jabin. But God enlists the aid of a gifted woman who wisely governs in the Israelite state. She can't relieve Israel's troubles and neither is Israel's general, Barak, a bold enough man. But God gives Barak a message through the popular woman judge, Deborah, and through her he is able to muster the courage to field his small army against the foe.

In the end, by the power of God the Israelites forge a smashing victory. In time, the concentration camps of Nazism were torn down. In time, the Communist world threat was eliminated. Dictators come and dictators go. No evil power has ever been able to indefinitely sustain itself in this world. Eventually, God manages to undo our rebellious choices and still accomplish his purpose.

And, instead of learning from these long waits of God's justice and providence, like the people of Israel, we quickly forget and soon do again "what was evil in the sight of the Lord." Like them, we are still slow learners.

COVER STORY

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

Last year, virtually everything Vince Gill could have dreamed of in all of the years he has been watching the Country Music Association Awards came to pass.

He was the evening's big

winner, walking away with Male Vocalist of the Year, Song of the Year ("When I Call Your Name") and Vocal Event of the Year (as part of the New Nashville Cats). This year could be even better. He is hosting "The 26th Annual CMA Awards" (airing Wednesday, Sept. 30, on CBS) with Reba McEntire (herself a multiple-award winner from years past) and is tied with Travis Tritt for the most nominations at five. Gill is up for Entertainer, Male Vocalist, Single, Music Video and Song of the Year.

The reality of winning wasn't all that far from his imaginings, but he hadn't been prepared for one thing. "The thing that surprises me is how nervous you get right before each award," he says. "You really get an uneasy feeling in your stomach."

This year, like last year, Gill doesn't plan on preparing any acceptance speeches.

"My whole life is winged – in every facet, it seems like," he says. "I would never want to be so presumptuous as to think I would win. I just take it all when it comes, and if it comes, and try to speak what's in my heart at that very moment."

He's taking a similar approach to his duties as host. "I'm just going to try to do my job with some humor and with some class," he says. "And I've got an awesome tux to wear. I bought it special for this."

He backs off when he's asked for forecasts. "It's so funny. You look at album sales and all that and think that naturally so-and-so would have to win, but it never works that way. Billy Ray Cyrus was nominated for a lot of things. Whether the success and popularity of that song ('Achy Breaky Heart') will translate into the voters voting for him, who knows? Whether they'll vote for Garth (Brooks) selling 8 zillion records, who knows? Picking who the faves are is kind of like picking horses. If everybody could do it, they'd be making money at it."

Gill is married to Janis Gill, who's in the duo Sweethearts of the Rodeo. "There have been times of not the greatest times," Gill admits when he's asked if it has been difficult having two musical careers in one family. "But, all in all, throughout the 12 years we're been married, the good outweighs the bad by a mile. Right now, they're not doing so good. There was a time when they were doing good, and I wasn't doing so good. It'd be nice to see them both get in sync for a while. But at the same time, maybe it's good that they don't."

Reba McEntire and Vince Gill host "The 26th Annual Country Music Association Awards," which air Wednesday, Sept. 30, on CBS.

TV DIALOGUE

BY TONI REINHOLD

BERGEN'S BACKGROUND – We hear a lot about Candice Bergen these days because of her success in "Murphy Brown," but I never hear anyone mention that her father was probably the most famous ventriloquist who ever lived. Could you tell me something about his background and if he had any children other than Candice? – W.S., Liberty, N.Y.

Edgar Bergen

Edgar Bergen was born in Chicago on Feb. 16, 1903. He started out as a ventriloquist, working with such puppets as Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd. He became a major radio star and a movie actor, appearing in such films as "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man" (1939), "Charlie McCarthy, Detective" (1939), "I Remember Mama" (1948) and "Don't Make Waves" (1967). In 1937, he was honored with a special Academy Award (made of wood) for the creation of Charlie McCarthy (who was later donated to the Smithsonian Institution).

MOVIES ON TV

BY FELICIA A. FEASTER

After a freak accident results in the electrocution of the entire royal family, a successor to the throne must be found, and the royal bloodline is traced straight to a plebeian Las Vegas lounge lizard named Ralph (John Goodman), in the 1991 comedy "King Ralph" (NBC, Sept. 27). We follow the exploits of the new King Ralph as he's instructed in the courtly graces but can't seem to shake those endearingly gross American ways. This mostly unfunny farce should give the otherwise talented Goodman nightmares for years to come. Peter O'Toole and John Hurt slum through the movie with genuine British accents.

• As if any more pain could befall the royals, NBC follows up "King Ralph" with a dramatization of the marriage and separation of the second runner-up royals, the Duke and Duchess of York, in "Fergie and Andrew: Behind the Palace Gates" (NBC, Sept. 28). British actors Pippa Hinchley and Sam Miller star.

• Michael Moore directs his critical lens back to Flint, Mich., and the plight of its autoworkers in "Pets or Meat: The Return to Flint" (Sept. 28, PBS; check local listings), a "P.O.V." exclusive. In conjunction with the television premiere of Moore's 1989 critical hit, "Roger & Me," PBS airs this '90s sequel, celebrating "P.O.V."'s fifth birthday and updating viewers on the "bunny lady," the minister of Flint tourism and a host of characters introduced in the film named Best Documentary by the National Society of Film Critics, the New York Film Critics Circle and the Los Angeles Film Critics Association.

• "The Fisher King" (Showtime, Oct. 3), an expressionistic fable of a New York City shock jock (Jeff Bridges) who hits emotional rock bottom after triggering a listener's mass murder and suicide, has its cable premiere. Derailed by booze and self-loathing, Bridges hooks up with a similarly delusional homeless man (Robin Williams) obsessed with finding the Holy Grail in joyless modern New York. New York City takes on the dimensions of Williams' medieval dementia as he quests for the Grail and his fair damsel (Amanda Plummer), a socially stunted but awkwardly appealing office worker. Bridges acts as a matchmaker for the two hopeless people as a way to make up for a long-ago wrong that also drove Williams into his depression. "The Fisher King" has enough timely social commentary and emotional insight to carry its low moments.

Walsh's wiles should produce Cardinal wins

BY CHRISTOPHER HULL

Don't tell Bill Walsh that you can't go home again. Because that's exactly what the former head coach of the San Francisco 49ers was counting on when he agreed to return to Stanford University to coach football this fall.

Stanford visits Notre Dame Saturday, Oct. 3, for a game with Lou Holtz's Fighting Irish. It airs live on NBC.

Bill Walsh

Citing a desire to return to the camaraderie of the game – without the relentless pressure to win that had become inescapable with the 49ers – Walsh ended his three-year retirement to return to the job he gave up 13 years ago for a shot in the pros.

Walsh's success in San Francisco is a matter of record. The Niners had finished out of the playoffs for six straight years when he took the job in 1979; three years later, he had won his first of three Super Bowls with the team that came to define NFL excellence in the 1980s.

The 60-year-old coach has inherited an ideal situation at Stanford: The Cardinal returns 18 starters from last year's 8-4 team that finished tied for second in the tough Pac 10 and played Georgia Tech in the Aloha Bowl. If not for the presence of the Washington Huskies in the conference, Stanford could be favored to make its first trip to the Rose Bowl since 1972.

Four faces from Walsh's successful 49ers teams have joined his coaching staff: Tom Holmoe (defensive backs), Bill Ring (running backs), Keena Turner (outside linebackers) and Mike Wilson (receivers).

Walsh won't make any guarantees, but he believes that Stanford has the potential to regularly rank among the nation's top 15 teams.

• NBC has the doubleheader and CBS the single game when Week 4 of the NFL season gets under way on Sunday, Sept. 27. But the two biggest matchups of the weekend are the San Francisco 49ers at the New Orleans Saints (TNT, Sunday night) and the Los Angeles Raiders at the Kansas City Chiefs (ABC, Monday night).

In New Orleans, the Saints are looking to repeat as champions of the NFC West, while the 49ers are seeking to reclaim that top spot for the eighth time since 1983.

The Raiders and the Chiefs are renewing a rivalry that dates to the early days of the AFL, and both are contending with the Denver Broncos for the AFC West title. The game marks the second date in a treacherous five-game stretch in which Kansas City plays Houston, the Raiders, Denver, Philadelphia and Dallas.

FOX Trots: Fox continues to roll out new series and season premieres. On Sunday, Sept. 27, the network airs the series premieres of its new comedies "Great Scott," "The Ben Stiller Show" and "Woops!" as well as the season premiere of "In Living Color." • Also on Sunday, Sept. 27, the season premiere of "Murder, She Wrote" airs on CBS. • CBS begins a new season of "Northern Exposure" with the episode airing Monday, Sept. 28. • On Monday, Sept. 28, cable's Learning Channel begins a new series, "Archaeology." John Rhys-Davies ("Raiders of the Lost Ark") hosts. • The syndicated series "Catwalk" premieres nationwide with a two-hour movie Monday, Sept. 28. (Check local listings.) The series focuses on six working-class young people trying to make it as a rock band. Sounds like they're reaching for "The Heights." • On Tuesday, Sept. 29, a new episode of "Nova" airs on PBS. (Check local listings.) It profiles pioneer atomic scientist Leo Szilard. • The delayed premiere of "Laurie Hill" finally airs Wednesday, Sept. 30, on ABC. • Ted Turner's latest cable enterprise, The Cartoon Network, launches Thursday, Oct. 1, on systems across the country.

SOAP SCOOP

BY CONNIE PASSALACQUA

Starting Tuesday, Sept. 29, "The Young and the Restless" character Lauren Fenmore (played by Tracey E. Bregman-Recht) will segue into "The Bold and the Beautiful" for five episodes. ("Y&R" and "B&B" are both CBS soaps that are written and produced by Bill Bell.) Fashion executive Fenmore goes to Los Angeles, ostensibly for the Forrester fall fashion show.

Residing now in Los Angeles and just happening to work for the Forresters is nurse Sheila Grainger (played by Kimberlin Brown). Lauren, of course, thinks Sheila died in a fire last February. (Sheila faked her death and fled to Los Angeles, where she became a character on "B&B.") Just before the blaze, Sheila finally confessed to Lauren that she (Sheila) had switched Lauren's newborn son Scotty in the hospital nursery with her own son, who was born on the same day.

In the meantime, Lauren's "son" died. So (are you getting all this?) all the while Sheila secretly had been bringing up Lauren's natural (and still alive) son Scotty.

During her years in "Y&R" 's Genoa City, nasty Sheila would often have nasty confrontations with Lauren (who is now a heroine, but who at one point was a fabulous villainess, too). Just before Sheila "died," the two had a cat-fight that was not to be believed – chiefly because it was all too obvious that stunt doubles were used.

Now Lauren and Sheila are again in the same town! Of course, the two will have to confront one another. (N.B.: When Kimberlin Brown's Sheila first arrived in Los Angeles on "B&B" last February, "B&B" 's ratings jumped.)

With her inexplicable '40s hairdo and non-stop sneer, Brown's Sheila is the closest thing we've ever seen in daytime to Cruella De Ville (the campy villainess of "One Hundred and One Dalmatians"). But the audience loves her! She has also been the only woman in "B&B" history to be able to bring out the true sex appeal of haute-couture designer Eric Forrester (played by John McCook). In playing a character older than he is (McCook is in his late 40s, while Eric is supposed to be in his 50s), McCook's natural appeal had been foolishly watered down. Now, if the show would only let super-serious Eric exhibit some of McCook's trademark personal good humor once in a while!

But Eric certainly won't be laughing when he finds out his new best friend, Sheila, is a kidnapper and an arsonist!

IN FOCUS

"Other People's Money," premiering Saturday, Oct. 3, on HBO, is something out of the ordinary: a romantic comedy about economic issues. Gregory Peck (l.) plays the old-fashioned proprietor of a debt-free cable company that a Wall Street barracuda (Danny DeVito, c.) considers ripe for takeover. Penelope Ann Miller (r.) plays a lawyer determined to block the takeover, who finds the barracuda unexpectedly charming.

IN FOCUS

Nigerian fullback Christian Okoye leads the Kansas City Chiefs when they host their AFC West rivals, the Los Angeles Raiders, on ABC's "Monday Night Football" Sept. 28. The Sporting News rated the annual Chiefs-Raiders reunions second only to the Redskins-Cowboys rivalry in intensity. Originally known as the Dallas Texans in the old AFL before moving to Kansas City in 1963, the Chiefs have played the Raiders a total of 66 times.

B&L PROVIDES TRAINING -- As a spinoff to the Maryland 2000 kickoff in January, Garrett County Board of Education supervisors, administrators, and principals received two days of training, August 19-20, courtesy of the Bausch & Lomb Corporation. Bill Pickering, training manager for the local plant, pictured, conducted the workshop to develop interpersonal skills for use in today's team-oriented environment. The activity focused on developing skills for meeting participation, leading meetings, handling difficult situations, and reaching agreement and concensus. "It was a great opportunity to share the kind of skills we are providing employees at Bausch & Lomb with leaders in public education. This kind of sharing is critical for our children's sake and for growth in Garrett County," Pickering said. Luther Parrack, director of secondary education, said, "I appreciated Bill's taking the opportunity to share Bausch & Lomb resources with the school system. The school staffs would be well advised to make every effort to apply the skills that Mr. Pickering shared with us."

Modern Humanities Master Of Arts Offered At FSU

The Modern Humanities Institute of Frostburg State University announces a three-year program leading to the degree of master of arts in modern humanities. The program is designed specifically for those individuals who have the desire and capacity for intense, compressed graduate study of the humanities and for independent work outside the classroom.

The three areas of study in the Modern Humanities program are philosophy, English, and history. The common thread which unites these disciplines is the concern for values. Ethical and moral issues of the 20th century will be examined from these three perspectives. The program runs for three consecutive summers during the month of July with the first area of concentration being Philosophy which begins July, 1993.

Candidates who would be interested in such a program include: secondary education teachers, school librarians, county librarians, higher education teachers and any member of the community who wishes to obtain an advanced degree from an accredited four-year institution.

For further information, persons may write Dr. Nicholas Clulee, Director, Modern Humanities Institute, Frostburg State University, or phone (301) 689-4428.

SBA Extends Lending Program For Businesses

Patricia Saiki, administrator of the U.S. Small Business Administration, has announced the extension of a new guaranteed lending program to the agency's Mid-Atlantic region that will provide a fresh source of needed short-term credit for Maryland small businesses.

A one-year pilot "Revolving Line of Credit" program was introduced last year in SBA's New England region. The extension and broadening of the pilot program will last one year until September 30, 1993. States included in the extension are Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. SBA's Baltimore District Office will administer the program through its participating Maryland SBA-guaranty lenders.

"As the nation emerges from the recession, small businesses still tell us they're experiencing a 'credit crunch'" said Catherine Killian, SBA's Mid-Atlantic regional administrator. "President Bush asked Administrator Saiki to initiate creative solutions to the nation's economic challenges, and the Revolving Line of Credit program is one result. With the program's expansion, SBA can now, with the help of our lending partners, keep Maryland factories open, keep workers working and help our small firms get the financing to produce and deliver their next order," added Killian.

Under the program, SBA will guarantee up to 75 percent of revolving credit lines extended by conventional commercial lenders to small businesses that cannot otherwise get such financing. The credit is intended to provide working capital during the time between the purchase order or delivery of finished products and payment for those products. The program allows for continuous borrowings and repayments during the period of the loan, not to exceed the one-year pilot.

Charles J. Gaston, SBA's Baltimore District director, emphasized that prospective borrowers will still have to meet the agency's lending standards to qualify for the program. The amount of credit available to each borrower will be based on the firm's short-term working capital needs. The maximum credit limit will be determined by formulas based on the borrower's inventory and accounts receivable, which are pledged as collateral.

SBA loan information is available through the Baltimore District Office by calling (410) 962-4392, or at local banks.

GRAIN

If you knew half the story, you'd eat twice as much.

When was the last time someone said you needed to eat more? Well, fix yourself a sandwich or grab a bagel because according to nutritionists you're not getting enough of a good thing.

That good thing is grain. Or, translated into food cravings, delicious pasta, fresh bread, crunchy cereal or that mid-afternoon muffin that holds you over until dinner. Now, when you crave them, eat them. Because, A, they're good for you. And B, you're not getting enough grain products in your diet.

How much is enough? U.S. Dietary Guidelines recommend that we eat 6 to 11 servings of grain products daily, depending on our activity level. This will provide proper amounts of energizing complex carbohydrates, help replace unwanted fat calories and supply two needed types of fiber.

And how much are we actually getting? Most of us are woefully short of the dietary recommendation. Researchers estimate we average just 4 servings a day.

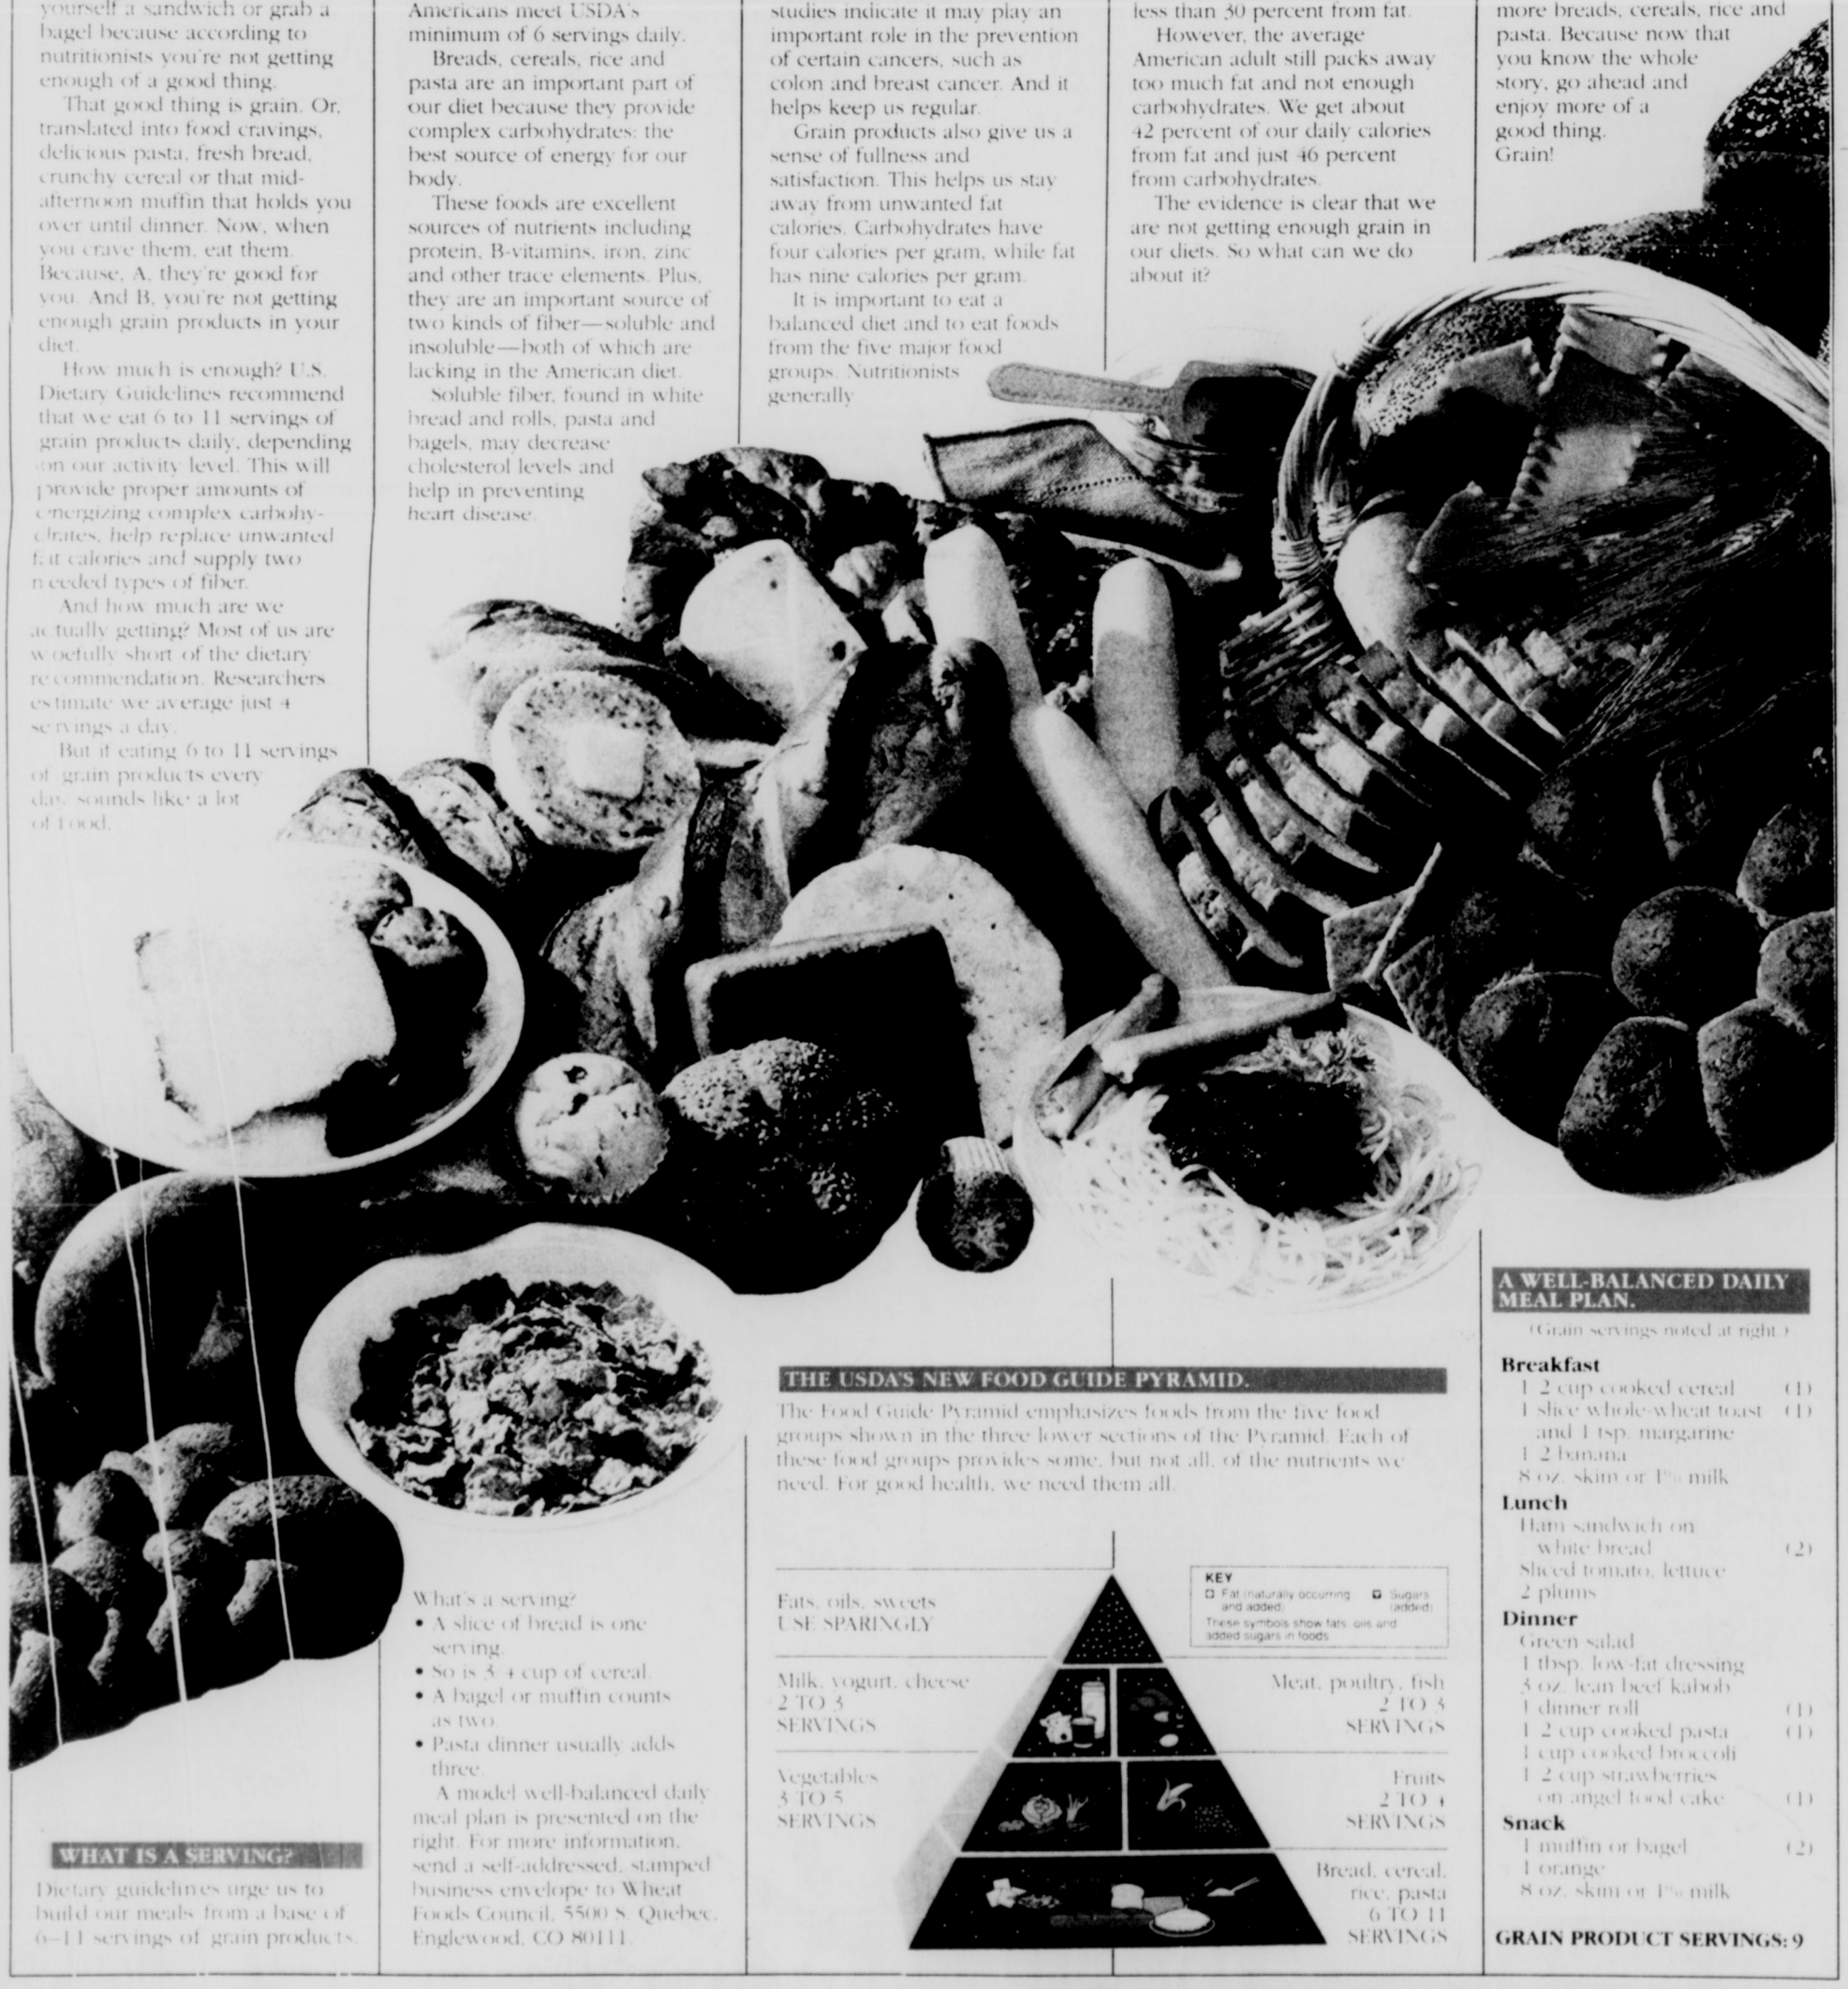
But if eating 6 to 11 servings of grain products every day sounds like a lot of food, don't worry. It isn't. For example, a slice of bread is a single serving. Adding just two slices a day would help most Americans meet USDA's minimum of 6 servings daily.

Breads, cereals, rice and pasta are an important part of our diet because they provide complex carbohydrates: the best source of energy for our body.

These foods are excellent sources of nutrients including protein, B-vitamins, iron, zinc and other trace elements. Plus, they are an important source of two kinds of fiber—soluble and insoluble—both of which are lacking in the American diet.

Soluble fiber, found in white bread and rolls, pasta and bagels, may decrease cholesterol levels and help in preventing heart disease.

Insoluble fiber, found in wheat bran and whole grains, plays an important role in the digestive system. Many research studies indicate it may play an important role in the prevention of certain cancers, such as colon and breast cancer. And it helps keep us regular.



Grain products also give us a sense of fullness and satisfaction. This helps us stay away from unwanted fat calories. Carbohydrates have four calories per gram, while fat has nine calories per gram.

It is important to eat a balanced diet and to eat foods from the five major food groups. Nutritionists generally recommend that we get 55–60 percent of our daily caloric intake from carbohydrates, 10–15 percent from protein and less than 30 percent from fat.

However, the average American adult still packs away too much fat and not enough carbohydrates. We get about 42 percent of our daily calories from fat and just 46 percent from carbohydrates.

The evidence is clear that we are not getting enough grain in our diets. So what can we do about it?

Well, here's some food for thought. Instead of taking a guilt trip about eating more, take a trip to the kitchen for more breads, cereals, rice and pasta. Because now that you know the whole story, go ahead and enjoy more of a good thing. Grain!

WHAT IS A SERVING?

Dietary guidelines urge us to build our meals from a base of 6–11 servings of grain products.

What's a serving?

- A slice of bread is one serving.
- So is 3/4 cup of cereal.
- A bagel or muffin counts as two.
- Pasta dinner usually adds three.

A model well-balanced daily meal plan is presented on the right. For more information, send a self-addressed, stamped business envelope to Wheat Foods Council, 5500 S. Quebec, Englewood, CO 80111.

THE USDA'S NEW FOOD GUIDE PYRAMID.

The Food Guide Pyramid emphasizes foods from the five food groups shown in the three lower sections of the Pyramid. Each of these food groups provides some, but not all, of the nutrients we need. For good health, we need them all.

A WELL-BALANCED DAILY MEAL PLAN.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Seaman Recruit Curtis W. Tasker, son of Reese Tasker Jr., Route 3, Oakland, recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla.

During the cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupation fields.

Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid.

Tasker, a 1982 graduate of Southern High School, joined the Navy in June 1992.

Airman William K. Bray has graduated from the missile maintenance specialist course at Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, Ill.

Students were taught the operation and maintenance of missile silo equipment, including hydraulic, pneumatic, electronic, and mechanical systems.

Bray, son of William E. and Mildred A. Bray, Route 1, Oakland, is a 1991 graduate of Southern High School.

U.S. Marine Lance Cpl. Michael L. Householder, son of Robert L. and Esther Householder, Oakland, recently returned from a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific with the 13th Marine Expeditionary Unit (Special Operations Capable).

The 13th MEU departed San Diego as the Marine Landing Force for the amphibious assault ship USS Okinawa Amphibious Ready Group (ARG). Householder embarked with his fellow Marines aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Okinawa, the amphibious cargo ship USS Durham, the amphibious transport dock USS Duluth, the dock landing ship US Fort McHenry and the tank landing ship USS Tuscaloosa.

While deployed during "WestPac-92," Householder participated in numerous exercises which enhanced the 13th MEU's ability to serve as a force-in-readiness for contingency operations throughout the world. He also participated in civil action projects in several countries by helping build schools, delivering books, medical supplies and food. Householder also had the opportunity to visit many countries including the Republic of the Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Africa, Thailand, Singapore and Australia.

Householder, a 1988 graduate of Southern High School, joined the Marine Corps in February 1991.

U.S. Navy Seaman Roger W. Ashcraft, a 1989 graduate of Terra Alta High School, Terra Alta, W.Va., is currently aboard the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga, homeported in Mayport, Fla., and midway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean.

Ashcraft's ship is presently conducting operations in the Adriatic Sea, establishing a U.S. Navy presence in that troubled region.

Since May, Ashcraft crossed the Atlantic, transited the Strait of Gibraltar, Messina, Bonaficio and Sicily. Ashcraft and his shipmates visited Naples, Italy; Palma, Spain; Cannes and Toulon, France; and Rhodes, Greece. Saratoga sailors conducted 30 underway replenishment and participated in several multi-national training exercises with the allies.

The Saratoga is more than 1,000 feet long and displaces nearly 80,000 tons. With her air wing of 75 aircraft, the ship has a crew of more than 5,000. Saratoga operates with a battle group of surface combatants, submarines and logistics ships.

Ashcraft joined the Navy in June 1989.

U.S. Marine Lance Cpl. Edward J. Delilo, son of Patsy J. Bolyard; Route 1, Swanton, is currently with the 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit, Camp Lejeune, N.C., which was involved in search and rescue efforts earlier this month for an Italian G-222 cargo plane with four people aboard that went down in what was formerly known as Yugoslavia while flying United Nations relief missions into Sarajevo.

The incident marked the first time Marines had been sent into the country. The Marine flew their CH-53 Super Stallion helicopters, escorted by AH-1W Cobra helicopter gunships, to the crash site.

After the two Cobra helicopter gunships, where forced to return to the USS Iwo Jima because of low fuel, the CH-53's used their night vision skills to continue the search. The remaining helicopters drew small arms fire from the ground during the search, but all were able to take evasive action and return to the ship safely.

During debriefing and planning for the next search and rescue mission for the downed aircraft, word was received that a United Nations convoy had found the wreckage and no survivors were reported.

The USS two Jima and its Marines were underway in the Adriatic Sea in support of Operation Provide Promise at the time of the incident.

Delilo, a 1991 graduate of Westmar High School, Lonaconing, joined the Marine Corps in June 1991.

U.S. Navy Fireman Recruit Matthew S. Riley, son of Reece L. Riley, Route 3, Deer Park, is currently aboard the submarine tender USS Hunley, homeported in Norfolk, Va., and is part of the U.S. Navy's hurricane relief effort in South Florida.

In what some are calling "Operation Help from the Sea," a Navy Task Force is bringing much needed food and supplies to the beleaguered area.

Riley and sailors from five other Navy ships are helping victims of Hurricane Andrew. Riley and his shipmates brought more than 112 tons of frozen and chilled food, 84 tons of dried food, and 182 tons of various relief supplies, including paper products, plywood, chain saws and linens.

Other Navy ships in Miami include the destroyer tender USS Sierra, the combat stores ship USS Sylvania, the amphibious transport dock USS Ponce, the dock landing ship USS Ashland, and the salvage ship USS Opportune. All together, the six ships delivered more than 2,500 tons of food and relief supplies. In addition, there specialized repair facilities have welding equipment, machine tooling, electronics repair and a wide range of services. Seabees from construction battalion units are on scene to help restore and rebuild the area.

Riley's ship is able to make its own fresh water and power, has its own communications, and carries skilled sailors ready to help.

The 1990 graduate of Southern Garrett County High School joined the Navy in February 1992.

In a photo caption recently published in The Republican newspaper, it was incorrectly stated that Richard C. Browning was a retired colonel in the U.S. Army. He was, in fact, a colonel in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Former Oakland Resident Assists In Hurricane Andrew Relief Effort

Petty Officer 1st Class Richard Anderson

by JOC (SW) Millie Tamberg

Miami, Fla. -- If the USS Sierra could speak, what a tale she'd tell. The 48-year-old Navy destroyer tender, nicknamed "The Ship with Helping Hands," recently deployed to South Florida to assist in Hurricane Andrew relief efforts. The deployment adds another page to the ship's colorful history of going where the action is -- a history which began in the Pacific Theatre during the last months of World War II.

Richard Anderson, 30, the son of Carol Anderson of Danville, Va., and the late C.R. (Andy) Anderson, and the grandson of Florence and Wayne Wolfe, of the Lake Ford area near Cranesville, was on board for this piece of the Sierra's long voyage into the annals of naval accomplishments. When Anderson left the Sierra's pier at Charleston's, S.C. Naval base to begin its transit to South Florida, he did not know what to expect. He did know, however, that he wanted to help.

"It's a good feeling to be able to be where I am needed the most and to put my Navy training to work for the victims of the hurricane," Anderson said.

According to Anderson, the advantage of sending naval vessels to the scene of a natural disaster is that ships like the Sierra are essentially self-supporting. They do not place additional burdens for support on an area lacking even basic services.

Upon arriving at the Port of Miami, Sierra off-loaded food and other relief supplies, in addition to 15 tons of sorely needed tools. Perhaps its most important contribution to the rebuilding effort will be provided by the technically skilled men and women who make up the crew of the Sierra.

Anderson, a 1980 graduate of George Washington High School, works as a hospital corpsman. "I am trained in emergency and preventative medicine in addition to being a qualified laboratory technician," Anderson explained.

One of the major relief efforts with which Sierra has been involved is the restoration of four elementary schools. When Sierra working parties arrived, insulation dangled from the ceilings of the schools. The floors were covered with mud. In some classrooms residents had hung American flags over the few undamaged chalkboards.

Sierra crewmen were given a deadline of September 15 to complete the clean-up of their schools. Dade County School officials hope to re-open local classrooms on that date.

Sierra volunteers finished their portion of work at the Avocado Elementary School on September 5. Avocado Elementary serves learning and physically disadvantaged students drawn from 22 other nearby schools.

The mood at Avocado School was one of teamwork as crewmembers worked alongside employees of the Dade County School District. One hundred small panes of plexiglass, brought from the Sierra specifically for the purpose, were used to replace the school's broken or damaged windows.

Captain Robert Kamrath, the commanding officer of USS Sierra, has become a familiar figure at the sites where his crewmembers are at work. "I've personally toured the schools under restoration," he said, "and the work is progressing well. Sierra sailors are eagerly engaged in the task at hand and morale is exceptionally high.

"I would expect that because of the current superb support, these schools should open on schedule, allowing 4,000 students to return to their classrooms."

Sierra crewmembers are also feeding law enforcement and rescue workers at what's left of Homestead's McDonald's restaurant, temporarily labeled "The Hard Cop Cafe." Three shifts of 20 sailors working in 24-hour-watch rotation are manning the cooperative field kitchen set up by the Army and McDonald's. Over the Labor Day week-

Tree Planting Workshops To Be Held At ACC

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forestry Division is looking for participants in the "Tree-Mendous Maryland" program, a special project developed to help educate the public on planting and caring for trees. Two workshops will be offered on Saturday, October 3, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Allegany Community College in Cumberland, in Rooms 6 and 7 of the Continuing Education building.

The first workshop will be "Tree Planting," designed to provide information about proper site and species selection as well as proper planting techniques. The second workshop, "Tree Care and Maintenance," will provide information on how to properly care for trees.

Participants must register by September 30, and should call Bernie Zlomek at 301-777-2137.

State Education Coalition Conference Scheduled Oct. 3

The Maryland Education Coalition (MEC) fourth annual fall conference will be held Saturday, October 3, at the Essex Community College. The conference is entitled "Schools, Families, Communities Working as a Team," and will focus on the roles of parents and families, communities, and businesses in improving student performance at school.

The League of Women Voters is currently seeking area persons to attend the conference and participate in one or more of the 10 workshops to be offered. Car pooling is being arranged, according to Connie Margison, league member. For more information on attending the conference, persons may call Margison at 334-3826 or contact the league office at 334-1109.

MEC's plan is to bring persons from around the state to examine how these groups may work together in nurturing excellence in schools. Many persons who have had "hands-on" experience working on active school improvement teams will be in attendance.

The Maryland School Performance Program (MSPP) will be discussed, and there will be workshops on making the school environment conducive to family and community involvement. Throughout the day, conference participants will have the opportunity to attend mock school improvement team sessions. They will also be given the opportunity to talk with state policy makers in the education field.

The closing session for the conference will feature Dr. Nancy Grasmick, state school superintendent; Dr. Harold Winstanley, president of the Public School Superintendents Association of Maryland; and Deborah Kendig, president of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education.

"MEC's fourth annual fall conference is an exciting and promising opportunity to promote active, participatory family and community involvement in the public schools," stated Margison.

end, Sierra mess management specialists served 9,000 meals a day to law enforcement officers and military people.

At an abandoned Taco Bell, another group of Sierra sailors worked alongside Army soldiers serving meals. Navy Senior Chief Petty Officer Baker, a diesel inspector on the USS Sierra, is in charge of the detachment of cooks. "We serve over 5,000 meals a day," he said. "September 3rd, working on outdoor barbecue grills, we cooked 90 pounds of hamburger patties in 60 minutes."

Before the Sierra workers arrived, civilian volunteers were struggling to provide cooked hot dogs to relief workers. All canned food was served cold. Since the Sierra's reorganization of the feeding plan, things have improved. Meals are now available round-the-clock to support law enforcement personnel and cleanup workers.

This detachment of Sierra Sailors sleeps in a gutted Comfort Inn motel. Before their shipmates took up residence, other teams from the ship patched the roof and several sections of the motel and set up portable generators to provide some electricity. There is no potable water.

Although the opportunity to participate in humanitarian missions was not at the top of the list that Anderson had for joining the Navy in 1984, he soon found out that missions of this sort are nothing new for the sea service.

In the recent past, Navymen and women have assisted the victims of Hurricane Hugo and the San Francisco earthquake, worked alongside the Kurds during Operation Provide Comfort, cared for Haitian migrants temporarily lodged at the Navy's base in Cuba, and helped the survivors of the eruption of Mt. Pinatubo. Even as Hurricane Andrew operations got underway, on the other side of the world, sailors were helping the people of Guam deal with the aftermath of Typhoon Omar.

The USS Sierra is one of a six ship task-force that is part of a joint service operation assigned to deal with the disaster in South Florida. More than 22,000 military people are now in Florida rendering assistance.

Anderson said that the news accounts did not fully prepare him for the devastation he saw firsthand. Sierra sailors cried as they passed by ruins where families struggled to salvage their belongings from the rubble.

One sailor said, "As we travelled further into the area that suffered most, few houses were standing. None were left untouched. Sheets of metal were wrapped around the few trees, now only sticks, that were left standing.

"The scattered pieces of debris gradually became mountains. The mountains are all that remain of the life the victims knew before the hurricane. The fortunate ones still have their lives to start over but it will be years before the area begins to resemble what it once was."

Although Anderson is uncertain about how long Sierra will remain on site, he is sure about his reaction to the opportunity to be of service.

"This is a unique situation, and I am very proud to be part of the Navy team that is here to help rebuild. It's important to me to know that I am taking care of the children, physically and mentally, by providing them with medical care and rebuilding their schools," Anderson concluded.

Anderson, a petty officer first class, attended elementary and secondary schools in southern Garrett County before relocating. He joined the United States Navy in October 1984 and has received numerous awards and commendations, including a Good Conduct Medal, a Sea Service Ribbon, and a nomination for U.S.S. Sierra's Sailor of the Year. He is currently working toward a bachelor of science degree in medical technology.

Time Running Out For Congress; Many Issues Remain

The 102nd Congress has a long list of legislative issues to complete and not much time before its targeted adjournment in early October. Whether or not much will be accomplished in the next few weeks, however, is uncertain.

Much of the focus last week was on disaster aid to assist hurricane damaged areas and on fiscal 1993 spending measures.

The Senate approved a $10.46 billion package to help victims of Hurricane Andrew in Florida and Louisiana and Hurricane Iniki which struck Hawaii. The Senate Appropriations Committee had previously approved $7.5 billion for hurricane damage, and the House Appropriations Committee drafted an $8.8 billion package, but both were passed before Hurricane Iniki struck. (The House was set to consider the supplemental measures at press time for this issue.)

House and Senate Appropriations Committee leaders continued working on 1993 spending measures. The agriculture spending bill is the only appropriations measure that has been signed into law. Twelve appropriations bills remain to be passed. Of those, seven House-passed bills and six Senate bills would exceed the administration's budget.

President Bush has threatened to veto any spending measures that contain more money than he requested, and House leaders last week agreed they did not have the votes to override a veto. The spending bills must be enacted by October 1, the new fiscal year, or a stopgap spending measure would be necessary.

The Senate is continuing to work on a tax measure (H.R. 11) that contains the Farm Bureau-supported 25 percent health insurance deduction for the self-employed. The outlook for passage is uncertain, however, and it is possible that expiring provisions such as the insurance deduction could be removed and placed in a more narrow tax bill.

Included in the House version of the Interior appropriations bill is a fee increase for producers who use federal lands for grazing their livestock. The Senate version does not include any language regarding grazing fees. Conferees for the Interior appropriations bill were scheduled to meet early this week.

Farm Bureau opposes the grazing fee increase and supports dealing with this issue in the proper committees of jurisdiction rather than in a funding bill.

Also in conference is the Freedom Support Act, the aid and assistance package to the independent states of the former Soviet Union. Farm Bureau and a number of other groups have urged conferees to act quickly to complete a final version of the bill.

In addition to providing technical and financial assistance, the final legislative package provides the president the authority necessary to waive a number of statutory provisions that restrict development of normal commercial relations and hinder American business.

"Given the historic economic and political changes under way in that region, American farmers are once more ready to provide support for whatever assistance is necessary to ease the newly independent states... in their transition to democratic governments and market economies," the groups said in a letter to conferees. "The importance of the former Soviet market cannot be overstated."

Debate over the North American Free Trade Agreement got underway on Capitol Hill last week. Concerns were raised by the House Agriculture Committee over whether the United States could become a dumping ground for farm products--namely sugar--shipped through Mexico. The Senate Finance Committee also addressed NAFTA, particularly its environmental provisions. Hearings will continue this week. The American Farm Bureau Federation will continue to study the NAFTA proposal during the 90-day congressional review panel.

Livestock Association Plans Meeting

The annual meeting of the Garrett County Livestock Association will be held Monday, September 28, 7:00 p.m., at the Accident Fire Hall. This year the meeting will include a covered dish dinner. Youth who sold animals at the Livestock Sale at the Garrett County Fair are invited to attend. Please call the Extension Office (334-1990) by Thursday, September 24, with the number of those expecting to attend.

Horse Show Set For 4-H Members

There will be a 4-H "fun" horse show held Sunday, Oct. 4, at 11 a.m. at the Shady Dell ring in Pleasant Valley. All youth involved in the 4-H program are invited to participate in the event, which will feature pleasure and fun classes.

For more information, persons may call 334-8525.

Fall Harvest Begins Across State

By September 20 the major crops were mostly in good condition across Maryland. Corn was being harvested for both silage and grain. Only a few acres of small grains were planted.

An average of 6.3 days was suitable for fieldwork during the week ending September 20, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, 25 percent of the topsoil was short of moisture while 70 percent had adequate and five percent had surplus moisture. Subsoil moisture was short in 26 percent of Maryland, while 74 percent had adequate moisture.

Soybeans were in fair to good condition. Most were still setting pods but some were beginning to shed leaves. More sightings of Mexican bean beetles than usual have been reported. Corn and sorghum are in good condition across the state.

Corn and sorghum maturity continue to lag. Pastures were in excellent condition, with adequate hay supplies. Harvest of the apple crop became active. Potato, vegetable and melon harvests are virtually complete.

Maryland's progress for the week ending September 20 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Soybeans turning: 34, 48, 35; shedding leaves, 11, 18, 13. Corn bent, at least 73, 98, 91; mature, 37, 79, 62; grain harvested, 7, 30, 20; silage harvested, 20, 85, 70. Sorghum turned, 69, 90, N/A. Hay harvested: Alfalfa, fourth cutting, 43, 58, 44; other, third cutting, 67, 33, 46. Apples harvested: 30, 46, 43.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending September 18 was slightly cooler than normal with only a trace of precipitation. Precipitation fell only at two stations: Hagerstown, 0.01 inch and Smithsburg, 0.09 inch. Temperatures averaged 66.9 degrees, 0.6 degree below the normal of 67.5 degrees for the September 12-18 period. Minimum temperatures were in the 40's and 50's. Maximum temperatures were mostly in the 80's.

Fair Board Honors Volunteer Workers

Some 165 guests enjoyed a steak dinner at the Bittinger fire hall September 17 as the Garrett County Fair Board honored them in appreciation of their volunteer work at the 1992 Garrett County Fair. The Board of Directors of the Garrett County Fair say the fair could not function without these volunteers.

President Dale Glotfelty welcomed the group and Claude Wagner, Jr. led the invocation.

After the dinner was served, Dale Glotfelty introduced some special guests, including County Commissioners Brenda Butscher and John Braskey; media representatives from The Republican, The Garrett County Weekender, The Meyersdale New Republic, 99KHJ Radio, WMSG Radio, WFRB Radio; Garrett County Farm Queen Danielle DeBerry; Lois Tressler, manager of Coca-Cola; and Fredia Denison. Glotfelty thanked each one for the time and effort they put into the fair.

Glotfelty then introduced the entertainment for the evening which was The Broadford Gospel Quartet, who entertained with song and laughter. Coca-Cola provided two door prizes which were won by Virginia Yoder and William Fitzwater, Jr.

The meeting was closed with a prayer by Raymond Yoder.

Army Corps Gives Section 404 Expansion Notice

The Army Corps of Engineers recently published in the Federal Register notice of a proposed rule to expand the scope of activities covered under section 404 of the Clean Water Act. Section 404 currently is used to regulate the use of waters of the state, including nontidal wetlands.

The changes modify the definition of "discharge of fill material," clarify when the placement of pilings is considered a "discharge of fill material" and clarify that prior converted croplands are not waters of the state under the Clean Water Act.

The practical effect of the change in the definition of "discharge" is that mechanized land clearing, ditching, channelization and other excavation activities that would have the effect of degrading or destroying wetlands would be regulated. It clarifies previous guidance that states placement of pilings will be regulated under section 404 when it has the effect of fill or when the pilings support structures such as multi-family housing units and office buildings that are normally placed on fill. Placement of pilings is not regulated under Section 404 when it involves structures that are traditionally built on pilings such as bridges, piers, marinas and boathouses.

The codification of previously issued guidance exempts prior converted cropland and waste treatment systems but warns that an SCS determination of prior converted cropland does not constitute a section 404 exemption. Authority for such determinations rests with the Corp of EPA.

The notice specifies that "proposed changes will not affect in any manner the existing statutory exemptions for normal farming, ranching and silviculture activities in section 404(f)."

Walker Meets With Romanian Ag Leader

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker met recently with Dr. Tiberiu Morsan, president of the Academy of Agriculture and Forestry Agencies, in Romania. The visit at Maryland Department of Agriculture headquarters in Annapolis is part of an ongoing exchange relationship of agriculturalists developing between Maryland and Romania.

"I support these people to people contacts which go a long way toward improving international relationships. In Maryland, we will continue to do what we can to help the people in the emerging democracies in Eastern Europe," said Governor William Donald Schaefer.

In April, Walker visited Romania where Maryland became the first state to sign an agreement of friendly partnership in agriculture with the Romanian government. Since then, veterinarians from each country have visited the other.

"We are now hosting Romanian veterinarians and Dr. Morsan's visit further enhances our chances to increase significant contacts in the coming months. He is the head of the leading agricultural educational institution in the country," Walker said.

"I am pleased that through these agreements and exchanges we are expanding economic opportunities for Maryland agriculture while at the same time helping these countries and their people make the transition to a free market economy," said Walker.

Walker is an expert in developing agricultural relationships with the emerging democracies of Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. During the past three years, under these agreements, more than 100 farmers, students, specialists, scientists, veterinarians, aquaculturalists, professors, enterprise managers and others have visited Maryland to learn about U.S. agriculture.

Disaster Payment Program Announced

Olin S. Davis Jr., of the Maryland State ASC Committee, said emergency funds for agricultural disasters recently authorized by President Bush makes $755 million available to farmers who have suffered losses from natural disasters. Sign-up for a portion of three funds is currently underway.

"In accordance with the law, $100 million of the $755 million will be used for losses on fall-seeded program crops planted in 1991 for harvest in 1992," Davis said. "Farmers have from now until October 2 to make disaster claims for these losses."

Another application period for producers with losses from either 1990, 1991, or 1992 crops, who did not previously receive disaster payments for those losses, will begin on October 13 and end February 12, 1993. If a producer signs up for a loss on fall seeded program crops harvested in 1992, then they will only be eligible for additional losses on crops harvested in 1992.

The ASCS disaster program provides cash payments for production losses on participating program crops of wheat, feed grains, nonparticipating program crops, soybean, sunflowers, tobacco and all commercial nonprogram crops.

Davis said disaster assistance is available on a per-farm basis.

To qualify for disaster payments, producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent. Producers without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent. Davis said farmers who have 1992 crop losses are required to purchase crop insurance for 1993.

"Producers who intend to file for disaster assistance should begin to assemble their records now to expedite the application filing process," ASCS official Davis said.

The deadline to sign-up for fall seeded program crops planted in 1991 for harvest in 1992 is October 2.

Granddad's Toolbox

On a small Maryland farm stands a rough weathered shed with an old sliding door and a noisy tin roof.

Inside is collected a vast wealth of treasure; all the junk that still captures the wonder of youth.

To the right are two windows, below them a workbench, a saw and a wood stove now cold from neglect.

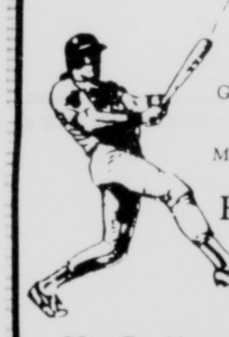
On the floor, in the corner with no handles or locks sits a dirty brown chest, my granddad's toolbox.

The toolbox was all that Granddad had to leave; no priceless heirlooms, gold watches or rings.

Just an old toolbox full of sweet memories worth more than all of the world to me.

For out of that toolbox not only came tools, but a whole lot of love and a few simple rules.

Like "do unto others as you'd have them do."



And "an honest day's work will never hurt you."

Today when I go and open that chest I still find his tools, nuts and bolts and the rest.

But I find something more of my dear granddad's.

There's a part of his life still in that box.

Kazakhstan Exchange Student Teaches Appreciation For Abundance/Opportunities

by Bernice Kepple

We take so much for granted. This was brought to my attention this week while visiting with 23-year-old Mukthar Bekseitov, of the Republic of Kazakhstan, formerly part of the U.S.S.R. As an exchange student, Mukthar arrived in this country on August 8, and has been living with the Ernest Schrock family on their farm just south of Oakland.

This exchange program has brought agriculture students from the former Soviet Union to Maryland for four years now, and is part of an effort to maintain strong agricultural ties with people all over the world. Mukthar is the third exchange student the Schrock family has hosted, and he is one of five students visiting Maryland this year, the others from Russia and the Ukraine.

Mukthar speaks surprisingly good English, which is even more surprising when it's discovered that he just began studying the language two months before coming to the U.S. He is in his last year of college, majoring in animal husbandry, specifically livestock breeding. "I see very good breeding practices in use here," Mukthar said.

His goal while here is to see many "agricultural factories," both big and small, because his future plans are to start his own agricultural business in his home land. "Just last year, my country was a part of the U.S.S.R., now it is the Republic of Kazakhstan. Now, there are private businesses in my country, only a few. The number is growing gradually this past year and will hopefully continue to grow. We were part of the U.S.S.R. for 70 years, and can't change much in one year."

The climate is very hot in Kazakhstan, but a lot of general agriculture is practiced. Barley and wheat are grown and much animal agriculture and breeding is done.

"Many things are different in this country," Mukthar said. When asked what, his quick reply is "service!" "Businesses give such good service to people. Whatever is needed, parts for machinery, feed for cows, or whatever, it is available." That one can get on the phone and get such service is amazing to him. "In our country, we don't have service because it is a state system." He adds that, although this is only his opinion, business is about "what people want."

"In my country young people don't think about business and what people want. They just don't have the interest because it is still a state system, and they don't want to change." For example, he says, dress factories don't change, and fashion doesn't change, because the state is satisfied with it the way it is. "Now there is a chance it will gradually change," he says. "We, the young people, must do this."

In his country, he has heard of private farms, but he hasn't seen them. "It is very difficult for private farm managers," he reports. "They must buy feed from the state collective farm, and they sometimes don't want to sell. This causes many problems." The collective farms there, in the state system, are very big farms. "Here (in Garrett County) there are farms with 60 cows, there collective farms may have 1,000, 2,000, 5,000 or maybe 10,000 cows. It's big because it's state. Workers milk around the clock. Now, young people don't want to work in collective farms because of low income, they go to town to find another kind of work."

Mukthar's parents live in the country, and his father was a general bookkeeper at a collective farm for 50 years. "Two weeks ago, he finished and 'go to pension' (retired) because he is 63 years old. It's time," he says.

Here, Mukthar says he sees another farm every few miles. In his country, collective farms are very big. They have an administrative center with parts of the collective farm spread out in all directions, five or six miles from the center. One farm he told of is a four-part collective farm, with a large dairy farm. At another part, about five miles from the center, they breed sheep for wool, keeping around 10,000 sheep. At another part they breed horses for meat. "Our people use horse meat, and breed work horses just for meat. Our own Kazakhstan breed is used."

One part of this collective farm is new, Mukthar says, started about two years ago. There they raise camels! The camels are bred to produce milk, which is very rich and much in demand as a very good milk for health. They also produce a type of wool which is very warm. Camel milk, he says, is not expensive and is sold in the cities. "We have one restaurant in the city which is very close to my collective farm, which buys camel milk." This city, he noted, is typical (population and size wise), and is the size of two or three Oaklands.

Another interesting farm business in his country is mink farming. Mink is used for hats which are very warm in their very cold winters. They are expensive, he says, but in his country, people who can afford them use mink and black fox for fur hats.

While here, Mukthar was able to briefly visit the Maryland State Fair. "I just had time to look at the cows," he said, and added, "In my country, there is no time for things such as fairs." The group of exchange students also visited New York City, Washington, Annapolis and Baltimore.

The group is scheduled to return to Europe on October 10, but Mukthar will try to extend his visitor's visa until January. Mukthar feels he was very lucky to come, and says he was able to come because of his studies, and because he also works for a private company, "we call small business." A person from his country who is not a university student who would like to travel to this country must save all their income for two years to afford the trip. "Not buy boots, not buy clothes, nothing!" he says.

"Especially the old people in my country can't buy food, but I hope it will change. I hope we can change the state system. The head of our government seems to want change, but one man can't change it alone. Everyone must want change."

Mukthar's goal is to own his own company. "I want my own company but I must have beginning capital," he says. "Our bank credit has very big interest -- crazy interest -- 75%. It's unreal!" He says that his boss got credit from a bank two years ago for 7%, but this year, about four months ago, it changed to 75%. His boss wanted to open a little factory to make sausage for people, but now he cannot because of the interest, and he must sell his equipment and return the bank loan.

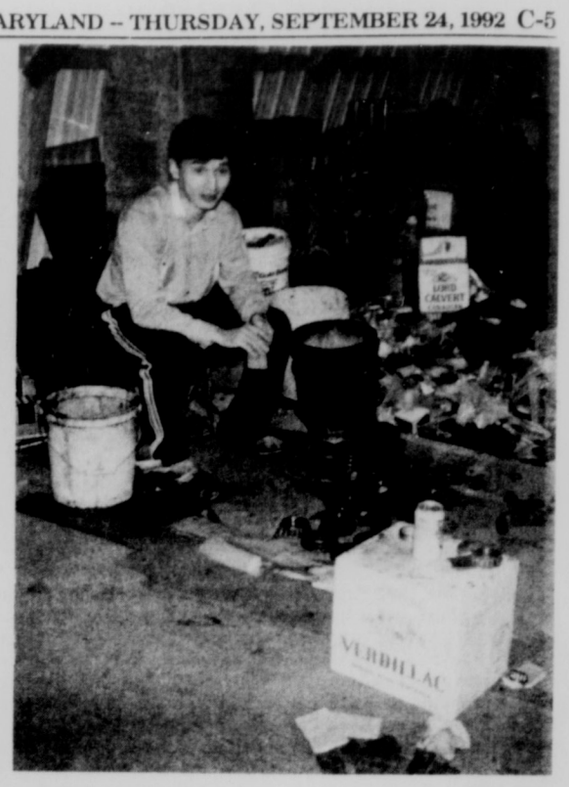
"I don't want to take credit from a bank," he stressed. "I want to come back to the United States and work for a year. I have many friends here now, and a work visa would not be difficult. If I work here one year for a minimum of $100 U.S. weekly, in one year I would have about 1 million rubles, and I can open and manage a little farm factory business." (At the present exchange rate, 241 rubles equals one U.S. dollar.) A year here would give him the capital to go back and own a small farm business, and begin to make that "change" that he thinks young people, like himself, must make.

"If I have a company," he explains, "it will be a good, clean shop. My boss has a shop, and it's very different from the state shop. His vegetables are clean, washed. In the state shop, they are not washed. People like this, and people will see it and want more change. Maybe then people will tell government they want change."

Mukthar said he had no trouble fitting into his Garrett County farm family. "Here, there are very good people. It's a very good place. I work, but I can sleep, I can rest. In Moscow (where he goes to school) I was very busy. Here I have good rest, very good rest. I cannot give myself rest in my country. My school is very difficult. I must work as well as study, and my studies are not interesting sometimes. I like the university which I saw here. If you are a student there, and you like management, you study management. You have a choice. I have no choice. I'm told 'this class is for you.' Our livestock breeding class is very good, however. The doctor and everything is up to date, very good."

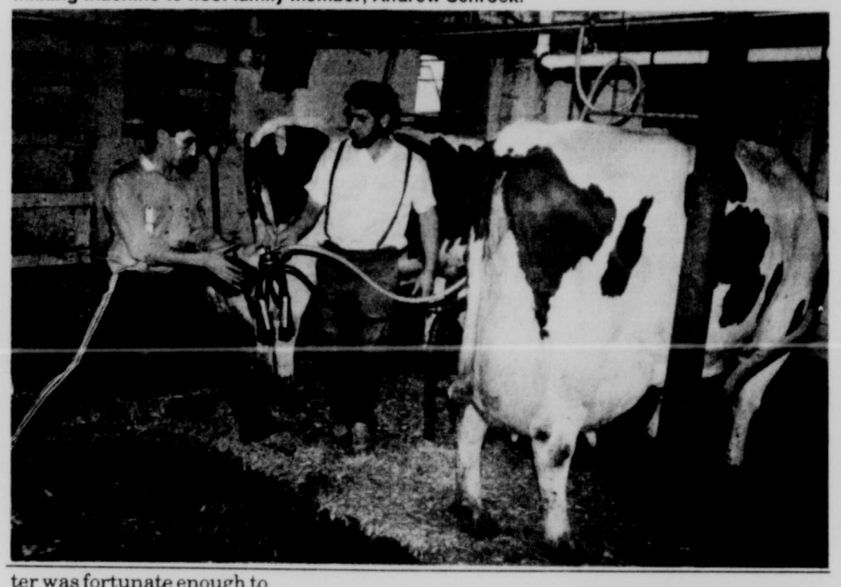
While here, Mukthar hopes to see what he calls "marketing factories," packing houses and other agricultural production facilities. He wants to see an auction where livestock as well as food products are sold. He wants to view the whole chain from farm to grocery store.

When asked if the grocery stores that we take for granted impressed him, he laughed, and said: "Grocery store -- I saw your shop! I took pictures to show my friends and my people of how we must live, not just exist, and for my future, maybe five years from now. It's real, but I must work."



The Schrocks have hosted three exchange students over the last three years, and say "we learn as much from them as they learn from us." "We certainly learn to appreciate what we have here," Ernest Schrock said.

Schrock says the family has kept in touch with the other two students through phone calls about every six months, and their daughter was fortunate enough to visit the family of one of their exchange students in his country.



"The hardest thing of all is to see them leave when they have to go," Schrock said.

Mukthar has a bright future in Kazakstan with quite a challenge ahead of him, and we hope his stay on this Garrett County farm will help him meet this challenge and accomplish his goal.

KAZAKHSTAN EXCHANGE STUDENT Mukthar Bekseitov works with his host family by cleaning and bagging parts in the shop at Schrock's Farm Equipment. The exchange student, whose republic was formerly in the U.S.S.R., is an animal husbandry major who hopes to own his own private farm business in the future.

Farmers: Are We Promoting the Importance of the Agriculture Industry?

The number of Americans living on farms has dropped by 50 percent during the past 20 years, according to a U.S. Census Bureau report. The number of farm residents was 32 million in 1910,and has dropped steadily to 4.5 million in 1990. The Census Bureau also reported that 51 percent of U.S. land was employed in farming, down from 57 percent in 1970. Since 1980, the number of farmers under the age of 25 had dropped by half, while the number of those over 65 had held steady.

This information simply tells the agriculture community that you are getting smaller and smaller in number. Why be concerned? First of all, as producers of food and tillers of the soil, you, as a farmer, are having to deal more and more with government policies (and there are going to be more policies and laws that you will be facing.) It doesn't take a genius to figure out the smaller the number of farmers, the less representation in government policies. Secondly, there is a large segment of the population that has very little knowledge of how food reaches their table. They take for granted there will always be milk at the cooler and vegetables on the shelves of the grocery store. Unfortunately, most of these people have no idea of the problems that the agricultural industry continuously deals with. In summary, the farmer needs to "blow his own horn" that he is providing the basic element of life...food. The farmer needs to speak loud and clear to his government representatives on the policies that affect his business and welfare. The time has come that the farmer must speak for himself/herself.

Safe Storage Moisture For Good Quality Grain

So far so good! But we need some more frost-free time for most of the grain corn to dry down. Trying to store grain that has too much moisture results in spoilage and a potential health hazard when fed to animals. The following information is the maximum safe storage moisture content:

Shelled Corn and Sorghum

To be fed or sold as No. 2 grain by spring .... 15.5 percent
To be stored up to one year ..... 14 percent
To be stored more than one year ..... 13 percent
Small Grains (Barley, Oats, Etc.) ..... 13 percent

Good storage aeration helps insure high quality grain.

A Reminder on Private Pesticide Applicator's Licenses

If you have not already made reservations to take the pesticide applicator's test to obtain licenses, do so by calling my office at 334-1990. The test will be given on Tuesday, October 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the Garrett Extension office. If you would like to have some help in preparing for the exam, I am having a training session Tuesday, October 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Extension office.

Community Action Grant Given For AAUW Career Day

The American Association of University Women (AAUW) announced this week that a Community Action grant award has been given to Maryland and West Virginia AAUW state organizations in order to host a joint Computer, Math, and Science (CMS) Career Day on May 1, 1993, at the Morgantown (W.Va.) Mall.

According to a spokesperson, the $2,290 grant will help fund AAUW's continuing efforts to heighten the awareness in middle school children of the need to study math and science, and to introduce to them rewarding careers in the math, science, and computer areas. The focus of the event will be on middle school girls, the spokesperson said.

Over 700 young people attended the AAUW Career Day last February, which was held at the Annapolis Mall. Over 200 women role models and exhibitors talked with the children and shared experiences, the spokesperson said.

Women role models, major corporation exhibitors, and other interested persons seeking more information may contact Sheila Edwards, AAUW CMS representative for Garrett County, at 334-9344.

Lung Association Urges Many To Get Flu Shot

Seven in 10 older Americans are leaving themselves open to a physical assault that could put them flat on their backs or even kill them, according to the American Lung Association. Influenza, a contagious lung disease which affects more than five million seniors annually, can lead to serious health problems and sometimes death.

Lung disuse is the third leading cause of death in America, and flu is a significant reason why, the Association said. With money raised from its Christmas Seal campaign, the Lung Association of Maryland says it is mounting a major flu prevention campaign this year.

"We want everyone to know that the optimal period to receive a flu shot is between October 15 and November 15, before the peak of the flu season," said E. James Britt, M.D., spokesperson for the ALAM. "Despite common misconception, the vaccine is safe and does not cause a mild case of influenza.

Dr. Britt urges people to take advantage of flu shots being offered at their local health departments or by their personal physicians.

"No one is naturally immune to the flu," Dr. Britt said. "You could be walking around and passing it on to your friends and family and not even know you have it. The biggest problem is that you are most contagious even before any symptoms arise."

When they finally do appear, symptoms include fever, chills, weakness, loss of appetite, body aches, sneezing, and coughing. The disease, which starts in the respiratory system, caused 106.8 million cases in 1990, resulting in 216.9 million sick bed days. Seniors accounted for 5.7 million cases of the flu in 1990.

Besides senior citizens, others at high risk for the flu are those with chronic heart or lung disease, including children with asthma. Health care providers and employees of hospitals, chronic-care settings, and out-patient facilities who have contact with patients are also at high risk for getting and transmitting the flu.

Those with an allergy to eggs should not take a flu shot since the vaccine is made of inactivated influenza virus derived from eggs. Others with acute feverish illnesses should not be vaccinated until their symptoms have subsided.

For a free brochure about influenza, or for more information, persons may call the American Lung Association of Maryland, 1-800-492-7527 toll-free in Maryland.

Founded in 1904 to fight tuberculosis, the American Lung Association is the oldest nationwide voluntary health agency in the United States.

Local Mennonite Youth Volunteering A Year Overseas

Twenty-eight North American young people, including two from Garrett County, have begun a year in Europe with the Intermenno Trainee program. They began the year with an August 11 to 13 orientation at Mennonite Central Committee (MCC) headquarters in Akron, Pa.

Program participants spend a year in a European country, working and living with European Mennonites, learning to know Europeans firsthand. Most participants in this program spend six months each in two locations.

Brenda Miller, Grantsville is beginning a one-year term with the Intermenno program in Wassenaar, Netherlands, where she will work as a nanny for a local family. She will probably move to another placement in the same country for the second half of the year.

Miller received a bachelor's degree in History from Messiah College in Grantham, Pa. She was last employed as a server at The Old Depot Restaurant.

She is a member of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church in Accident. Her parents are Allen and Linda Miller, Grantsville.

Norma Broadwater, Swanton, is beginning a one-year term with the Intermenno program in Emden, Germany, where she will work as a nanny for a local family. She will probably move to another placement in the same country for the second half of the year.

Right To Life Life Chain Set For October 4

The Garrett County Right to Life group will coordinate a demonstration known as a "life chain" in Oakland on Sunday, Oct. 4. According to a spokesman for the group, a life chain is "a peaceful, prayerful way to stand up for life, to say that abortion is wrong, that abortion kills children."

From 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on that day, citizens will line the streets of Oakland on a designated route along U.S. Rt. 219, displaying signs and praying, to draw attention to what they describe as "a national holocaust." Over 800 such chains are to be held that day across the nation.

Registration for the event will begin at 1:30 p.m. Signs will be provided at the check-in points. Persons will be asked to donate $1 each to help defray expenditures. Participants will also be asked to consider making a donation to the Mountaintop Crisis Pregnancy Center, which is in need of diapers, baby clothes, baby food, and formula.

Those who are unable to stand in the chain for an hour are asked to bring a chair. Handicapped persons who wish to participate will be accommodated if they indicate their special needs ahead of time.

Pre-registration is also being conducted through area churches. Those desiring more information may contact Harrison at 334-4939, Janice at 689-1871, or Joann at 689-3756.

In Loving Memory Of
who passed away May 23, 1992

Your gentle face, patient smile, with sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for each, and died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and still, the heart that loved us, well and true.
Oh, bitter was the trial to part from one so good as you.
You are not forgotten, Loved One, nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last, we will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore.
As time goes by, we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face, none can fill your vacant place.
Deep in our hearts the memories are kept of the one we loved so much,
And will never forget.

Your Husband, Paul George;
Sons, John and Thomas; and Daughter, Barbara

by Melissa Groves

Anna Bencker earned a nursing degree half a century ago and worked in hospitals, clinics, industry and home nursing -- while raising her seven children. It was a new career challenge that led her to become a prison nurse in Eagleville, Pennsylvania, in 1983. At first, she came close to quitting the environment of metal detectors, bars and razor wire. But she became aware that inmates depended on her and trusted her, and she stayed on into her 70s. Her idea of retirement was to go part-time five years ago. Inmates call her "Moms" because they find her kind and considerate, and say she's one of the most respected people at the site.

51st Preston County Buckwheat Festival Set For This Weekend

by Steven Reed
Publicity Chairman
Buckwheat Festival

"Up, Up, and Away to a Buckwheat Holiday" is the theme of the 51st Buckwheat Festival taking place September 24-27 in Kingwood, W.Va. The theme is being carried out the entire weekend including a parachute jump at the Central Preston Jr. High School football field at 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 26.

Other events during the weekend will include the 30th Antique Car Show to be held at the Buckwheat Festival on Sunday, Sept. 7. The car show will be located at the Craig Civic Center and it includes custom cars, street rods and trucks. More than 200 vehicles are featured and recently cars that have earned National Junior and Senior awards were made an added feature.

Chairman Glen Gibson says there are a few special features planned at this year's festival. Hit and miss engines will be at the show and Joe Stiles will display his colletion of State Police license plates.

Antique cars will assemble for public inspection from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Awards will be at 2:30 p.m.

This year's Buckwheat Festival features a harvest of great toe-tapping music for those visiting the Free State of Preston this September 24-27.

The Craig Civic Center will be the site of three major musical events during the Festival, offering something for young and old alike. If you like good music, come on out for a night your family and friends will long remember.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 25

Friday night of the Festival features the musical highlight of the year with the Buckwheat Festival Country Music Spectacular.

As with recent years, there will be two shows.

The early show starts at 6:45 p.m., and the late show begins at 9:30 p.m. at the Craig Civic Center, on Tunnelton St., Kingwood, just off the Festival grounds.

This year, the Festival brings the best up and coming talent from Nashville and elsewhere to the Free State of Preston with Highway 101, Phil Dirt and the Dozers, and John Bressler.

With the release of "Bing Bang Boom," Highway 101 has shifted their already remarkable career into high gear. Since their debut in 1987, the band has proven itself one of the most consistently creative and successful groups in country music.

After a string of 13 top ten singles, there's still new territory for Highway 101 to conquer- "Bing Bang Boom" is a step in that fresh direction. Highway 101 continues to set new country music standards with no stopping in sight.

Phil Dirt and the Dozers is fast becoming "America's Rock 'N Roll Oldies Review." Their strong vocal harmony and unique blend of comedy and music leave their smiling audiences shouting for more.

The visual show attractions, such as giant juke boxes, automobile shaped musical instruments, and multi-colored backdrops, decorate the stage and set the mood for a nostalgic trip back to the music you grew up with.

Beach Boys fans, take note! This band is the country's premiere Beach Boys sound-alike group. The Dozers obviously enjoy what they do, and their audiences always do, too.

Multi-talented entertainer John Bressler, is a one-man explosion of music, energy, laughter, artistry and just plain fun!

Considered one of the nation's most gifted electronic keyboard artists, Bressler has appeared with such stars as Willie Nelson, Ray Charles, Ricky Skaggs, and the Miami Sound Machine.

Bressler's videos have aired on MTV and VH1. He's also a favorite visitor to television shows such as TNN's "Nashville Now" and has appeared on stage as a special guest artist at the Grand Ole Opry. This is an encore performance for John at the Buckwheat Festival.

Ticket prices are $13 for general admission and may be purchased at the door. Call 304-329-0303 for more ticket information.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 26

Capping off the weekend of music at the 51st Buckwheat Festival this year is the annual Banjo & Fiddlers' Contest. The pickin' and grinnin' gets underway at the Craig Civic Center in Kingwood on Saturday, Sept. 26, at 6:30 p.m.

This year features "This and That," a bluegrass musical group comprised of previous contest winners. You won't want to miss the excitement of dueling banjos and flashing fiddles.

General admission tickets can be purchased at the door for $4. Call 304-329-0303 for more information.

Two Injured In Sunday Mishap On Glendale Road

Two persons were injured and treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital Sunday, according to a hospital spokesperson, following a two-vehicle mishap at the intersection of the Glendale Road and the North Glade Road.

Treated were Patrick J. Piper, 19, Oakland, and Sherri K. Jordan, 16, Mtn. Lake Park.

According to reports filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, The mishap occurred when a vehicle operated by Bruce L. Ludwick Sr., 39, Bridgeport, W.Va., was stopped on the North Glade Road at the intersection of Glendale Road. He was preparing to turn left onto Glendale Road and had a limited field of vision to his left because of the terrain, police said.

As a 1986 Nissan pickup, operated by Piper, approached, Ludwick accelerated to pull out of the path of Piper's vehicle, but was struck by the vehicle in the eastbound lane of the Glendale Road.

Cpl. Larry G. DeWitt investigated for state police and charged both drivers with seat belt violations.

Both Piper and his passenger were transported to the hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Neither Ludwick nor his passengers, Elizabeth Ludwick, 39, Bruce Ludwick Jr. 9, and Charles Ludwick, 6, were reportedly injured in the 3:30 p.m. mishap.

Garrett County Emergency Management also dispatched Deep Creek Lake volunteer firefighters to the 3:34 p.m. mishap.

DWI MISHAP

A Davis, W.Va., couple involved in a single-vehicle mishap Friday were both treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital, according to a hospital spokesperson. The cause of the accident was allegedly alcohol related, according to police reports.

Donald L. Arbogast and Ruth A. Arbogast, both 49, were injured when their vehicle overturned on U.S. Rt. 219, south of Oakland.

Donald Arbogast told police that he lost control of his vehicle and began to STUDENTS MEET OFFICER PHIL - Fourth and fifth grade students in elementary schools throughout the county are being introduced to Officer Phil this week and learning about the effects of drugs and alcohol and how to say "No!" The Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Creative Safety Products of Carnegie, Pa., have been presenting the 45-minute Officer Phil program to the students. The program, featuring Officer Phil, a dummy, and a ventriloquist, deals with the complex problem of making decisions regarding drugs and alcohol. "This worthwhile program is funded by local area business owners who care about the welfare of the children in their community," said Sheriff Van Evans.

Oakland Man Sentenced On Drug Charges

An Oakland man was sentenced to two years in the Maryland Department of Corrections by Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Fred Thayer last week after he pleaded guilty to two counts of distribution of marijuana in an August 6 hearing, also held in Circuit Court. At that time, a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

William L. Hilton III, 29, was sentenced to one year for each charge, and the terms were to be served consecutively. Judge Thayer then suspended all but the time Hilton had already served (112 days) and placed Hilton on three years of supervised probation.

Two counts of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute were not prosecuted.

The charges were made by the Maryland State Police following a January 10 incident when Hilton allegedly distributed marijuana to a state trooper.

In other news from Circuit Court, a pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Thayer in two

IT'S FESTIVAL TIME! - The "festival season" in the area is fast approaching. The Springs Festival is set for this Friday and Saturday in Springs, Pa., our neighbors to the north. Many of our local fourth and fifth graders will be traveling there Friday to learn how our forefathers worked and lived. Shown above is Mrs. Lloyd Yoder, Grantsville, who last year with her family showed visitors how bread was baked in an old-fashioned stone oven at last year's festival. Garrett Countians are also gearing up for the 25th Annual Autumn Glory Festival set for October 8-11. The Kick-Off Dinner with the crowning of the queen and the naming of this year's Golden Ambassador will be held Wednesday evening at Silver Tree Inn.

Hospital, Health Dept. Officials Reach Agreement Over Assembly Room Facility

After months of negotiating and compromising, officials from Garrett County Memorial Hospital (GCMH) and the Garrett County Health Department (GCHD) have reached a tentative agreement regarding the use of a 1,600 square foot assembly room located in the old part of the hospital building currently housing the health department.

Part of the settlement involves the construction of a temporary building (also known as a detached classroom) to take care of the conference and assembly needs of the health department so that the hospital may regain the use of that space for storage and service needs. The temporary building will also be used by the hospital.

Since reports indicate those space problems being experienced by the hospital are immediate, the health department has agreed to use the facilities at the American Legion building located across Memorial Drive from the hospital, beginning in early October, until the temporary building is completed and ready for occupancy.

According to GCMH President Benjamin Rosenthal, the need for more space became an issue because of the hospital's need to replace the CAT Scan unit currently in place there. Rosenthal stated that the new unit has been ordered and will "greatly improve the diagnostic abilities" of the hospital and lessen the time involved for the patients.

He added that the unit needs to be near the hospital emergency room to provide the most efficiency.

The long-term needs of both the hospital and the health department are also at issue, and will be a topic of discussion in the coming months.

"With the ever-growing needs of the hospital and in trying to look out for the patients' best interests, we need to get together to decide how to obtain more hospital space," said Rosenthal, noting that a working group is now being created to address the future needs of both the hospital and the health department.

That group will include representatives from the board of county commissioners, the health department, and the hospital.

In the meantime, the agreement concerning the stipulations of the health department's use of the new temporary building (which is being financed by the hospital) was reached just this past week, and Garrett County Health Officer Dr. Rex Archer, along with Rosenthal and GCMH Vice President of Support Services Don Batista met with the Garrett County Commissioners to apprise them of the status of the negotiations.

In a document prepared by Batista, it was stated, "With a strong spirit of understanding and cooperation in the air, we met to negotiate a settlement of how to best address our mutual needs in regard to the new building."

Although Archer reported to the commissioners that some "language issues" were still to be worked out, and that he was "not comfortable with parking problems" he foresees for patrons of the health department, he

Oakland Woman Jailed On Grand Jury Indictment

An Oakland woman was jailed Monday by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after a Garrett County Circuit Court Grand Jury indictment was handed down.

Melissa Sue Simmons, 25, Oakland, was charged with felony theft, welfare fraud, and perjury. She was lodged in the Garrett County Jail where she has since posted $5,000 bond and was released.

Det. Pat Kelly was the arresting officer. No further details of the case have been released.

In other Sheriff's Office news, Jackie Hale Jr., 20, Virginia Beach, Va., was arrested Monday and charged with two counts of misdemeanor theft.

The charges were brought by Robert J. Welch of The Board Room who stated that on September 16 Hale allegedly stole a credit card imprint and obtained lodging services.

Joseph W. House, 39, Oakland, was arrested on September 23 and charged with harassment, disturbing the peace, and trespassing. The charges were filed by Sandra D. James, Oakland, who stated that House was advised to leave her residence and allegedly refused to do so and used profane and abusive language.

DWI ARREST

One motorist was arrested for DWI (driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week.

Roy Lee Friend, 21, Oakland, was charged with DWI by Deputy J. Murphy after being stopped on a traffic violation.

Health Department May Restructure Fees To Offset Budget Reductions

Garrett County Health Officer Dr. Rex Archer and Environmental Health Director Edgar Harman met with the Garrett County Commissioners this week to alert them that environmental health fees would likely undergo a restructuring in the near future because of impending cuts from state sources.

Dr. Archer explained to the board that, while other agencies are waiting to find out exactly how severe the cuts will be, the Garrett County Health Department will lose $173,000 in the current fiscal year "whether the governor adopts plan A or plan B."

Environmental Health has already experienced a $25,000 loss from the previous round of state funding cuts and is expecting even more drastic cuts throughout the next months that will amount to a total of $62,000. Environmental Health, as part of the Health Department, currently receives 36% of the total state case formula funding to that agency, said Archer.

Harman provided the commissioners with a list of environmentally-related services performed by his department, the current fees, and the proposed fee hikes. Along with that, he provided them with "contrast and comparison" sheets of Allegany County's fees and the highest fees in the state.

"We will probably be making substantial changes in the fee structure," said Harman. "If they pull out all the state funds, I don't know what will become of environmental health throughout the state."

Harman suggested the commissioners consider broadening the base of environmental health services and possibly tapping into other sources of income in order to continue the programs now being provided.

"There is now almost a privatization of environmental health and the health department as a whole," added Archer, who further explained that the Garrett County Health Department receives a smaller percentage of its total budget from local sources than any other health department in the state, and generates the major portion of its revenue from third-party reimbursements and services to the community.

Archer stressed, however, that by making some of the programs and services in other areas of the health department more efficient and profitable, the environmental health portion of the budget had been spared in recent years. He also noted that profits are re-invested into services that would otherwise have been cut by the state.

Examples of services performed or permits issued by Environmental Health and the proposed fee increases include: building lot evaluation, from $70 to $90; septic tank pumping permit, from $50 to $60 per truck; sewage system final inspections, from $40 to $50; swimming pool permit, from $100 to $120; and well permit, from $40 to $80.

During the meeting, Dr. Archer was questioned about the likelihood of lay-offs within the Health Department and responded by

Election Board Notes Deadlines

The Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett County issued a reminder to unregistered citizens this week that the deadline to register to vote in the November 3 general election is Monday, Oct. 5, by 9 p.m.

The last day to request an application for an absentee ballot is October 27.

Persons desiring more information may contact the board office at 334-1962 during regular business hours.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS of American Amish Yoders' history were celebrated recently at the Maple Glen Mennonite Church, Grantsville. The reunion delved deeply into Yoder genealogy, tracing the family from its origins in Switzerland to their migration north through Germany and on to America. Over $200 Million Cut From State Budget; Disadvantaged Hit Hardest

The Maryland Board of Public Works yesterday approved another major state budget cut -- anywhere from $200 million to $240 million, according to separate reports -- that includes a $65.3 million reduction in the area of health and mental hygiene, a $150 million cut to the local jurisdictions, a $24.8 million cut to higher education, and a $23.2 million cut to human resources.

The approved plan will also mean the loss of jobs for a reported 481 state employees, as well as approximately 900 vacant state positions remaining unfilled. Most of those employees who will lose their jobs will do so in about one month.

Garrett County government stands to lose at least $1 million in the process, according to Garrett County Administrator Robert Fousek, who stressed that "nothing is cast in concrete yet."

Fousek stated that "unofficial reports" indicate the county will lose about 25% of its portion of the state's disparity grant to the poorest jurisdictions. (That grant would have provided about $1.2 million to the county and has been reduced by about $296,000.) The county will most likely also experience a reduction in its share of the state gasoline tax -- known as the State Highway Users' Revenue -- by about $750,000.

Fousek said the disparity grant funding reduction is included in the total to be lost by the county but he was uncertain about whether the gas tax reduction would be or not.

He noted that the county commissioners would approach this reduction in funds in the same way they have approached the previous state funding reductions. "The county commissioners' approach will be one of cautiously moving forward on spending until we get more definitive figures," he said. "We're looking on the pessimistic side and taking a worst-case-scenario approach."

He concluded that he expects the Maryland General Assembly -- either in special or regular session -- to approve (or even increase) the $150 million reduction to the local jurisdictions, even though the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) has officially denounced that amount as being "disproportionate" as has called for the amount to be reduced to $94 million.

The action yesterday by the Board of Public Works, however, addresses only about half of the estimated state budget deficit for the current fiscal year. Any further cuts would have to be approved by the Maryland General Assembly including the proposed $150 million cut in direct aid to the 24 local jurisdictions; $40.6 million in transfers to the general treasury of funds formerly set aside for transportation or for loans for low-income housing and economic development; $4.4 million in fees for state services (previously free) to individuals with severe disabilities, fees for private career schools, for pesticide registration, and another $4.4 million for changes in government efficiency recommended by a governor's task force.

A new proposed state lottery game, "Quick Draw," has also been proposed that would reportedly generate about $50 million in the last half of the current fiscal year.

Other cuts approved by

Candlelight Vigil Slated By AMI

A candlelight vigil to mark the beginning of Mental Illness Awareness Week (October 4-10) will be held in downtown Oakland on Monday, October 5 at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Garrett County Alliance for the Mentally Ill, (AMI) the vigil will begin at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Second Street. Participants will travel down Second Street to Alder Street where they will continue on to St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church, Fourth and Oak streets. A brief prayer service will conclude the march.

"Mental Illness Awareness Week is a nationwide campaign designed to raise public awareness regarding the various types of mental illnesses and to promote education on these devastating but treatable biological brain diseases," said an AMI spokesperson.

The Garrett County AMI is an active support and advocacy group on the local, state, and national levels. Monthly meetings allow families of the mentally ill and the mentally ill themselves to share concerns, learn about mental illness, and to receive practical advice on treatment and community resources.

Persons with a personal interest in mental health are encouraged to join in the candlelight walk. Participants will gather in front of St. Mark's Church just before 8 p.m.

Further information is available by calling (301) 334-4357.

Southern Garrett Marching Band Captures Honors

The Southern Garrett Marching Bands captured grand champion honors at last Saturday's "Showcase of Bands" held at Keyser (W.Va.) High School. The group competed against seven other bands from West Virginia and Maryland.

Other specialty awards received were in the categories of "best marching and maneuvering," "best color guard," and "best percussion" in Group II. The color guard and percussion section also received the highest rating of their respective groups in the event.

The group also traveled to Frankfort High School in Ridgeley, W.Va., that evening to compete once again. They received first place in Group II, best color guard, best percussion, and best drum majors. The percussion section, once again, received the highest rating in the show.

This Saturday, Southern will travel to Westmar High School in Lonaconing, and on to Northern High School for an evening competition. Tickets to all these events may be purchased at The Short Stop in Oakland. Tickets bought locally will directly benefit Southern Band, but tickets will be available at the gate.

Oakland Police Note Two Arrests

The Oakland City Police arrested two persons this past week on various charges.

Jeffrey A. Auvil, 21, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested Friday by Sgt. Roger Lewis, following an incident at the American Legion at approximately 11 p.m.

Auvil was allegedly intoxicated and causing a disturbance in the parking lot at that establishment. When Sgt. Lewis attempted to arrest him, he allegedly kicked the officer.

He was subsequently charged with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, and assaulting a police officer.

Charles P. Hacek Jr., 29, Oakland, was arrested by Chief John K. Sines on Tuesday after being stopped for a traffic violation on Fourth Street.

Hacek was charged with driving on a revoked license, driving an uninsured vehicle, displaying a registration plate issued to another vehicle, failure to use the proper turn signal, a seat belt violation, and driving a vehicle with unsafe tires.

Child Health Day Monday; Local Clinics Slated

October 5th is Child Health Day, and one major activity that day will be a National Symposium in Washington, D.C., to raise public awareness about the importance of immunizing children before the age of two.

"All over the U.S.A., there have been outbreaks of preventable childhood diseases that threaten the well being of our children," stated a Garrett County Health Department spokesman. "New cases of measles and other preventable disease, such as mumps and whooping cough, are on the upswing in our communities." In Maryland last year, there were 178 reported cases of measles; in fact, in 1990, there were almost 28,000 cases and 89 deaths from measles nationwide.

Dr. Rex D. Archer, Garrett County health officer, added "our children's health is a top priority, and we must dedicate ourselves to making sure they receive their necessary immunizations. Every dollar spent on early childhood immunizations saves ten dollars in later medical costs."

In order to assist families in getting these immunizations, the Garrett County Health Department is now offering immunization clinics in Grantsville and Oakland. Parents may call for an appointment. There is an administration fee of $7 for each visit. Persons may contact their physician or the Garrett County Health Department at 334-8111 or 895-3111 for more information or for an appointment.

New Traffic Signal To Be In Operation Today

State Highway Administration District Engineer T.W. Beaulieu announced this week that a new traffic signal was to be put into full operation this morning, October 1, at the intersection of US 219 (Third Street) and Memorial Drive in Oakland. The signal is the result of community concern over increasing traffic and operational problems at this intersection.

Beaulieu said the new traffic signal has state-of-the-art computer equipment that will provide a number of features. The signal will be traffic responsive and be able to adjust the amount of green time, depending on the traffic volumes. A separate left turn lane has been added to the Memorial Drive approach which will separate traffic and allow free right turns after stop from the right turn lane.

Noting that there is always a lot of confusion when a new traffic signal goes into service, Beaulieu said motorists are asked to use caution and to stay alert when driving through this area. Special warning signs and variable message signs have been erected to advise motorists of the new signal.

slide on the wet roadway across the center line and into the southbound lane. The vehicle then struck a ditch on the left roadside, overturned, and came to rest on its top in the southbound ditch.

Tfc. P.R. Brown investigated the 3:20 p.m. mishap and charged Mr. Arbogast with driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs and with failure to drive on the right side of the road.

The Arbogasts were transported to the hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Garrett County Emergency Management also dispatched Gorman firemen to the scene.

Check Points For Life Chain Noted

The Garrett County Right to Life chapter will participate in a Life Chain this Sunday, Oct. 4. The Life Chain is a public display of a pro-life, anti-abortion stand.

Check points for the Garrett County Life Chain are as follows: Crellin United Brethren, Rocky Drean Assembly of God, Mt. Top Assembly of God, and those who have not pre-registered at churches are to register at the Garrett National Bank Drive-In branch on Rt. 219. Members of Garrett County Right to Life and families, Pleasant View Baptist, and those who have pre-registered by phone, but not through a church, are asked to check-in at St. Peter's Catholic Church on Fourth Street. Participants from Glade Mennonite and Oakland Church of the Nazarene are to register at the Nazarene church on Eighth Street.

Participants are requested to car pool and to park on side streets, rather than along the Chain route.

Registration will begin promptly at 1 p.m. The Life Chain will last for an hour, from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m., on the sidewalks along Route 219. No street will be blocked. Those who wish to be a part of the Life Chain, but have not pre-registered may do so by calling 301-334-4939 or 301-689-3756.

Participants are reminded to dress according to the weather, as the Life Chain will be held rain or shine. Participants should not bring signs; they will be provided. Persons may want to bring a chair if they cannot stand for one hour. Handicapped persons should call in advance, so that they may be accommodated.

In conjunction with the Life Chain, a baby shower is being held for Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center. Persons are asked to bring items such as diapers, formula, baby food, and clothes to check-in points. A donation is also requested to cover expenses of the chain.

agreed that the two sides have "made quite a bit of progress" in resolving the issues.

Several major areas of concern over the use of the new building were resolved, according to Batista, who noted, "Certainly there were concessions made on both sides and there will be yet unknown inconveniences experienced by all. However, the group understood the need here was to adopt a can-do attitude on this issue and I believe we responded with a workable formula."

Rosenthal also expressed his appreciation to the American Legion for providing a space to the health department and the hospital free of charge in the interim.

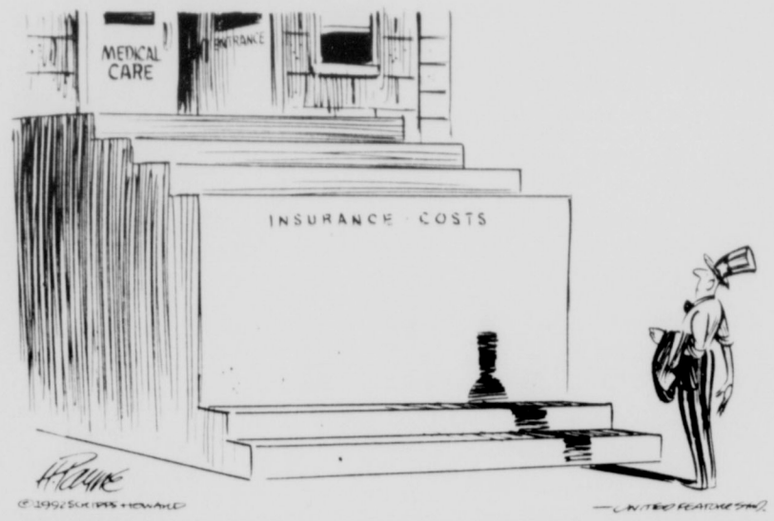
Waste in the SHA?...

The new proposed cuts from the Maryland Board of Public Works announced this morning add more black paint (or should we say red ink?) to an already bleak picture of the state's economic situation. Reduction or outright elimination of programs and jobs are apparently inevitable.

Meanwhile, the findings of a national study completed by the University of North Carolina released this week rated the Maryland system of highways as one of the worst and most expensive in the country. The state's highway system finished 48th out of 50 in terms of road conditions, traffic congestion, and spending from 1984 to 1990. It claimed that Maryland spent over $206,000 per mile on state roads, while the national average was about $55,000.

Hal Kassoff, Maryland State Highway administrator, vehemently responded with a three-page rebuttal to the study, calling it "intellectually dishonest and a blatant mis-representation of reality." He said that Maryland ranked 48th because it was near the top of the list in urban congestion, but was at the same time near the top in expenditures. Kasoff said, "We were penalized for our congestion problem, and then penalized for trying to solve it."



Recognizing that one must be careful about conclusions drawn from charts and numbers alone, we nonetheless have some real concerns about the results of this study.

First of all, there is no question Maryland has some significant traffic congestion problems in the urban areas around Baltimore and Washington that cost a lot of money to address; however, we disagree that the condition of our state roads is generally sub-par. In fact, we believe our state highways are generally in excellent condition, thanks to the skill and outstanding workmanship of our engineers, builders, and maintenance personnel. One need only cross the border into West Virginia or Pennsylvania on any one of our interstates to make a comparison of quality.

Our major concern is the per-mile cost figures of highway construction, and we don't believe Mr. Kassoff adequately addressed this area in his response. He did point out that, in some states, all roads are state roads and construction and maintenance of rural roadways are far less expensive than for interstates and other major state roads. However, if our per-mile expenses for construction are indeed three and one-half times the national average, then we apparently have a huge problem. What is the justification for such a wide margin in these figures?

In considering this matter and attempting to attach a local angle, we remembered that about one month ago, state highway employees worked over a weekend to install the new traffic lights at the intersection of U.S. Rt. 219 and Memorial Drive in Oakland. We assume these workers received at least time and a half pay for those hours. After sitting dormant for a full month, the lights are slated to be placed into operation today. Why did they install them over a weekend?

We believe reduction of government waste could and should absorb a greater segment of our state's deficit than the elimination of programs and jobs as has been proposed.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Perhaps George Bush's brand of Republicanism is closer to Pat Buchanan's than one might have suspected. For those Republicans who don't keep up with their party's beliefs, Buchanan thinks women belong at home and that America needs "cultural cleansing." (Hitler thought Germany needed the same things.)

According to a recently published congressional report noted in Time magazine, several men earned "substantially more than women with the same job titles" in 1991 in the Bush White House.

A male deputy press secretary drew $85,000 per year while his nominal equal, a female, drew $60,000 a year for doing similar work. A male deputy assistant to the president drew $115,300 a year and his nominal equal, a female, drew $70,000 for doing the same work. While the magazine did not detail them, the Bush White House perpetrated a number of similar examples.

In consideration with Bush's views on women's rights in general this should clinch the "Barbie vote" for Bush by women who share the beliefs that women's services are less valuable and that women need external controls for some decisions.

On the other hand there may be a few women readers who believe their services are as valuable as a man's services, will resent these inequalities, and will remember them in the voting booth.

Personally, I wonder how many private sector press secretaries in the United States earn $60,000 a year, and I wonder how many deputy assistants to CEOs earn $70,000 a year. Not very many is the answer.

They are all overpaid, but isn't it ironic that even in the "kinder, gentler" atmosphere surrounding George Bush and his "family values" that women still get the short end of the stick?

Sincerely,
W.L. Welch

To the Editor:

While I was at work on Tuesday, September 22, I experienced a most gruesome sight. A dog was being dragged behind a pickup truck while leashed to the bumper. I immediately called the Oakland City Police and told them what I had seen. The officer on duty asked, "Is this a joke?" I assured him that this was no joke, and asked if he could please assist me in this matter. The officer's reply was that by the time that the police arrived, the vehicle would be gone.

I could not believe that the officer would not even make an attempt to help in this cruel situation, or even direct my call to an appropriate person who could. I had to do something. I then called the Garrett County Animal Shelter. They immediately responded, and located the truck within minutes. The dog had to be put to sleep because he was so severely injured.

The police department's handling of the matter was most upsetting. I only can hope that had it been MY life, they would have answered the call.

Sincerely yours,
Noel Hershman

To the Editor:

From the mountains of Garrett County to Maryland's far Eastern Shore, from the lake at Deep Creek to the Harbor of Baltimore, to the skiing of winter on the Mtn. Top to the canoe races of Savage River on down to the Baltimore Bay where our National Anthem was written, from Garrett and Allegany counties and far below Baltimore County and all the counties in between, each has its own history and beautiful scenery.

Then we have our own county fair which our farmers from all around bring in their harvest as do the 4-H members, for which they receive ribbons for the best and etc. Then all the trees in October bring out their leaves of red, gold, and green. We have our Autumn Glory parade in which bands and floats from all over the state participate. The Shriners add to our colorful parade, which is very much appreciated.

To all our schools and colleges, both large and small, in the whole state where each has its own degrees in learning from education to medical science. With its many hospitals noted for learning and saving lives. From the employers and employees from coal mines, railroads, and Luke Paper Mill and to B & L for making glasses. For the many different churches in our area and also for the many fire departments and rescue squads.

How lucky we are to be living in America, Maryland, and Garrett County.

To the Editor:

Pro-choice voters may be in the majority in this state, but we will lose the referendum if the majority doesn't come out and vote. Don't be lulled into a false sense of security on election day because you think the referendum will pass anyway. Please don't stay away from the polls because you are disenchanted with the choices for president or because you believe that all politicians are corrupt and incompetent. Don't vote for any of them if you don't want to, but please come out and vote for Question 6.

The vote you cast may keep abortion legal in Maryland and save the life of someone you love.

R. Newton

To the Editor:

There is a policy in the Garrett County School System to give criminal background checks to all new employees. However, these people are starting to work without the results on file! I feel they should have this on file before they are hired. Who is to say they are not child molesters or drug dealers? Even though it is a short period of time before this background check comes back, they would still be with our children on a day-to-day basis until then!

I believe that all the parents of children in the Garrett County School System should go to the next board meeting on October 13 at 8 p.m. for public comment.

If we bother to have a criminal background check done, we should at least wait until the results come back before hiring the people!

An Update From The Superintendent

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, Superintendent

Computer-Assisted Instruction
At Broad Ford Elementary School
by Thomas Fowler, Principal Broad Ford Elementary School

Every student at Broad Ford Elementary School, kindergarten through fifth grade, has access to computers. We have a computer classroom centrally located in the media center that houses 29 Apple computers. It provides a classroom setting where teachers can enhance their instructional program to achieve curricular objectives. The instruction that occurs in the computer classroom is directly related to lessons taught in the regular classroom. The computer classroom is available throughout the day, every day.

Charles Trautwein, computer resource teacher for the Board of Education, has provided workshops and training for our instructional staff to familiarize them with all the software available to support our instructional program. For example, we now have over 90 separate titles to reinforce any math concept, grades kindergarten through fifth grade. We also have a wide variety of programs to support our language arts, social studies, and science curriculum.

Mr. Trautwein is also available to work with individual teachers and classes to model effective use of this technology. In addition, he has classes for groups of parents to actually come into the computer classroom to work with the same software the children are using so they can reinforce the instructional program.

We also have Gary "Dusty" Stanton, media resource teacher for the Board of Education, who provides support and training for our media assistant to insure the effective use of technology through the computer classroom and media center. He provides training for CD ROM program which is a reference tool for students where the entire Grolier's Encyclopedia is available on a hard disk.

Also, we have an "electronic blackboard" which is actually an LCD panel used with an overhead projector. This allows a computer image to be projected on a screen for use with whole classes or groups.

In addition, we are in the process of networking our system with computers in the regular classroom so that students, or groups of students, can benefit from the available programs right in their classrooms. One of the fourth grade teachers, Sandy Wilson, has been using this approach with some impressive results. We are hoping to have this available to all students in the near future.

One of our fourth grade classes completed a variety of exciting activities. One example was a newsletter that involved writing and editing skills, along with integrating activities from a variety of classes, including social studies, science, and health. Our kindergarten learned about graphs and how to produce them using computer-assisted instruction. Several classes have also worked with logo, which is a programming language, but is used to teach instructional concepts, such as angles, polygons, and number concepts.

Students are excited and enthused about this method of instruction. They are motivated to learn. We keep a log in our computer classroom and ask teachers to make comments or suggestions after each class. We commonly find comments such as, "This lesson was great!" or "The class loved it." or "I wish we had more time."

I believe the programs we have discussed greatly enhance our educational programs in a way that aids teachers and motivates children.

What's Happening In Our Schools?

October 1: Officer Phil will present a program to fourth and fifth grade students at Broad Ford and Kitzmiller elementary schools on chemical awareness.

October 2: Fourth and fifth grade students from Broad Ford and Kitzmiller and fifth graders from Dennett Road will be visiting the Springs Festival to learn more about early American history.

October 3: The Northern High Marching Band will present the fifth annual Tournament of Bands marching competition at 6 p.m.

October 5: The Board of Education and Garrett Community College will sponsor the annual College Expo at the McHenry House at 7 p.m. Representatives from over 60 institutions of post-secondary education will be present to talk with students and parents.

October 7: State Trooper Lodge 40 has invited all Level IV special education students in the county to its annual picnic at the picnic grounds in Finzel.

October 5-9: Fifth grade students from Kitzmiller will be traveling to GCC to attend the College and Me Program.

October 12-16: Friendsville fifth graders to GCC for College and Me.

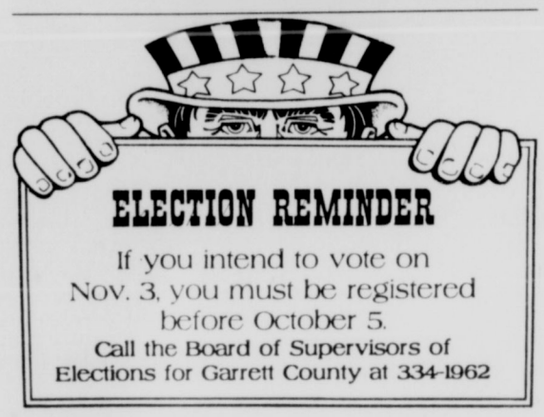
The Mind Wanders



Rah! Rah!
by Pam Ashby

I don't know. Is it just me or has school spirit diminished greatly over the past 20 years? Some friends of mine at a recent football game were sitting there chatting and suddenly realized the team had appeared on the field after halftime and about six people cheered. (Probably proud parents.) Anyway, shame on us for not showing more enthusiasm for those players who work darned hard each week -- not only to be good football players, but to keep up their grades, as well. And what about the band? Their halftime show was magnificent and showed hours of practice. A handful of parents applauded their efforts. I looked at my friends (both former cheerleaders) and remarked, "Boy, we're duds when it comes to being fans, aren't we?" They agreed. So we started yelling our heads off. People looked at us as if we had escaped from a home for wayward cheerleaders.

Maybe it was our persistence, but in no time some freshmen began cheering, too. Some of the braver guys even went down with the cheerleaders to "give them a hand." Suddenly there was school spirit -- at least in our little corner of the bleachers.

I remember when I was in high school, Bobby Rudy and a bunch of other guys started a pep squad. They wore red and white vests and bowler hats and really brought the house down for the few sports teams we had back in the dinosaur days. Diane Arnett recalled one instance when the pep squad became so enthusiastic the refs asked them to leave. Now, I'm not saying we need to bring the house down, but loud cheering and singing the school song every now and then would be nice. How about a trumpet player in the stands leading the old, familiar "Duh, duh, duh, duh, duh, duh . . . CHARGE! And the fans go wild and our team scores another touchdown. And the band plays the school song and the cheerleaders lead us in strong voice. I'm sure our talented band and cheerleaders would do that if they thought they had some backing.

This is a challenge. Let's get behind our team, our cheerleaders, and our band and show them what real spirit is. Homecoming is drawing nigh. That might be a good time to start since it's never too late. Rah! Rah!

separate cases involving an Accident man, charged with various counts of child and sexual abuse, and drug charges.

Charles D. Fazenbaker, 30, pleaded guilty to fourth degree sex offense, in one case, following an incident that reportedly occurred May 15 at his residence at Devil's Half Acre with a 14-year-old female. Charges of child abuse and assault and battery were not prosecuted.

In the second case, Fazenbaker pleaded guilty to a charge of manufacturing a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana) following the execution of a search and seizure warrant at his residence on May 21. Charges of possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia were not prosecuted.

The arresting officer in the case was Tfc. R.M. Hershberger of the Maryland State Police. Robert C. Hesson was the defending attorney.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for a Richmond, Va. man who was found guilty last week on two counts of battery, one count of resisting arrest, and one count of exceeding the maximum speed limit. The verdict was handed down by a jury, which was requested by the defendant.

Jesse A. Miles, 28, was charged by Maryland State Police following an incident on I-68 on May 25, when he was stopped for a speeding violation and, according to police reports, resisted arrest and assaulted Tfc. Scott Anderson.

ELDER ABUSE: YOU CAN HELP

The following article was provided by the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging.

Elder abuse is a shocking revelation to most Americans, and the average citizen may find it hard to believe that the problem exists. Studies suggest, however, that elder abuse is a widespread phenomenon affecting hundreds of thousands of vulnerable people across all classes of society. Only with the support of the general public can we ensure that cases are brought to light and appropriate action is taken.

The true incidence of elder abuse, like the true incidence of child abuse, is not known. Elder abuse is far less likely to be reported than child abuse, which has gained greater public awareness. Statistical data on institutional elder abuse are so scarce that it is not possible to make any national estimates of its incidence. The Office of State Long-Term Care ombudsman in each state does maintain some data on "complaints" made by nursing home residents.

Although it cannot be established whether the incidence of elder abuse itself is increasing, available data suggest that, nationwide, reports of elder abuse have been increasing steadily in the past few years.

Currently, elder abuse is defined by state laws, and state definitions vary considerably from one jurisdiction to another in terms of what constitutes the abuse, neglect, or exploitation of the elderly. Broadly defined, however, there are three basic categories of elder abuse: domestic elder abuse, institutional elder abuse, and self-neglect or self-abuse.

Everyone can help in efforts to protect vulnerable older people from all types of abuse, neglect, and exploitation. If you are concerned that elder abuse is happening within the community or an institution, contact your local ombudsman at the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging at 334-5856, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. If the victim of abuse is a resident in the community, you may report directly to the local Department of Social Services at 334-5404.

SHS Student Learns About Russian Government, Life Through Student Ambassador Program

by Sherry Lebowitz
with Ryan Durst

"It was fascinating, but I was definitely glad to be home," remarked Ryan Durst, 15, Oakland, in regard to his trip this summer to the former Soviet Union. Durst was one of a group of 12 students selected from throughout the southeastern United States to participate in the Initiative for Understanding High School Student Ambassador Program.

Durst traveled to three cities in Russia itself, including the capital, Moscow, Russia's "Second City," St. Petersburg, and Tver, a city north of Moscow, approximately the size of Uniontown, Pa. He also visited the city of Riga, the capital of Latvia, one of the three breakaway Baltic Republics.

The program's itinerary began in St. Petersburg, the Imperial City of the deposed Russian czars. The name of the city was changed from Leningrad back to its pre-Communist name of St. Petersburg in 1991. The first thing that Durst noticed was the difference in the demeanor of the people in public. "People are quiet on the streets," said Durst. "They don't smile."

In a short time, he found the mood of the people to be extremely pessimistic. Through meetings set up for the delegation with government, business, and legal professionals, Ryan found the situation to be far worse than alluded to by the American media. "As bad as the situation is portrayed on television, it does not begin to tell the story of the devastation in Russia," Durst explained. "It is a country which is on the brink of total collapse."

Ryan Durst

In tours through the city, Durst witnessed the grandeur and elegance of the Imperial times before the Communist Revolution of 1917. He also saw how the symbols of Czarist power had eroded during the 70-year Communist rule. "It was terrible to walk into a Russian Orthodox Cathedral that had been completely gutted on the inside, stripped of all religious paintings, statues, and other artifacts," Durst commented. "As we explored further, we found 30 or 40 old women in one corner of this huge, empty cavern, each holding a candle and praying beside a large cross propped up against a wall."

The group encountered many ways of doing things that they thought strange. For instance, in restaurants, people do not have a menu from which to order, the restaurant prepares the exact meal for every patron. One evening, when the meal was a plate of squash, Ryan was glad he had been advised to bring snacks.

Another oddity was the procedure for purchasing something in a store. "When you wanted to buy something, you would have to go get the cashier, show him the item, go to the register to buy it, and then he would take you back to the shelf and get the item for you," Durst mused.

In St. Petersburg, the itinerary included dinner visits with a local family. The family that Durst visited consisted of two parents and two children. The father held the rank of captain in the Russian Navy. Although he held a high place in Russian society, the family lived in a six-room apartment and had no car. "I was surprised by the standard of living the family maintained until I realized that they lived far better than most," Durst explained. "After we returned to the hotel, our group's leader informed me that Mikhail Gorbachev lives in a six-room apartment and makes the equivalent of $60 a month."

Durst learned that private houses simply do not exist in the urban areas of Russia. "Surrounding the cities, there are clusters of apartment buildings for miles -- all of the exact same height and similar design," Durst stated. "The only difference was each building's level of disrepair."

He found that apartments of all Russians he visited were clean, but the hallways, exteriors of the buildings, and the grounds of the apartment complexes, which were the responsibility of the state to maintain, were in terrible shape. "I would walk out of a room which was as comfortable as any back in America and be nearly overpowered by the stench in the hallway," he remarked.

From St. Petersburg, the delegation traveled to Riga by train. "The difference between Russia and Latvia is tremendous," Durst stated. "Even though a year ago they were the same country." he felt Riga was much more positive, both in its economic situation and the attitude of its people.

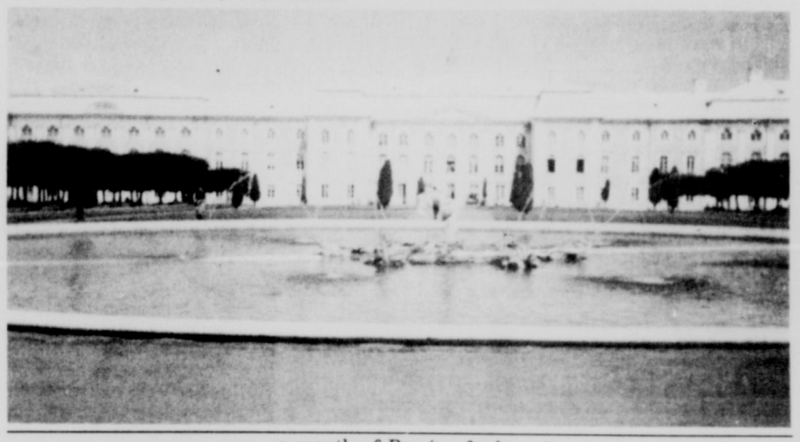
"The Latvian people have the idea that they are finally free of Soviet domination and that it is time for them to go out and be successful on their own," Durst explained. Their attitude seems to be that now that they have finally thrown off Communism, they have no more excuses to have to pull themselves together."

Outside the apartment building in which a family lived that Durst visited, was a mass of antennas that served as a reminder of the old days. When he asked what it was, his host replied that it was a device set up by the Red Army to keep the Latvians from listening to Western radio stations by jamming the signals. "I found that to be typical of the restraints out on the people by the system," Durst stated. "The Communists told the people where to work, where to live, and who to vote for. The government told the people what to do for so long, that they now have a real problem doing things on their own. I think that is making the problems they are facing now worse because no one knows how to make the crucial choices, both in government and in the private sector."

Durst found it to be a misconception that Russia is now a free democracy. Some 94 percent of the businesses in Russia are still state owned," Durst explained. He related the story told to the group by the editor of a Moscow newsmagazine who explained how the Yeltsin government had attempted to shut them down.

"I didn't meet anyone who was a big fan of Boris Yeltsin," he stated. "Everyone thought he was going either too slow or too fast."

In Moscow, Durst visited the Kremlin, the symbol of Communism, the tomb of the founder of Communism, Vladmir Lenin. "The Kremlin was incredible, the only place I have seen that could compare to it would be the U.S. Capitol," he said. "The Kremlin was a palace for 1,000 years and it shows."



Another famous site in Moscow which left an impression on Durst was the Moscow McDonald's. It is the largest McDonald's in the world and has 50 cash registers and seats over 4,500 people. "We waited in line for 45 minutes, but after a month of Russian food, a cheeseburger was worth the wait," he laughed. "They also had security guards to keep people from jumping line."

While in Moscow, the group participated in what Durst felt was their most

PETER THE GREAT'S SUMMER PALACE, shown above, appears to be one of Russia's better-kept buildings. Ryan Durst, who visited the palace remarked that many of the buildings in Russia are in ill-repair. The palace is located just outside St. Petersburg, Russia's "Second City." St. Petersburg is known as the Imperial City of the deposed Russian czars. The name of the city was changed from Leningrad back to its pre-communist name in 1991. Lenin's Guards are watchful over Lenin's Tomb, below, at the Kremlin.

GREAT RUSSIAN ARCHITECTURE - St. Basil's Cathedral in the Red Square in Moscow is often what comes to mind when one pictures the architecture of Russia. Ryan Durst posed for a brief moment in front of the cathedral during his recent visit to Russia through the Initiative for Understanding High School Student Ambassador Program. Durst traveled to three Russian cities and to the city of Riga, the capital of Latvia.

SOME 275 BIKERS from all over the region convened at Wisp Resort in McHenry last weekend to participate in a fund-raising ride for the American Lung Association. This was triple the number of bikers who participated in the first Deep Creek Lake Autumn Bike Tour last year. Participants gathered pledges and then selected one of three bike routes, 15, 25, and 40 miles to complete during the Saturday and Sunday rides. According to Glen Besa, of the Maryland Lung Association, over $42,000 in pledges was secured by the riders. Local organizers of the event say their goal is to have 1,000 riders in the event within the next few years. Bikers were accommodated for the weekend at the Wisp Hotel and received various prizes for their fund-raising efforts, depending upon the level of pledges. Among the local sponsors of the event were Wisp, Marsh Run Nursery, Rudy's Ski and Bike Shop, and Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Many local volunteers assisted with the rides in various capacities, such as working at check stations that provided food and refreshments. Pictured below right, left to right, are Pat Carson, Joelle Plaugher, and park naturalist Brian Friend at the Deep Creek State Park station. Some riders even brought along younger family members and took them along for the ride, as is evidenced in the far right photo. Photos by Carl Rebele.

When the community needs cancer care,
At one time, obtaining chemotherapy for cancer treatment involved leaving the community, adding to the fear of the disease, the anxiety of dealing with unfamiliar surroundings.
But that's no longer the case. And though Garrett County Memorial Hospital hasn't found a cure for cancer, we have found a way to make cancer care more accessible by now offering chemotherapy services right here in our Outpatient Care Unit. As a result, local residents no longer have to leave the community to receive this level of cancer treatment and can still use their own oncologist who will work through our superb team of staff physicians and outpatient care nurses.
For more information about our chemotherapy services, feel free to contact one of our outpatient nurses, Ginger or Angie, trained in giving chemotherapy care, at (301) 334-2155 ext. 371.

Further training opportunities this summer included a Math and Mind's Eye course at WVU which showed the correlation of art and science in math that can make math useful in most fields of study as well as a fun subject in its own right. The course promoted teaching styles and strategies that emphasize active-learning experiences, problem-solving skills, and independent investigation. Delores Harsh attended the course and received materials (available to all teachers grades 3-6) which encourages the student's capacity for visual thinking.

June Sisler, special ed teacher, enrolled at WVU for a summer class, "Teaching Stratagems for the Mentally Retarded" and is currently enrolled in another class which will complete her certification requirements as a specialist in mental retardation. The course work will be followed by a short practicum.

Terri McWilliams participated on the Preston County committee writing the math curriculum guides for grades K-12. They were guided by state standards, National Council of Teachers of Mathematics guides, and previous Preston County curriculum to form a more progressive math program for the county schools.

Rams Drop To 1-3 With 36-8 Upset Loss To Keyser

The Southern High Rams went into Friday night's contest at Keyser High School as the favorite, but someone failed to convince the Golden Tornado that the Rams were the better of the two teams that night, as Jammie Fields led the Tornado to a 36-8 victory.

Fields carried the ball 28 times, rushing for 118 yards and scoring three touchdowns and three two-point conversions to help his team even its record at 2-2. Fields also had an interception that set up a touchdown. The defeat dropped the Rams to 1-2.

The Rams nearly kept pace with Keyser in overall yardage, but had trouble maintaining possession of the football in the rainy conditions, as they turned the ball over five times, three via fumbles and twice by interception. Keyser turned the ball over twice, both on fumbles.

Southern Coach Fred Gregg said before the game that containing Fields was crucial if the Rams were to win the game, and his assessment proved to be true, as the Southern defensive unit was unable to stop Fields, particularly on the option play. Fields' first two touchdowns were scored on a option pitch to the left, as were all three of his conversion runs.

Neither team scored in the first quarter and Fields broke the deadlock in the second quarter with a five-yard touchdown run to cap a 12-play, 76-yard drive. His two-point conversion run gave the Tornado an 8-0 lead.

The Rams' next possession was terminated when quarterback C.J. Getson's pass was picked off by Fields at the Southern 40 and returned to the 20. Four plays later Fields scored on a two-yard option run to the left and once again added the two-point conversion on the same play to give Keyser a 16-0 halftime lead.

The Rams nearly scored in the final moments of the first half, as Getson connected with Jeremy Fitzwater on an eight-yard pass and then hit Jeremy Bosley with a 51-yard pass/run play. Bosley was tackled from behind at the Keyser four-yard line, giving the Rams first and goal at that point. But the Tornado defense rose to the occasion and the Rams were suddenly faced with a fourth and goal from the four. On the next play, Getson's run from the shotgun position was halted after just a one-yard gain.

The Rams re-grouped at halftime and came back with a drive to open the third quarter, with Bosley gaining 21 yards on two carries and Pete Strawser contributing a nine-yard run. Then Strawser was thrown for a six-yard loss on second down and three, Getson's third-down pass fell incomplete, and the Rams gave up the ball when Getson's fake-punt scramble was halted one yard short. Getson also sustained an ankle injury on the play, but was able to return later in the game.

On Keyser's following drive, quarterback Aaron Sanders fumbled the ball away at the Ram 46, but on the next play with Fitzwater at quarterback for the Rams, the ball was fumbled again on the exchange and Keyser recovered to resume possession. The drive culminated with a 33-yard run up the middle by fullback Tim Cook, as the Ram defense was looking for the option to Fields. Fields ran for the conversion to make it 24-0.

Southern's next drive was halted again by the fumble, this time at the Keyser 47. The Tornado took only four plays to score, with one of those being a 37-yard pass from Sanders to Pete Fritsch. Fields scored two plays later on the option pitch to the right. His run for the two points was stopped this time by the Ram defense.

A 33-yard run by Sanders highlighted Keyser's final touchdown drive, which covered 56 yards in just three plays. Fullback Anthony Hofstad scored the six points on a 15-yard sweep. The kick for the extra point failed.

The Rams avoided the shutout by finally scoring late in the fourth period when Getson completed three passes and drew a pass interference penalty. He connected with Jeremy Baker on a 21-yarder, hit Bosley with a 10-yard strike, and then fired to Bosley in the back of the end zone for a 19-yard touchdown. Getson also passed to Mark Elliott for the two-point conversion.

The only game honor that was handed out went to Danny House, who was named Defensive Player of the Week. "We moved Danny to defensive end because of an injury situation and he had an outstanding game," stated Dave Bosley, defensive coordinator. House is a 5-7, 168-pound senior.

The defeat was possibly the most disappointing ever for second-year Coach Gregg, who declined to offer excuses for his team's downfall. "They just pounded us," he said, "and the pounding made the option play very effective for them. We played with a lot of enthusiasm, but we just didn't play well. We could blame the weather conditions and injuries, but I don't want to do that."

Danny House
Defensive Player of the Week

When asked if he thought the favored Rams took their opponent too lightly, Gregg said, "No, we saw films and knew they were a good team. Our entire schedule demands that we play as well as we possibly can each and every week. If we don't, then we are going to be in trouble, no matter who our opponent is."

Gregg did say that he thought the loss to a powerful Musselman team the previous week "was tougher to shake off than we thought it would be."

Missing from the Keyser game was junior running back/linebacker Josh Woods, who sustained a neck injury in the Musselman game. Also out of the Keyser game, or injured in that game, were Getson, who re-injured an ankle; Josh Hinebaugh with a hip injury; Steve Eyler, Rich Warnick, Mike Glotfelty, and Matt Devens. Expected to be back this week are Woods, Hinebaugh, Devens, and Getson, while Warnick and Glotfelty are both listed as "possible."

The Rams' opponent this week is a team quite similar to the Golden Tornado, both offensively and defensively and in terms of speed and size. The Hampshire High Trojans are 1-4 on the season, but according to Gregg possess plenty of weapons to defeat the Rams.

The Trojan flanker-I offense is led by their senior quarterback Travis Oates (6-1, 175), senior flanker Jeff Dodson (5-10, 168), and junior fullback Travis McBride (6-0, 195).

"Dodson is very fast and he has caught five touchdown passes in five games, so we are really going to have to contain him when they throw," Gregg said.

The Hampshire 5-2 defense is anchored by McBride at linebacker.

The Trojans, who are coming off a loss to a strong James Wood team, have always given the Rams a tough game on their own field, where some of the most exciting Southern victories in the past decade have taken place in the final moments of the game.

"Our offensive line is going to have to play much better this week," Gregg said. "Nothing will work offensively, no matter what your strategy is, if you don't provide blocking.

"Our fundamentals tend to erode in the heat of battle, which is expected with an inexperienced team. But we have three games behind us now and we simply cannot allow inexperience to be an excuse. Hopefully we can re-group this week, get healthy, and bring back a win from Hampshire."

The kickoff at Hampshire High, located along U.S. Rt. 50 about five miles east of Romney, W.Va., is slated for 8 p.m.

Sheila Butt led the Lakers against Hagerstown by going 11-for-12 at the service line, while Heather Shepherd was the top attacker with a 17-for-19 effort.

Dawn DeShong led the Lakers in the win over the Owls by recording nine service points. Karen Benham was six-for-six in attacks and Cara Wachter was four-for-four.

The Lakers, now 6-4, will play at Hood College in Frederick this afternoon.

Huskies Roll Past Turkeyfoot To Record Fourth Victory

The undefeated Northern High Huskies started slowly against visiting Turkeyfoot last Friday night, but then proceeded to score 21 points in the second quarter to take control of the game and go on to record their fourth straight win in as many games.

The 35-6 victory, once again highlighted by an outstanding defensive performance by the Huskies, gave Coach Tom Vent his best start ever in his tenure as the Northern head coach and puts the Huskies well at the top of the regional standings.

The Northern offense, led by first-year quarterback Rob Speicher, rolled up 300 yards, with Chris Wachter and Paul Edwards leading the way in rushing. The Northern defense yielded only 127 yards in total offense, with 70 of those yards recorded on a touchdown run by Scott Metz against Northern's second team. In the first four games, the Husky defense has yielded an average of only 122 yards and three points per game.

After a scoreless first quarter, an eight-yard touchdown run by Edwards, followed by Jon Hinebaugh's kick, opened the Huskies' scoring in the second period.

On their next drive, Rob Speicher carried the ball to paydirt on an 11-yard run and Hinebaugh again booted the extra point to make it 14-0.

Speicher, who was four-for-10 in passing on the evening, connected with Wachter on a seven-yard scoring aerial and Hinebaugh's third conversion kick gave the Huskies their 21-0 halftime lead.

Metz broke loose on his 70-yard scoring run in the third quarter to avert a shutout for Turkeyfoot. The pass for the two-point conversion was no good.

Wachter answered Metz's run with a 75-yard scoring jaunt of his own. Hinebaugh's kick made it 28-6.

An insurance touchdown was added by the Huskies in the fourth period when Chris Rowe scored on a seven-yard run. Hinebaugh successfully booted his fifth straight conversion of the evening to wrap up the scoring.

Greg Wagner and Todd Brenneman led the Northern defense with 11 and nine tackles, respectively, while Jason Fazenbaker, who was named Defensive Player of the Week and also received the Hammer Award, controlled the line of scrimmage on both sides of the ball.

Speicher was selected Offensive Player of the Game, while center Bobby Fritz, whose play was outstanding in punting and kicking situations, was named Special Teams Player of the Week.

"We really lacked intensity in the first quarter," Coach Vent said. "It was frustrating until the second quarter when our offensive line finally decided to start blocking, allowing our backs to take advantage of their defense."

Vent commented on the efforts of Speicher, saying, "Rob is really doing a nice job for us. He took a lot of hits, but he's s tough kid who never gripes and just goes out and does the job."

He also noted the performance of Fritz at center, pointing out that Hinebaugh is 11-for-12 on extra point attempts this year and one-for-one in field goals. "We often forget that every play starts from the snap, and unless it's clean, the play can't get started, especially in punting and kicking situations. Bobby is a mature, smart kid who really knows what's going on on the field."

Vent said he has been "a little disappointed" in the intensity level of play from his reserves, noting that they are allowing some of the first-team players to become "too content" with their positions.

"Our first-team players need to be pushed, and we have a number of reserves who are capable of doing that, but are not doing it," he said. "Our younger kids need to realize that they can be called on at any given time, especially in injury situations, and they need to play with the same level of intensity as our first team players. Plus we can't afford to have our first team get complacent, especially as we begin to face some of our tougher opponents."

Those tougher opponents probably do not include Notre Dame, a Clarksburg team the Huskies will face this Friday evening on the West Virginians' field.

"Their program is a little down right now," Vent said, "at least in terms of numbers. But it's my policy to never overlook any team and our biggest challenge this week is to make sure our kids go into the game with the enthusiasm they will definitely need later on."

The only common opponent so far this season between the two teams is Turkeyfoot, which defeated Notre Dame, 28-20, earlier this year.

GCC Volleyball Team Wins Three Of Four Matches

The Garrett Community College volleyball team upped its record to 5-3 this past week by defeating Penn State-New Kensington and Potomac State College last Thursday in McHenry, and then splitting with Essex and Hood on Saturday, also on the Lakers' court.

Coach Margaret Quinn's team topped New Kensington, 15-5 and 15-5, and then defeated Potomac State, 9-15, 15-11, and 15-8.

Saturday's contest with Essex went five games, as the Lakers lost the first, 15-5, won the next two, 15-11 and 15-8, and then lost the fourth and fifth games, 15-8 and 16-14. The Lakers had match point in the fifth game, but failed on the serve and gave Essex the opportunity to win.

Heather Shepherd paced the Lakers scoring effort with 22 of 25 effective serves, while Kara Wachter led in service receptions with a 12-for-13 effort. She also led in attacks with an 83 percent effectiveness. Sheila Butt and Dawn DeShong were the top setters.

It took only two games for the Lakers to dispose of Hood, 15-9 and 15-11.

Shepherd again led with a 12-for-12 serving performance. Charity Taylor was seven for eight, Karen Denham hit on eight of nine, and Butt was six-for-seven. Wachter again led in service receptions with 12 of 14 and Taylor finished with 11 successful attacks on 12 attempts.

SHS Volleyball Team Tops Fort Hill, Mt. Savage

The Southern High School varsity volleyball team improved its season mark to 3-3 this past week with a pair of wins, as the Rams edged visiting Fort Hill Monday, 3-2, and then defeated Mount Savage for the first time in the history of the school last night, 3-1, also in Oakland.

Cherie Browning tied a school record with 19 kills against Fort Hill, as it took all five games for the Rams to dispose of the Sentinels. Fort Hill won the first and fourth games, 18-16 and 15-7, while the Rams won the next second, third, and fifth games, 15-4, 17-15, and 15-5, respectively.

Sherry Niner and Keri Kratofil each recorded 15 service points for the Rams, while Christie Crews had 13. Tricia Marple finished with seven aces and Kratofil had six.

Pacing Fort Hill (1-4) was Dani Lipscomb with 11 points. Gina Brown had 10 points and 15 kills and Rana Merrill recorded 10 points.

The Ram junior varsity squad was defeated in the preliminary match, 15-10 and 15-11. Kellie White and Gretchen Trickett led Southern with seven and six points, respectively.

Last night against Mt. Savage, Sherry Nine led Southern again with 18 service points. Marple finished with 12 and Crews and Kratofil each had nine. Browning led in kills with 15.

The Rams won the first game, 15-12, lost the second, 15-7, and won the next two, 15-2 and 15-11.

Leading the Indians' scoring was Holly Festerman with 13 points.

"The win over Mt. Savage was great, since it's the first time we have ever beaten them," stated Southern Coach Sue Snyder. Snyder faced the Indians many times as a player for Southern several years ago.

The Southern jayvees were defeated in the preliminary match, 15-10 and 15-7, as Jennifer Stafford led the Mt. Savage jayvees with 17 points.

Southern will play at home again on Monday against Beall and then travel to Westmar on Wednesday.

SHS Harriers Participate In Uniontown Race

The Southern High School cross country teams were among the participants in the Uniontown Invitational Saturday afternoon.

Leading the seven-member boys' team in the event was Bryan Clickener, who finished fifth among the 80 male runners with a time of 18 minutes, 14 seconds. Uniontown's Mike Tanner was the overall winner, as he crossed the finish line with a time of 17:10.

The next Ram to finish was Matt Newcomb, who was knocked down on the course, but recovered to place 17th overall with a time of 19:16. Other Southern finishers were Todd Howard, Andy Craver, Dan Skipper, Jamie Jacoby, and Aaron Chorpenning.

Trinity, Pa., won the boys' team title.

In the varsity girls' competition, Southern's best finisher was Jenny Reams, who recorded a time of 23:03 to place 10th. Reams was slightly injured and almost lost a shoe when a runner stepped on her heel.

Southern's Shannon Dabney was knocked down at the start of the race and was in last place among the 61 runners in the early going, but moved up to finish in 29th place with a time of 25:43.

Other Southern girls completing the race were Andrea Devens, Tammy Butt, Leah Broadwater, and Janet DeWitt.

The overall winner in the girls' race was Mary Ann Myers of Morgantown High, who set a course record of 20:11.

Franklin Regional High School won the team championship.

In the junior varsity race, Southern's Chris Jones placed fifth overall with a time of 21:23. Other Ram jayvees who completed the race were Steve Shockey, Bobby Aspinall, Chester Stacy, and Charlie Wesley.

The next meet for the Southern teams is the Frostburg State Invitational at Rocky Gap State Park this Saturday, Oct. 3. The teams will then return to Rocky Gap next Tuesday, Oct. 6, for the Area Meet.

Cindy Tichnell, Diehards, Power Pac To Perform

The Aerobic Diehards and Power Pac youth fitness teams will perform in downtown Oakland on Thursday, Oct. 8, at 6:15 p.m., just prior to the Autumn Glory Firemen's parade.

Featured performer will be Cindy Tichnell, Bloomington who will present her competition solo that she will be using for the Reebok Mid-Atlantic Competition on October 10 in Baltimore. The Aerobic Diehards and Power Pac will also be performing at the Reebok National Aerobic Championships.

"We are especially excited about the competition this year with Cindy competing," stated Brenda Brosnihan, owner of Brenda's Body Shop and coach of Cindy Tichnell, the Diehards, and Power Pac. "She is an extraordinary talent and we have been waiting a long time for her to turn 18 so she would be eligible to compete. Her routine is very athletic and displays a great deal of strength and flexibility. We are anticipating she will be very successful at the contest."

The Aerobic Diehards have participated as a demo team at the regional competition for the past seven years. "This year they look as sharp as ever," Ms. Brosnihan said. "Their newest routine displays high energy, strength, and teamwork. We are also proud to have Reebok sponsoring the team with new footwear."

The Diehards are pursing some half-time performances at the WVU basketball games as well as a number of fitness events. According to Ms. Brosnihan, who has been contacted to be a youth fitness consultant for the Reebok National Aerobic Championships, a youth competition is being considered with a possibility of starting as early as next summer.

"The Diehards performance at this event has had a definite influence on proving that kids can do, and like to do, aerobics at all levels. The routines performed by these young athletes are very choreographed and challenge many physical and mental attributes," stated Ms. Brosnihan.

Ram Golfers Finish Third In Home Match

The Southern High golf team hosted three other teams at the Oakland Country Club Tuesday afternoon and finished the match in third place with a team score of 198.

Keyser won the four-team event with a 168, as the Golden Tornado captured its 17th victory in 19 matches. University High of Morgantown placed second with 185 and Frankfort finished fourth with 208.

Jason Skipper led the Rams with a 45, Rich Orr carded a 46, Richard Skipper finished with 52, and Jacob Rodeheaver scored a 55.

Keyser's Brian Kisner was the overall individual winner with his score of 38.

Northern JVs Top Beall, Fall To Allegany

The Northern High junior varsity football team split a pair of games this past week, as the Huskies edged the Beall jayvees last Thursday, 8-6, in Frostburg and were then defeated by host Allegany Monday evening, 41-14.

Beall opened the scoring in Thursday's game on a 12-yard touchdown run by Ryan Shoemake in the second quarter. The run for the conversion failed, which ultimately led to the Mountaineers' loss.

The Huskies came back later in the same quarter, as Jeremy Brenneman hit Brian Heslop with an eight-yard scoring pass. It was Brenneman's pass to Heslop on the next play for the extra two points that won the contest for the Huskies.

The loss dropped the Beall jayvees to 1-2.

In Monday's game Allegany jumped out to a 14-0 lead in the first half, but the Huskies scored a pair of touchdowns in the second quarter to knot the score by halftime. Then the Campers added 27 unanswered points in the second half to secure the win.

Allegany's Mike Carter rushed for over 200 yards and scored four touchdowns.

SHS Jayvees Top Hedgesville, 6-0

The Southern High School junior varsity football team recorded its second win in three starts last Thursday by edging the visiting Hedgesville jayvees, 6-0.

Ram tailback Paul Berkeridge scored the only points of the evening on a 25-yard touchdown run in the second quarter.

According to Coach Scott Harvey, quarterback Andy Woods also excelled offensively, as did the members of the offensive line. Defensively, Harvey noted the performances of linebacker Gary Holland and tackle Randy Murphy.

The Southern jayvees will play again this evening at home against Bishop Walsh. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

The Soccer Referee

(This is the third in a series of articles by Dave Spirk to help educate the local public about the world's most widely play sports, soccer.)

People have commented to me recently that soccer seems to be quite different from other sports because the referees seem quieter and use a minimal amount of signals. This is a good observation and it speaks well for the men in black because that is exactly what they are trained to do. The referee is schooled to not impact the out come of a game. His role is simply to do two things: ensure the safety of the players and enforce the laws of the game.

First, let's talk about the crew. A preferred grouping of referees includes the field referee and two linesmen. When this is not possible, referees will use a dual system with two of them on the field. In this instance there are no linesmen. A third option that is frequently used is one ref on the field and parents as linesmen. This is often seen in recreation associations such as ours.

The job of the linesmen is to signal when a ball goes out of play (the whole ball across the line) and who gets possession for the throw-in. This is done with a flag he holds and points in the direction of possession.

His second function is to signal "offside" calls. He is to position himself even with the next to the last defender so he can clearly make this call.

If he sees this type of infraction he will stand still at the point it occurred and raise his flag for the referee to stop play and award an indirect free kick to the defending team.

Thirds, he is to look for fouls and misconduct the referee may not be able to see from his position on the field. When he spots an infraction, he is to wave his flag over his head from his position on the sideline.

He is also entrusted to call corner kicks by pointing his flag at the corner of the field and goal kicks by pointing at the goal box. Both of these occur when the ball goes out of play over the goal line. He makes his judgment based on who touched the ball last.

The linesmen must also be in position to see when a goal is scored. He signals this by running up the sideline where he is ready to restart play.

He may have other duties like backing up time and score keeping, but basically he uses only three signals, all of which are done with the flag.

The field referee works with the flow of the game. He runs with the play and should never be more than 10 to 15 yards away from the action and in a position to see what is going on. He must look regularly at his linesmen for their signals from the sidelines. He is to blow his whistle only to start the game, start a new time period, at any infraction, to start play on a penalty kick, and to end any time period. (For the convenience of younger players, local rules request the sounding of the whistle at all out of bounds.) The reason a minimal number of whistles are used to keep the game moving and to allow an attacking team the advantage of a quick re-start following an infraction or ball out of play.

The field ref uses only five hand signals. He will hold his hand straight in the air to indicate an indirect free kick. He will hold his hand in the air at an angle to indicate the direction of play on a re-start and also to signal a direct free kick. He will also point either to the goal box or corner kick area when signaled by his linesmen. The fifth hand signal is made with both hands down and pushing forward (like he's rolling a large ball). This signal is used to indicate "advantage." This call means that the referee did in fact see a foul committed; however, the team with possession of the ball did not lose control of the ball and, rather than stop play, the referee decides it was to the attacking team's advantage to keep the ball in play. (This is a tough one to watch and understand, especially if it was your kid who was fouled!)

Referees also use a yellow

A&A Soccer Team Still Unbeaten; Defeats Coney Pizza In Overtime

In its toughest match this season, the A&A Realty Deep Creek Lake men's soccer team squeezed out an overtime win Sunday afternoon over visiting Coney Pizza of Lonaconing, 3-2. This give the local squad a 4-0 record and sole possession of first place in the Mountaintop League.

Lonaconing scored first with a crossing pattern that was chipped by a defender from the home team. The ball popped up into a crowd of onpushing visitors and was bumped into the goal past Deep Creek goalie, John Steele. At the 30-minute mark of the first half, Mike Hoffeditz was awarded an indirect free kick near the mid-field. He smashed a drive toward the goal that was touched by a defender. That touch, coupled with the strong wind, caused the ball to float over the visiting goalkeeper and knot the score at 1-1 at halftime.

Early in the second half Lonaconing scored again. This gaol came on a penalty kick which followed an infraction by a Deep Creek defender in the penalty area. With time winding down and only minutes to play, center, halfback Bob Isaacson placed a perfect pass forward into the gaol area. Hoffeditz ran under the pass and volleyed it into the net for the tie.

In this league, two 10-minute overtime periods must be played before a tie can stand. This time fortune smiled on the Deep Creek team, as right wing Eric Beiser used his breakaway speed down the sideline and placed a perfect centering pass to Hoffeditz, who directed a shot into the corner of the goal for the game winner. It was Hoffeditz's first hat-trick of the season.

The local club is off this week. Their season continues in Mt. Savage on Oct. 11 and 1 p.m. when they play B.O.C. According to team spokesman, Dave Ensley, "B.O.C. is always a top contender. This game should show whether or not we're for real." The public is encouraged to attend.

Youth Soccer League Results Are Announced

Action will continue this Saturday, Oct. 3, with games at Southern Middle School (Under 14 and Under 16) and at Southern High School (Under 12). Starting times for all games are 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

The Under 10 and Under 8 developmental program continues to be active at Southern High School, with more than 50 players participating. Paul Stone, coordinator and trainer in these divisions, noted, "We're seeing a lot of talent at this age group. These will be the players of the future in Garrett County and should be the nucleus of a successful high school program once it's started. The kids are great to work with, eager to learn, and most importantly, they're having fun." (Maryland State Youth Soccer Association regulations preclude publishing standings of teams in these age divisions since emphasis is on skill development and not competition.)

interesting meeting. They met with the director of the Moscow Law School -- the most prestigious school in the country. A professor of international law from Harvard University also attended the meeting. "I was told by the professor that it was easily the Russian equivalent of Harvard Law," said Durst. "Sitting in that meeting with some of the most prestigious people in the world in such an important field made us realize that what we were doing was really major league. My palms were sweating and my hands were shaking as we discussed the development of the new Russian constitution."

The Initiative for Understanding program is not for tourists. The program provides high school students, who are interested in the field of international affairs and foreign relations, an unparalleled learning experience. The program is selective, especially the regional delegation with which Durst traveled. The application process, which included essays, personal interviews, and letters of reference, took over six months.

In summing up his experience, Durst remarked, 'I can't imagine another experience I could have received while still in high school that could have such an impact on my life. On my trip to Russia, I learned not only to understand how repression of the human spirit leads to disaster, but I also learned to appreciate what we have here in America. I learned lessons that will last a lifetime."

card for a serious foul. This is called a "caution." It means, one more serious foul and the player is ejected from the game. For certain fouls, a red card may be shown. This means a player is being ejected from the game and no substitution is allowed; the team must play shorthanded."

As far as safety of the players goes, only the referee may decide to call off or suspend a game due to weather.

One other call that is often misunderstood by spectators occurs when a player is injured. Often the referee will let play continue with a player down on the field. (Another tough one to watch when it's your kid.) The referee may at his discretion allow play to continue until either a stoppage of play or when play moves in the direction of the downed player where further injury may be possible. This is done to prevent teams from faking an injury to stop an attack.

That's about it. The game is designed to continue play action as much as possible. It's done with hand signals and flags to assist international play so language isn't an issue. It's meant to be played in a safe and controlled manner. Love your ref! He's there to help.

Bank Employees To Assist With Festival Parade

The 25th Annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade will be held Saturday, October 10, beginning at 1 p.m. in downtown Oakland, as part of this four-day festival. For the third consecutive year, the parade is being sponsored by First United National Bank & Trust and numerous bank employees will assist with a variety of aspects of the parade.

First United employees will staff a Festival Information Booth at the intersection of Second and Liberty streets from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday prior to the parade and assist in the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council office from 8 a.m. to noon, helping to provide information to the public.

First United employees will also participate in costume depicting cartoon animal characters throughout the morning and these characters will be available for photographs with children. All proceeds from the cartoon character photos will go to the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Program.

A large number of First United volunteers will also assist in organizing the Grand Feature Parade, beginning Friday evening and continuing throughout the day Saturday.

For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone (301) 334-1948.

In the community, Fratz is a member of the Oakland Rotary Club and second vice chairman of the Governing Body, Western Maryland Health Planning Agency. He, his wife, and children reside in McHenry.

First Federal Joins Maryland Bankers Assoc.

First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland recently has become the first savings bank in the state to be accepted as a member of the Maryland Bankers Association.

Previously, only commercial banks were able to become members of the association. However, recent resolutions were passed to allow savings banks to apply for membership. "First Federal is very proud to be the first savings bank to join the Maryland Bankers Association," commented Richard Deckerhoff, president and CEO of First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland. "We are excited and honored that our local community bank has been accepted and are looking forward to taking advantage of the resources now open to us."

Founded in 1896, the mission of the Maryland Bankers Association is to incorporate safe and sound banking principles. Members of the association can take advantage of the many informational and educational resources available. The association also conducts banking schools for employees of their members. The Maryland Bankers Association takes an active role in statewide banking legislation. Headquartered in Annapolis, the association has 94 members and 26 associate members throughout the state.

Dr. Tritch Attends WVU Conference

Todd Tritch, an Oakland, physician, recently attended a continuing education course sponsored by the West Virginia University School of Medicine.

"Ob/Gyn Teaching Days" focused on recent developments in clinical management, new methods of birth control, the latest developments in reproductive technology and nurse-midwifery in West Virginia. Silicon breast implants, infertility treatment and premature birth were also covered.

Dr. Tritch, a member of the Garrett Medical Group, resides in Loch Lynn.

Medical professionals throughout the state attend WVU's continuing education conferences to further their knowledge in specific areas and keep up with new developments in their field.

Roadside Vendors Must Have License

"If you are a vendor who makes taxable sales at roadside or a temporary location, you must display a transient vendor license when making sales on or after October 1, 1992," says Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein. "Our office is mailing transient vendor licenses to hundreds of Maryland vendors who make these kinds of taxable sales."

The free, 90-day license will be issued or reissued only to vendors who have current sales and use tax and trader's licenses and who are not delinquent in the payment of any state taxes. "If you have a current Maryland sales and use tax license, you received an application for the transient vendor license with your sales tax returns this summer," Goldstein said.

Maryland law requires that vendors display the transient license. They must also state the sales and use tax separately and charge the tax on each taxable sale they make.

Exhibitors at fairs, trade shows, flea markets and individuals who sell by catalogues, samples or brochures for future delivery, and persons selling only produce, seafood and other goods not subject to sales and use tax do not need transient vendor licenses.

Penalties for non-compliance include an immediate stop sale order, misdemeanor charges and a $2,500 fine, if convicted. Any law enforcement officer in the state can issue a stop sale order.

The comptroller said vendors who need a transient license should contact the Sales and Use Tax Division's Taxpayer Service Unit at (410) 225-1300 in the Baltimore area, or toll-free 1-800-492-1751 from elsewhere in Maryland.

LIFE GOES ON - - - AND ON, AND ON - - -

How long can you expect to live? Certainly it is now possible to live longer than your parents and their ancestors. But, this increased life expectancy is not completely automatic. You must take an active part in helping it to be realized.

Your physician is the main link. He is there to help you to maintain good health, overcome a sickness and to spot possible trouble before it gets too serious. Pharmacists are proud to be another important link by supplying any medicines and health aids you may need or your doctor may prescribe.

Deposit Them at the Door

"Remember now . . . leave your shoes at the door. We don't want to bring the outside in!" One may assume that inside of this home there is a person who cares about a pleasant atmosphere; someone who cares about taking care . . . of everyone . . . all ages and sizes.

This week, whether you are nine or ninety-nine, as you approach your house of worship, prepare your mind for a peaceful and a positive experience. There is Someone there Who cares.

In God's Word we read, "When the cares on my heart are many, Thy consolations cheer my soul." (Psalms 94:19)

Enter God's House with happiness. Don't bring the outside in. Leave your cares behind. Deposit them at the door.

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ARE WE ELECTING GOD?
October 4, 1992

Background Scripture:
1 Samuel 7:15 through 8:22.
Devotional Reading:
1 Samuel 8:10-18.

By the time you read this, the Presidential election campaign will be even more intense than it is now, two months earlier. I am always amazed at the tremendous amount of emotion and fervor that is generated by a political campaign, even at a time in our history when more and more people are turned-off from the whole process. The politician seems to work on the premise that the electorate is more likely to be swayed by emotion and prejudice than reason and honesty. (Of course, if we the electorate were ever to respond differently, the politician might be forced to change his or her appeal.)

It is frequently reported that the electorate is fed up with politics because what we are getting is not what we need, either individually or as a country. But perhaps the problem is, not that we are not getting what we deserve, but that we are. Let me suggest that what makes our political life so odious to us is that it reflects the real values of our culture. In other words, the politician may be not more than our next door neighbor--or the person we see in the bathroom mirror every morning--under the bright light of public scrutiny. Isn't it likely that, if the level of our national morality were higher, so would be our politics?

GOD REJECTED?

I have always had some difficulty with what is reported to be the attitude of God in this portion of the story of Samuel. The people say they are fed up with the corruption of Samuel's two sons. So what could be more reasonable than for them to want a king to improve the quality of government? Why does God assume that their desire for strong leadership is a rejection of himself? "For they have not rejected you, but they have rejected me from being king over them" (8:7). I'm not at all sure that some of the anti-monarchical prejudice of the writer of I Samuel doesn't slip into this story. But, perhaps God is critical, not of their desire for human leadership, but of their expectations of it. Having a king is not the solution to all their problems. In fact, it may turn out to be the expansion of them.

Is that not true of us, too: that we expect too much of human leadership? Look at the reasons the people give: "...that we also may be like all the nations, and that our king may govern us and go out before us and fight our battles" (8:20). Someone to "fight our battles" for us. So that we may be "like all the nations." That is what they were looking for, but not what they would get.

THE DRIVE FOR POWER

Samuel is careful to outline just what is likely to happen if they choose a king: "These will be the ways of the king who will reign over you..." In order to have a king or any kind of leader, they must give that person power. Power is what it takes to get the job done. But the problem is that, once a person gains power, he or she is likely to be corrupted by it. Arnold Hutschnecker, M.D., observes: "Every single human...has within him or her a drive for power, a force that can help unfold the potentials inherent in a personality. This force can lead to fulfillment or failure, happiness or misery, depending on the individual's set of values...For it is the direction of the power drive that leads one man to create--and another to kill" (The Drive for Power M. Evans & Co., NY, 1974).

The question is not whether we shall have human leadership and the power that goes with it, but what we do with that power that belongs, not to a king or a President, but to all of us. Let us elect a President and other leaders for our land. But let us never to expect from these leaders what we are unwilling to expect of ourselves. And let us never forget that salvation comes from no leader or party, but from God alone.

COVER STORY

When Lucas had an idea, along came 'Jones'

BY LYNN HOOGENBOOM

George Lucas has one of the most enviable track records in movie history. Smash hits in which he has been involved as the writer, director or executive producer (frequently in multiple combinations) include "American Graffiti" and the "Star Wars" and "Indiana Jones" trilogies.

George Lucas

These days, however, he has turned his attention to series television. His "Young Indiana Jones" is now airing Mondays on ABC. It stars Sean Patrick Flanery as the teen-age Indy and Corey Carrier as Indy at ages 8 to 10.

"What I'm interested in doing is telling stories and making films," Lucas says. "I came up with an idea for a large story -- many, many hours of ideas. And the only place it seemed to fit was television."

"Young Indiana Jones" centers around the childhood and adolescence of the hero of "Raiders of the Lost Ark." "I thought of Indy traveling around the world with his parents, meeting up with famous people and, through that, learning various disciplines," says Lucas. "I wanted to have the younger shows be about his intellectual coming of age and the older shows about his emotional coming of age. So many ideas were coming into my head that I finally went to Paramount and said, 'I have an idea for a show.' "

The series is shot on locations ranging from Africa to Vienna to India. Scripts don't shy away from crowd scenes or tricky stunts. Directors include Bille August ("Pelle the Conquerer") and Nicholas Roeg ("Don't Look Now"). How has Lucas managed this on a TV budget?

"Most of the people working on the series are extremely committed to it, and that goes a long way," says Lucas. "I've spent a lot of energy developing new production techniques to cut the costs. And part of it is just experience. The entire world is filled with very talented and creative people. I'm willing to take chances with people that other producers probably wouldn't because they're young, or they're untried, or they're foreign."

All of the episodes are self-contained, but Lucas is also developing a larger story. "There's a whole story here that goes from when he's 5 to when he's 25, and every month has been plotted out," he says. "If you put them all together, when they're on compact discs and watch them in order, it will all make sense."

Compact discs, Lucas feels, are the viewing technology of the future. That's one reason that he doesn't feel he is lowering himself by working on a TV series. "It's all going to end up on laser disc," he says, "so where it goes between here and there is of only passing interest to me."

Sean Patrick Flanery (pictured) portrays the teen-age hero of "The Young Indiana Jones Chronicles." The adventure series from producer George Lucas airs Mondays on ABC.

IN FOCUS

"A Question of Attribution" looks at the curious case of Anthony Blunt (James Fox, l.), a former spy for the Soviet Union who continued to work, with the apparent connivance of certain authorities, as the curator of Queen Elizabeth (Prunella Scales, r.). The drama has some fascinating moments, but it's overly talky and presupposes considerable knowledge about Blunt's case. It airs Sunday, Oct. 4, on PBS. (Check local listings.)

In the Kitchen

REPEAT PERFORMANCES

How to maximize time in the kitchen? Plan on repeat performances. Cook a double batch of potatoes for dinner tonight; transform the leftovers into a fabulous main dish or side dish tomorrow—in 30 minutes or less!

Start with basic baked, boiled or mashed potatoes. Leftover potatoes will keep up to three days if stored, covered, in the refrigerator.

Now try one of the delicious potato dishes below. Each contains no more than 30 percent calories from fat.

Here are some helpful tips for preparing potatoes:

- Use a nonstick skillet to maintain the low-fat attributes of potatoes.
- Don't peel the potatoes—you save time and gain extra fiber.
- Use leftover mashed potatoes to thicken soup. The potatoes add creamy texture and only a trace of fat.
- For more potato recipes, write: Celebrated Potato, Department R, 55 Union Street, San Francisco, CA 94111.

BAKED POTATOES

Sara Pierce To Be Honored By Alumni Recital

The founder and director of Frostburg State University's Opera Workshop Theatre will be honored when the Department of Music holds its annual Alumni Recital and Reception Sunday, October 4, at 3 p.m. in the Pullen Auditorium. The public is invited to attend this free event which is part of the University's annual homecoming celebration.

The Auditorium will be filled with sounds of voices trained by Sara Pierce, former FSU instructor of voice who retired in 1991. Seven of her former students, including two from Garrett County, have planned a performance featuring a broad cross-section of musical styles, from Copland to spirituals to Mozart.

Mrs. Pierce began her career at FSU in 1962 and for nearly 30 years taught music education and gave private instruction.

She studied singing with Elsa Haury, Friends University, Wichita; Eugene Dressler, Northwestern University and Todd Duncan, Master Teacher, Washington, D.C. She and her husband James, who also recently retired from FSU's Department of Music, have performed in many area churches and in recitals in Maryland, Ohio, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana and Massachusetts.

A former officer in the Maryland/D.C. Chapter of the National Association of the Teachers of Singing, Mrs. Pierce has been regional governor in the National Opera Association, and remains active in both organizations. She has been guest artist with the Maryland Thespian Society and taught at the International Thespian Society Festival held at Ball State University, Muncie, Ind.

Mental Illness Awareness Week Is Proclaimed

Mental Illness Awareness Week is being recognized nationwide October 4-10, and the Garrett County alliance for the Mentally Ill joins its sister affiliates around Maryland and the country to bring this special week to the attention of local communities.

AMI is an advocacy group of families and friends of persons with long-term mental illnesses, as well as those persons themselves. Mental health professionals, clergy, businessperson and others with an interest in the rights of the mentally ill join to form this emotional support group, and to bring information on the many kinds of mental illnesses to the attention of the public. They advocate for more and better local services, public education and continued research.

According to a spokesman for the organization, AMI strives to promote a continuum of support services in Garrett County, including appropriate housing, low-stress employment, a social network, improved medical services, day programs, and effective coordination of these services.

"Because one in every five Americans will be affected by some form of mental illness, that makes the subject everyone's business," the spokesman said. "No one is immune, and mental-emotional illnesses are not rare. These people concern everyone, because what they do, say and feel affects any person who lives, works or interacts in any way with them. They are people in need of help and understanding.

"People with mental-emotional illnesses are an immediate and personal concern. They may be among those closest to us - husbands, wives, children, parents, siblings. Or they may be people with whom we work - employers, fellow employees, supervisors. We may know them in school as fellow students, teachers, or friends.

"You may be able to help by letting the person know you care. Be a good listener. Send for and read literature about mental illness. Above all, don't be judgmental. Don't set yourself up as a judge. Emotional illness is no one's fault. The behavior is a trouble, not a fault. The affected person is not weak, aggressive or selfish. Second, don't tell someone to 'snap out of it' or 'get a hold of yourself.' A person with mental-emotional illness cannot help the behavior or just stop when told to. It may take treatment, medication, and much patience to correct the problem," the spokesman concluded.

AMI of Garrett County urges anyone with an interest in mental health to attend the monthly support meetings held the second Friday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Genus Center, Lower Level, Rt. 219 N, Oakland. Further information is available by calling 334-4357 or 895-5366.

Mental Illness Awareness Week Is Proclaimed

Mental Illness Awareness Week is being recognized nationwide October 4-10, and the Garrett County alliance for the Mentally Ill joins its sister affiliates around Maryland and the country to bring this special week to the attention of local communities.

AMI is an advocacy group of families and friends of persons with long-term mental illnesses, as well as those persons themselves. Mental health professionals, clergy, business person and others with an interest in the rights of the mentally ill join to form this emotional support group, and to bring information on the many kinds of mental illnesses to the attention of the public. They advocate for more and better local services, public education and continued research.

According to a spokesman for the organization, AMI strives to promote a continuum of support services in Garrett County, including appropriate housing, low-stress employment, a social network, improved medical services, day programs, and effective coordination of these services.

"Because one in every five Americans will be affected by some form of mental illness, that makes the subject everyone's business," the spokesman said. "No one is immune, and mental-emotional illnesses are not rare. These people concern everyone, because what they do, say and feel affects any person who lives, works or interacts in any way with them. They are people in need of help and understanding.

"People with mental-emotional illnesses are an immediate and personal concern. They may be among those closest to us - husbands, wives, children, parents, siblings. Or they may be people with whom we work - employers, fellow employees, supervisors. We may know them in school as fellow students, teachers, or friends.

"You may be able to help by letting the person know you care. Be a good listener. Send for and read literature about mental illness. Above all, don't be judgmental. Don't set yourself up as a judge. Emotional illness is no one's fault. The behavior is a trouble, not a fault. The affected person is not weak, aggressive or selfish. Second, don't tell someone to 'snap out of it' or 'get a hold of yourself.' A person with mental-emotional illness cannot help the behavior or just stop when told to. It may take treatment, medication, and much patience to correct the problem," the spokesman concluded.

AMI of Garrett County urges anyone with an interest in mental health to attend the monthly support meetings held the second Friday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Genus Center, Lower Level, Rt. 219 N, Oakland. Further information is available by calling 334-4357 or 895-5366.

Sara Pierce To Be Honored By Alumni Recital

The founder and director of Frostburg State University's Opera Workshop Theatre will be honored when the Department of Music holds its annual Alumni Recital and Reception Sunday, October 4, at 3 p.m. in the Pullen Auditorium. The public is invited to attend this free event which is part of the University's annual homecoming celebration.

The Auditorium will be filled with sounds of voices trained by Sara Pierce, former FSU instructor of voice who retired in 1991. Seven of her former students, including two from Garrett County, have planned a performance featuring a broad cross-section of musical styles, from Copland to spirituals to Mozart.

Mrs. Pierce began her career at FSU in 1962 and for nearly 30 years taught music education and gave private instruction.

She studied singing with Elsa Haury, Friends University, Wichita; Eugene Dressler, Northwestern University and Todd Duncan, Master Teacher, Washington, D.C. She and her husband James, who also recently retired from FSU's Department of Music, have performed in many area churches and in recitals in Maryland, Ohio, Kansas, Missouri, Indiana and Massachusetts.

A former officer in the Maryland/D.C. Chapter of the National Association of the Teachers of Singing, Mrs. Pierce has been regional governor in the National Opera Association, and remains active in both organizations. She has been guest artist with the Maryland Thespian Society and taught at the International Thespian Society Festival held at Ball State University, Muncie, Ind.

Ms. Knisley will also perform the Duet from Delibes' Lakme, with Michaela Linn. Ms. Linn is a 1986 FSU graduate, having earned her B.A. in music. Since then, she has completed teacher education certification in music education. Recently she has been concentrating on a career in the theatre and hopes to pursue a master's degree in fine arts, in acting/directing.

Lyric soprano Kathryn Sincell of New York City will sing music by Puccini and Bowles, accompanied by Nancy Sicsic. A native of Garrett County, Miss Sincell has been featured as a guest soloist at various musical events, including the Seoul Festival in Korea; the Monomoy Festival, Cape Cod; the Arcady Festival of Maine and the Summer Conservatory of Southern Methodist University (SMU). Mental Illness Awareness Week Is Proclaimed

Mental Illness Awareness Week is being recognized nationwide October 4-10, and the Garrett County alliance for the Mentally Ill joins its sister affiliates around Maryland and the country to bring this special week to the attention of local communities.

AMI is an advocacy group of families and friends of persons with long-term mental illnesses, as well as those persons themselves. Mental health professionals, clergy, businessperson and others with an interest in the rights of the mentally ill join to form this emotional support group, and to bring information on the many kinds of mental illnesses to the attention of the public. They advocate for more and better local services, public education and continued research.

According to a spokesman for the organization, AMI strives to promote a continuum of support services in Garrett County, including appropriate housing, low-stress employment, a social network, improved medical services, day programs, and effective coordination of these services.

"Because one in every five Americans will be affected by some form of mental illness, that makes the subject everyone's business," the spokesman said. "No one is immune, and mental-emotional illnesses are not rare. These people concern everyone, because what they do, say and feel affects any person who lives, works or interacts in any way with them. They are people in need of help and understanding.

"People with mental-emotional illnesses are an immediate and personal concern. They may be among those closest to us - husbands, wives, children, parents, siblings. Or they may be people with whom we work - employers, fellow employees, supervisors. We may know them in school as fellow students, teachers, or friends.

"You may be able to help by letting the person know you care. Be a good listener. Send for and read literature about mental illness. Above all, don't be judgmental. Don't set yourself up as a judge. Emotional illness is no one's fault. The behavior is a trouble, not a fault. The affected person is not weak, aggressive or selfish. Second, don't tell someone to 'snap out of it' or 'get a hold of yourself.' A person with mental-emotional illness cannot help the behavior or just stop when told to. It may take treatment, medication, and much patience to correct the problem," the spokesman concluded.

AMI of Garrett County urges anyone with an interest in mental health to attend the monthly support meetings held the second Friday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Genus Center, Lower Level, Rt. 219 N, Oakland. Further information is available by calling 334-4357 or 895-5366.

A Country Fair Is Planned At Country Club Mall

Country Club Mall, in LaVale, is working with the Farmers' Market this season. The Mall is planning a "Country Fair" scheduled for Saturday, October 3.

The idea is to have a scaled-down version of the county fair. Plans include an apple pie baking contest, produce contest, exhibits, displays and demonstrations. They are lining up some fun and entertainment as well.

The Cooperative Extension Office, the Farm Bureau and Mountain Fresh Produce are just a few organizations that are helping out with this event. Any group or organizations that are interested and willing to participate invited to do so.

Those interested may contact any of the above mentioned or Natalie at the mall office. Those with questions should call 301-729-8002.

Apple Pie Contest To Be Held At Country Club Mall

On Saturday, October 3, Country Club Mall in LaVale, is having an Apple Pie Contest to be held in conjunction with an old fashioned "Country Fair." Pies must be homemade, both crust and filling, prepared in a non-returnable pan. Entries are to be submitted on October 3 between 11 a.m. and noon. Individuals interested in entering the Apple Pie Contest should stop by the Frequent Shopper Information Center at center court in the mall to pick up a rules/score card. Winners will be awarded that evening at 4 p.m.

The "Country Fair" features the Farmers' Market and will be a day-long event at Country Club Mall. Exhibits, displays and demonstrations are scheduled by the Cooperative Extension Service, the Farm Bureau and many other related groups and organizations. Entertainment for the day includes "painting life-size farm yard animals" and country dance performances.

Guest Editorial:

Reprinted, with permission, from the September 29, 1992, issue of The Delmarva Farmer.

The irony is ...

Too many good arguments stand against further reductions in Maryland's Extension Service budget. The Maryland ag institute estimates there are about 34,000 of them.

We call them 4-H'ers.

On a regular basis, these would-be budget-cut victims stand together and recite these words:

"I pledge my head to clearer thinking; my heart to greater loyalty; my hands to larger service and my health to better living for may club, my community, my country and my world."

Worthy goals for young minds to embrace.

They are words that, in many cases, their mothers and fathers recited 20 or 30 years ago.

That tradition could be snuffed out if the more severe of the Extension budget cuts is approved by Gov. William Donald Schaefer.

The irony is that when 4-H is extinguished; so, too, will be a strong force that promoted the very priorities Schaefer had been working toward before the revenue well went dry.

Strange, how, when in the face of a crisis, what once were priorities fade to obscurity.

A program that helps kids develop into caring, capable and responsible citizens will go down the tubes. Perhaps the governor doesn't realize that 4-H reaches out to more children in cities and suburbs than on farms these days, providing a range of activities from bicycle safety to food and nutrition to natural resource conservation as well as the more familiar animal science projects.

Club activities introduce children to basic safety and survival skills. They teach business, leadership and social skills. And, the 34,000 Maryland youth involved in 4-H put their energy into volunteer service and club projects--they aren't "running" drugs.

The administration that fought for money for "schools for excellence" should put its money where its mouth is now, instead of taking money from the budget for higher education. And the governor who formed the Governor's Drug and Alcohol Abuse Commission to promote anti-drug awareness should begin to consider how 4-H promotes that message to eight- to 18-year-olds when they pledge their heads to clearer thinking and their health to better living.

The administration committed to cleaning up the Chesapeake Bay should pay thanks to a program that teaches the next generation of leaders, businessmen, and, yes, farmers, who are learning about the environment and resource conservation.

Fair Visitors Give Donations To Hurricane Victims

"Maryland With Pride" businesses collected more than $1,400 from State Fair goers for victims of Hurricane Andrew during the recently concluded 1992 Maryland State Fair. Spearheading the impromptu relief effort wereJohn and Maren Maul, owners of Herbal World in Randallstown. The Mauls, along with 16 other companies, participated in the fair's first-ever "Maryland With Pride" Trade Fair in the Farm and Garden Building.

"I congratulate the Mauls on their efforts to help the people in Florida and Louisiana. The generosity of Marylanders in assisting the victims of Hurricane Andrew created a warm feeling for all those visiting the Farm and Garden Building during the Fair," said Governor William Donald Schaefer.

The collected money, which mostly came in small donations from literally hundreds of people, has been sent to the American Red Cross in New Orleans and the Florida Department of Agriculture Hurricane Andrew Relief Fund.

"I'm glad we were able to help. It's not something we planned. But the response of the fair visitors to our donation bucket was overwhelming," said Maren Maul.

Health Insurance Deduction Wins Senate Passage

A measure that would allow self-employed taxpayers to deduct 100 percent of their health insurance premiums was passed by the Senate last week.

The self-employed had been allowed to deduct 25 percent of their health insurance premiums, but this provision expired on June 30. Chances for extension of the provision improved with the Senate action, which came during debate on a comprehensive tax package (H.R. 11).

The health care deduction, supported by Farm Bureau, has been endorsed by the Bush administration. A House Republican leadership task force plan for health care reform (H.R. 5325) also phases in full deductibility over a five-year period. Several Democratic members also have sponsored bills containing this provision.

A measure that is not favorable to agriculture, however, is buried among the dozens of health care bills introduced in Congress--a bill to lower the exemption from estate taxes from $600,000 to $200,000.

House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt (D-Mo.) and Rep. Henry Waxman (D-Calif.), chairman of the health subcommittee of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, have introduced a long-term care bill (H.R. 4848). The bill contains language raising revenue to pay for proposed benefits to the elderly by taxing estates more heavily. It would go into effect on Jan. 1, 1994.

"Fortunately, the prospects for this bill are near zero for this year," according to Grace Ellen Rice, associate director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's Washington office. "Next year, however, this proposal could become a serious threat to farmers and ranchers."

Farm Bureau opposes any reduction in the current federal estate tax exemption.

Soil Tilth Topics On Tap At Six-State Tillage Event

British ships had not yet sailed around the world when Fitzherbert, an English agriculturalist first made observations about soil compaction and its adverse effects on crop yields at the site of what later became Britain's famed Rothamsted experimental station.

Now, more than 450 years later, soil compaction has suddenly become a timely topic at major farmer education meetings in the United States.

Fitzherbert observed soil compaction caused by humans and horses. Modern soil compaction problems, of course, are compounded by the weight of heavy machinery.

The latest research findings on soil compaction, deep tillage and a tilth index system for measuring soil condition will highlight the morning session at this year's Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference on December 17. The 19th annual event will be held at the Embers Inn and Convention Center near Carlisle, Pa.

Thomas S. Colvin, an agricultural engineer for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service, will be the lead-off speaker. Dr. Colvin also will be a panel member during a breakout session on "Deep Tillage." He is associated with the National Soil Tilth Laboratory, based at Iowa State University in Ames, Iowa.

Colvin's proposed soil tilth index system has been tested throughout the U.S. Corn Belt and in Russia. Tests also are underway in parts of Asia.

As in past years, the Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service at land-grant universities in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia. Assistance is provided by interested agribusiness representatives.

Plans are being made to accommodate more than 30 commercial and educational exhibits. Nearly 500 crop farmers and agribusiness representatives are expected to attend. Activities will run from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.

Following a mid-morning break, conference participants will have their choice of attending one of three concurrent breakout sessions related to the conference theme, "Back to the Basics." Topics and speakers are as follows:

DEEP TILLAGE

"When Is It Needed and Why It Might Be Used"--Thomas S. Colvin, National Soil Tilth Lab, Ames, Iowa.

SOIL FERTILITY

"Consideration for Conservation Tillage"--Dr. Douglas B. Beegle, Extension Agronomist, Penn State.

COMMERCIAL UPDATE

Conference exhibitors will have opportunity to report on "What's New From Industry!" A show-and-tell session on products, services and technological advances.

The afternoon program will open with a repeat of the morning breakout sessions, giving individuals an opportunity to hear speakers in two of the three topic areas.

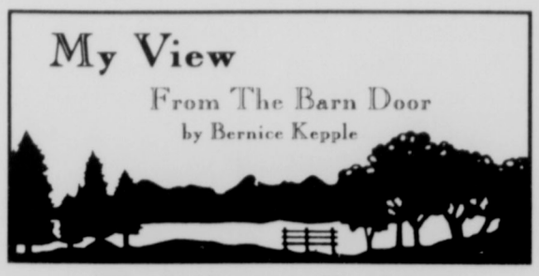
A farmer panel discussion will close out the day's program, with longtime conservation tillage operators telling how they manage soils for optimum production potential.

Tickets for the noon lunch are available at $6 each from county offices of the Cooperative Extension Service throughout the Mid-Atlantic area. They must be purchased in advance--not later than December 7.

Chairing the planning committee for this year's Mid-Atlantic Conservation Tillage Conference is Paul H. Craig, an agricultural agent in Dauphin County, Pa., for the Penn State Extension Service.

Donald M Schwartz Jr. of Keedysville, is vice chairman. Schwartz is an agricultural agent in Washington County for the Cooperative Extension Service, Maryland Institute for Agriculture and Natural Resources.

NOTICE OF DETERMINATION OF NO SIGNIFICANT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT



Friendsville Associates Limited Partnership has submitted an application to the Farmers Home Administration for the proposed construction of Friendsville Elderly Apartments; a 3-story, 24 one bedroom unit elderly housing development in Garrett County, in the town of Friendsville, Maryland.

The construction will occur on approximately .59 acres of vacant land located on the Southeast corner of Morris and Chestnut Streets in Friendsville.

FmHA has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and has determined that it will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment. Therefore, FmHA will not prepare an environment impact statement for this proposed action.

The application for the proposed construction and the environmental assessment is available for review at the FmHA District Office at 198 Thomas Johnson Drive, Suite 200, Frederick, Maryland 21702, phone (301) 694-7522.

Any person interested in commenting on the application, the feasibility of the proposed action, or alternatives to the proposed development, may do so by providing their comments to Mr. Peter Wesp, District Director, FmHA, within 15 days following the date of publication.

"The Differences We Make"

Once again, the University of Maryland and the Cooperative Extension Service is in line for budget cuts; thankfully, not the severe cuts suggested which would have entirely terminated the Extension Service, the ag experiment stations, the center for environmental studies, research centers and funds for aquaculture programs. During the past two weeks, when the news about these proposed budget cuts was constantly changing, I did a lot of thinking about the local Extension Service. Mostly, I thought about the changes we would have to live with if there were no Extension Service. My conclusion was that, although we would miss all the information and advice they offer, I would miss the 4-H program the most.

After being involved in 4-H all the years I was growing up, being a 4-H leader for 10 years, and seeing my own three children grow up enjoying the advantages and challenges 4-H has to offer, I cannot imagine this state without a 4-H program; I can't imagine summer without 4-H camp or a county fair without 4-H projects and activities. The stack of letters received by our governor from all counties in the state tells me that there are others who feel the same way I do.

The program will still take some cuts. We will see some differences, but hopefully the 4-H program will still be there for the youth of the future, as it was for me and my children.

This renewed hope has surfaced at an ideal time -- just before National 4-H Week, with this year's theme, "The Differences We Make." And I can think of so many differences 4-H has made. As a former 4-H leader, I can think of girls who hated the sewing projects that their mothers and leaders insisted they take. Today as working wives, they make their own clothes and are very glad they learned how.

I remember one little boy who was so shy when he joined 4-H that he kept his eyes glued to the floor and stayed close to his mom. His animal projects helped him conquer his shyness, and he gained confidence by giving 4-H demonstrations. He served as president of his club, and when he started high school, he joined Future Farmers of America and ended up as a state FFA officer. All because 4-H got him started!

Another little boy turned as white as a ghost when he got in front of his club to give his first 4-H speech, but he controlled his fear and gave that speech and many more during the next several years. When in high school, this young man entered and won state FFA, VFW and American Legion public speaking contests.

I could mention many other examples of growth and maturity 4-H members have gained through club projects and activities. Members of that one club that I am most familiar with have grown into responsible adults with varied professions which include a radio personality, writers, teachers, a computer programmer, dairy farmers, a lawyer, nurses, and respected employees of local businesses as well as several who are self-employed.

Would their young adult lives have been as successful without 4-H? I doubt it, but you can find out for yourself by becoming involved as a volunteer leader. Keep the 4-H tradition alive. Convince our state officials how important it is to our children's future. Yes, get involved and let a group of young 4-H members show you "The Differences We Make."

Ag Secretary Heads World Trade Committee

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker has been named to head the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture's (NASDA) World Trade Committee. NASDA represents the agriculture departments of the 50 states and is concerned with promoting U.S. agriculture both at home and in the international marketplace.

"Walker's appointment to chair this world trade committee reflects well on Maryland's leadership in promoting international trade. We will continue to work hard to expand economic opportunities in the world market," said Governor William Donald Schaefer.

"In the coming year we will be focusing on the North American Free Trade Agreement and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and how they affect agriculture. We recognize the strength of U.S. agriculture and its vast potential to help people around the world while at the same time improving our economic position," Walker said.

As Maryland's Secretary of Agriculture, Walker chairs several other task forces designed to foster U.S. international trade. He has been instrumental in developing and promoting agricultural ties for Maryland in the emerging democracies in Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union. Later this year he will chair the Agriculture Trade Commission of the Europe-America Conference in Baltimore with more than 600 delegates from 43 countries.

Maryland Will Host National Dairy Science Meeting In '93

Animal Sciences faculty members at the University of Maryland at College Park are making preparations to host the 88th national meeting of the American Dairy Science Association. Dates are June 13-16, 1993.

The university's Center of Adult Education will serve as conference headquarters. Richard A. Erdman, professor of animal science at Maryland, chairs the coordinating committee.

Dr. Erdman's reports that the national ADSA meeting was last held in Maryland in 1962. It was the second largest in association history, attracting 2,062 registrants. Erdman expects that attendance at this year's meeting will exceed even the all-time record of 2,101 persons set in 1983 at the University of Wisconsin campus in Madison.

The 3,111 ADSA members are professional dairy science workers around the world--but primarily in the United States.

"Maryland offers the advantage of cultural activities associated with the Washington, D.C., area, as well as major U.S. Department of Agriculture facilities such as the National Agricultural Library and the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center," Erdman noted.

"In addition," Erdman said, "many dairy professionals will be eager to see the much-publicized robotic milking system installed by the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station at the Clarksville facility of the Central Maryland Research and Education Center."

The student affiliate division will hold its annual meeting in conjunction with the ADSA conference. Special activities also are being planned for a sizable number of spouses and children who are expected to attend.

Sec. Walker Announces Signing Of U.S.-Canadian Agriculture Accord

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker announced the signing of a U.S.-Canadian agricultural accord resulting from a meeting held in Alberta, Canada, August 13. Walker represented the southern states as Southern Association of State Departments of Agriculture at the meeting.

"The agreement calls for us to bring the states of Mexico into our agricultural partnership. That will be our next major task," Walker said.

Other provisions included planks to establish a uniform system of disease testing and animal quarantine; encourage uniformity in North American electronic livestock identification; encourage the development of a mutually accepted pesticide registration process; assist the states of the former Soviet Union to successfully convert to a market economy; and improve trade and communication between North American states and provinces.

In a related matter, Walker had an opportunity during a subsequent visit to Toronto to officially cut the ribbon for "Showcase U.S.A." Canada's largest exclusive showing of U.S. food products.

"We are constantly exploring new markets and assisting Maryland food companies to make contacts in the international arena. These food shows do a lot toward expanding business opportunities," said Governor William Donald Schaefer.

Maryland has a long standing relationship with the Canadian Province of Saskatchewan.

Frosted Field Corn

It seems that at least two out of three years some of you are faced with the decision of what to do with immature frosted corn. As I write this newsletter the weatherman is calling for freeze warnings. If the temperature remains below 32 degrees for four to five hours, there is a good chance that the corn plant will be severely damaged. At the present time I am preparing a newsletter containing management information on harvesting frosted corn. If you are not on my mailing list and would like a copy of this information, call my office at 301-334-1990. The information is too lengthy to put in this column.

Crop Notes

Delay Cutting Alfalfa--Wait until the alfalfa plant is completely dormant before harvesting. Normally, it takes more than one hard frost to put alfalfa to "sleep." Cut higher than normal, leaving a three to four inches stubble.

Danger! Frosted Sorghum/Sudangrass--Most of you are aware of the danger of poisoning livestock on frosted sorghum/sudangrass. Once the plant is frosted, it forms a poisonous substance called "Prussic Acid." The acid can be destroyed by the ensilage fermentation process. When ensiling frosted sorghum and sudangrass, make sure the material is well packed in the silo and fermented at least three weeks before fed to livestock. Proper fermentation is necessary to destroy prussic acid.

Interested in Using Anhydrous Ammonia?--Injecting anhydrous ammonia into your corn silage is a cheap way of adding more protein to the corn silage. At the present time we do not have a local source or dealer for anhydrous ammonia. However, there is a person equipped to inject anhydrous ammonia in Greensburg, Pa., who would be interested in coming into the area if enough farmers are interested. Last year, Jeff Bender had this person inject anhydrous ammonia into his silage. The protein level was increased five percent. If you are interested, call my office immediately.

Maryland Harvest Slowed By Rain

By September 27 the major crops remained in good condition across Maryland. Corn was being harvested for both silage and grain and a few soybeans were harvested.

An average of 4.5 days was suitable for fieldwork during the week ending September 27, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Across the state, four percent of the topsoil was short of moisture while 64 percent had adequate and 32 percent had surplus moisture. Subsoil moisture was short in 10 percent of Maryland, while 76 percent had adequate moisture and 14 percent had a surplus.

Soybeans were in mostly good condition and were beginning to shed leaves. Corn and sorghum are in good condition across the state. Corn and sorghum harvest were behind, but clear weather will permit grain harvest to get started. Pastures were in excellent condition, with adequate hay supplies. Harvest of the apple crop became active. Lima bean and sweet potato harvests were near midpoint.

Maryland's progress for the week ending September 27 was as follows, listing the item, this year's percentage, last year's percentage and a percentage for the 5-year average.

Soybeans turning: 49, 70, 55; shedding leaves, 21, 42, 28. Corn mature: 58, 91, 74; grain harvested: 8, 39, 32; silage harvested, 41, 90, 81. Sorghum turned: 97, 92, N/A; mature, 47, 86, N/A. Hay harvested: Alfalfa, fourth cutting, 49, 61, 52; other, fourth cutting, 15, 13, 14. Apples harvested: 41, 55, 53.

N/A: Not available.

WEATHER

Maryland weather for the week ending September 25 was slightly warmer than normal with moderate to heavy precipitation. Precipitation averaged 1.19 inches, ranging from 0.29 at Wye Research Center to 2.97 inches at BWI airport. Regional averages were: western, 1.16; north central, 1.41; southern Maryland west of the Bay, 0.95; and Eastern Shore, 1.12 inches. Temperatures averaged 65.6 degrees, 0.6 degrees above the normal of 65.0 degrees for the September 19-25 period. Minimum temperatures ranged from the mid 30's to the low 50's. Maximum temperatures were mostly in the 80's.

Conferees Fund Academy Study Of Wetlands Manual

A House-Senate conference committee last week agreed to fund a 12-month study of the federal wetlands delineation manual by the National Academy of Sciences.

The $400,000 in funding was included in the 1993 veterans affairs, housing and urban development and independent agencies appropriations bill. It authorizes the Environmental Protection Agency to contract with the National Academy of Sciences to study the "utility" of the 1987 federal wetlands delineation manual, and for the results of that study to be considered prior to revising that manual.

The administration has been working to revise the 1987 wetlands manual as a compromise between the controversial 1989 and 1991 manuals.

"Referring the wetlands manual to the NAS could cause further delays in a process that has gone on too long," said Mark Maslyn, an AFBF assistant director of national affairs. "Landowners in this country are already in regulatory limbo because of the failure of four federal agencies to agree on a wetlands definition. Adding a fifth agency to the process will add to the confusion."

It had appeared that the administration was close to announcing a new wetlands policy, and it is unclear how this congressional action will affect the release of the revised manual.

EPA Administrator William Reilly told a meeting of Farm Bureau presidents in July that he favored the NAS study. "If we cannot resolve the issue of delineation ourselves within the administration, in a way that the scientific community accepts, perhaps we should let the National Academy of Sciences make some judgment on this question," Reilly told the group.

Governor Announces Increase In Md. Agriculture Exports

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that Maryland agricultural exports in 1991 increased 14 percent to $185.4 million, up from $162.2 million in 1990.

"These figures clearly demonstrate that we are on the right track in promoting Maryland commodities around the world, and we intend to do even better," Governor Schaefer said. "These increased exports benefit the Maryland agricultural industry and the entire Maryland economy."

Maryland's agricultural exports include soybeans, feed grains and poultry. In addition, processed food products are beginning to make inroads into the international market.

"We are now selling cattle and other livestock products to South America, Christmas trees to Puerto Rico, corn and wine to Canada and wine to Japan. The variety is infinite and I see our opportunities expanding in the months and years ahead," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture's International Marketing Services Division participates in trade shows and food expositions around the world, helping Maryland food companies make contacts and line up contracts. In addition, this unit works closely with various federal, state and regional agencies to expand Maryland's economic opportunities.

"Our hard work is paying dividends. We have even sold pizza and corn meal products to Europe," Governor Schaefer said. "We will to continue to knock on doors so that our exports grow each year. I believe there is unlimited potential for Maryland products in the international arena."

The Maryland Department of Agriculture's International Marketing Services Division was established in 1986 to promote and identify marketing opportunities for Maryland companies around the world.

CCC Seeks Comments On 1993 Farm Program Common Provisions

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation has asked for comments on 1993 annual commodity program provisions for wheat, feed grains, rice, upland cotton, and extra-long staple cotton.

The proposed regulations will be published in the September 17 Federal Register.

John Stevenson, acting executive vice president of CCC, said that comments are sought on the following:

* Which crops should not be permitted to be planted on "flex" acreage.
* Whether targeted option payments should be made available on wheat, feed grains, rice and upland cotton.
* Whether to permit the planting of specified crops on up to half of the acreage conservation reserve.
* Whether to allow the planting of oats on ACR acreage under the wheat and feed grain programs.
* Whether to allow the planting of conserving crops on ACR acreage.
* Whether to allow the planting of alternative crops on acreage designated as conserving use.
* Whether malting barley should be exempted from the 1993 acreage reduction requirements.

CCC is proposing that no other crops be added to the list that may not be planted on flex acreage.

CCC also proposes that the following not be implemented for 1993 crops: Target option payments, the planting of oats on ACR acreage, the planting of conserving crops on ACR acreage, and malting barley exemptions.

Comments submitted on the foregoing provisions should include: justification for the designation; the impact on farm income and CCC outlays; and production practices, costs, and market prices.

Comments must be received by October 19 by the deputy administrator, Policy Analysis-USDA/ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013. All comments will be available for public inspection in room 3090-S of USDA's south building during regular business hours.

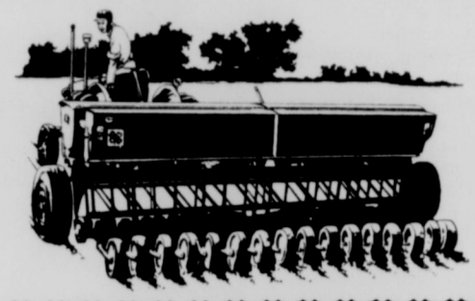
MDA Recommends Seed Testing

As small grain planting time quickly approaches, Secretary of Agriculture Robert L. Walker reminds growers who save their own seed for planting to invest in a seed test to be sure the seed is fit for seeding purposes.

"The cost of a seed test is very small when compared to the loss of profits from a poor crop stand due to low percentage germinating seed or the cost of eliminating a weed problem introduced by the seed source. For each seed sample, a complete laboratory test, including a purity test, germination test and a noxious weed examination costs $10, while a germination test alone cost $6," said Walker.

"The Maryland Department of Agriculture offers this valuable service to Maryland farmers. I encourage them to take advantage of the department's excellent facilities to have their seeds tested," said Governor William Donald Schaefer.



To have small grain seed tested, a 2-pound seed sample representative of the seed lot should be forwarded to the Turf and Seed Section, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401. The person sending the sample should indicate name, address and what tests are to be done to it. The department will bill the person upon completion of the seed testing and providing the test results.

According to Malcolm Sarna, chief of MDA's Turf and Seed Section, it is important to obtain a representative seed sample collected from different sites in the bin or from several bags from different locations in the pile.

"Many custom cleaners of seed are willing to sample the seed as it is being cleaned or conditioned and to submit the sample to the MDA laboratory. Ask your seed cleaner if he provides this service," Sarna said.

"Seed is one of the cheapest inputs into producing a profitable crop, but nothing is more important. Make sure you know what you're planting," Sarna said.

For more information on seed testing, contact Malcolm Sarna, Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401. Telephone: 410-841-5960.

Glimpse Of The Past . . .

THE A. KNABB COMPANY FACTORY, manufacturers of staves and oil and whiskey barrels, was located at Kendall, south of Friendsville along the Youghiogheny River. The factory was built in 1898. The Kendall Lumber Company was also located there, and a narrow gauge railroad ran into the surrounding woods to haul logs to both companies. Kendall was once a thriving town, complete with a church, school, company store, post office, and large boarding house. It is a ghost town today, accessible only by foot. Savage River Hike Set For This Saturday

The Sierra Club and the Savage River State Forest will sponsor a five and one-half mile hike on the Monroe Run Trail from New Germany Road to Big Run State Park, beginning at 10 a.m., and lasting no longer than four hours. The hike is the second in a fall series of hikes organized by the Sierra Club to feature state forests in the region. The first in the "Take-A-Hike" campaign was held last week on the C&O Canal tow-path, and future hikes will be held in Green Ridge and Potomac-Garrett state forests.

The hike will begin at the parking lot by Monroe Run Overlook on New Germany Road, 12 miles south of Rt. 40 and two miles north of Rt. 495. Return transportation to the parking lot is being provided by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

Five free Sierra Club "Take-A-Hike" T-shirts will be awarded to hikers whose names were drawn in the recent contest sponsored by Sierra Club and the Country Club Mall. A few extra T-shirts will be available on a first-come, first serve basis.

The trail will follow an old road which was built by the Civilian Conservation Corps in the 1930's, and which was used primarily to travel from the Meadow Mountain Camp to the Savage River Camp. Monroe Run was part of the first land acquired for the state forest, and is now a protected watershed as well as an outdoor living laboratory used for various research projects. The trail descends a total of 400 feet in one and one-half miles and levels out for the remainder of the hike.

Each participant is asked to bring a bag lunch to be eaten at the end of the hike. Drinks will be provided by the Sierra Club. Hikers should wear appropriate clothing -- light rain gear and multiple layers of light clothing are best -- and hiking boots or sneakers. Binoculars and field guides might also be useful.

The hike is being coordinated by Joan MacKearnan, Sierra Club, and Chris Savage, Savage River State Forest, will serve as the hiking guide. More information may be obtained by calling 301-689-5976 or 689-3115.

Dr. Robert Rhoden To Guest Preach At Lakeside Assembly

Dr. Robert Rhoden will preach at the Lakeside Assembly of God on Sunday, October 4, at 10:30 a.m. The church is located six miles north of Oakland on U.S. Route 219.

Dr. Rhoden was born in Jacksonville, Fla., on October 14, 1942. He grew up in Olustee, Fla. with his widowed grandmother after his parents were killed in a car accident when he was just two years old. By the time he was 12 years old, his grandmother was physically unable to take care of him and he went to live with relatives in Jacksonville until he graduated from Robert E. Lee High School in 1958. That same year his grandmother died.

He graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in Bible from Toccoa Falls Bible College in 1963. He entered the ministry and spent the next two years serving as an associate with David Wilkerson, founder of Teen Challenge in New York City. He traveled the east coast conducting evangelistic crusades.

Rhoden became an assistant pastor at the First Assembly of God in Lancaster, Pa., in 1965. While there, he attended Elizabethtown College and graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy and religion in 1966. During that time, he met Joan Elaine Hershman, whom he married on January 22, 1966.

To continue his education, he and his wife moved to Wheaton, Ill., where he earned a master of arts degree in New Testament studies from Wheaton College. He also served as youth pastor and interim pastor at First Assembly of God in Wheaton, Ill. He was ordained by the Penn-Del District of the Assemblies of God in May of 1968.

Rhoden learned about a group of people in Richmond, Va., who wanted to start a church. He was authorized by the Potomac District Council to begin a church there. Under his direction, West End Assembly of God experienced steady and continuous growth. The congregation mothered five other churches in Richmond and built more than 18 churches in foreign countries. He resigned as pastor of the church in 1992 to become superintendent of the Potomac District where he oversees 303 churches and 800 credentialed ministers with the Assemblies of God.

Pastor Rhoden earned his doctor of ministry degree from Union Theological Seminary, Va., in 1982. He has been a featured speaker at conferences, seminars, workshops, and special meetings on the east coast, including Fishnet, Richmond's first national observance prayer breakfast in 1975, and Pentecost '79. He has spoken at major Assemblies of God meetings such as the National Men's Conference, the national Teen Challenge Conference, and the Potomac District Ministers' Institute.

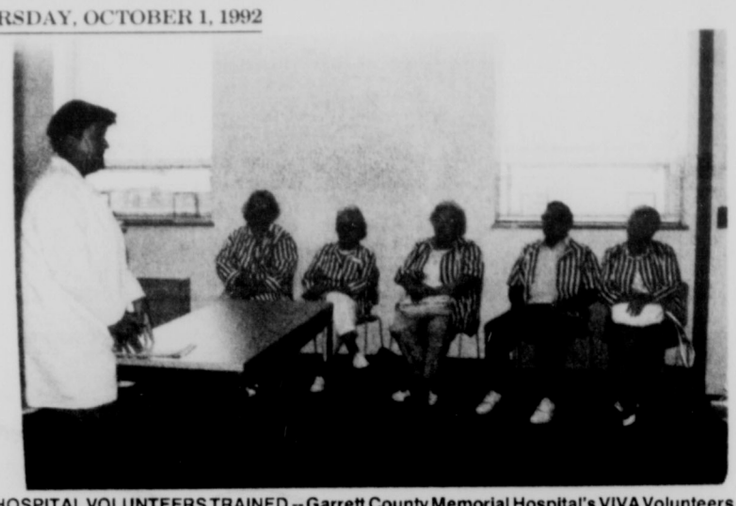
He has also written articles for the development of pastors and church leaders which have been published in the Assemblies of God monthly magazine, Advance, and a national transdenominational publication, Leadership.

The Rhodens have three children, Julie, who is married and lives in Wheaton, Ill., and Robby and Cindy, who both attend college.

FSU Theatre Offerings Noted

University Theatre of Frostburg State University recently announced the four major productions scheduled for the academic year.

Our Country's Good, written by Timberlake Wertenbaker and directed by David R. Press, will be presented October 8-10 and 15-17. In this story from colonial Australia, the colonial governor convinces a young officer to put on a comedy with a cast of convicts with the hope of opening the eyes of brutal military overseers to the humanity of these slave laborers, and the hope that exposure to theatre might bring to the convicts a vision of their own potential.



Top Girls, a serious comedy by Caryl Churchill, directed by Linda G. McCulloch, will follow on November 19-21. Written by one of the most provocative and successful contemporary female playwrights, the play examines the myths of what it means to be female today and the roles of women through the ages.

The musical comedy Dames at Sea by George Haimsohn, Robin Miller and Jim Wise, directed by Dr. Press, will be performed March 11-14. This winner of the prestigious Drama Desk Award is a nostalgic spoof of movie musicals, from Ruby Keeler's tap dancing to stardom in Fortysecond Street to the Judy Garland-Mickey Rooney extravaganzas that begin with "Let's put on a show!"

The final show of the season will be the drama Death of a Miner, written by Paula Cizmar and directed by Ms. McCulloch, April 22-24. Set in the hills of Appalachia, Death of a Miner focuses on the life and death of Mary Alice Hager, a female coalminer who dies in a mining accident.

Season tickets are available at a 25% savings over individually purchased tickets. Persons can see all four shows for $15. Season tickets can be purchased by mailing a check made out to Frostburg State University to FSU Business Office, Frostburg, MD 21532.

Tickets for Our Country's Good can be purchased at the Compton Hall Box Office Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. - noon, or at the door. For more information, or to make reservations, persons may call the Department of Communication and Theatre Arts at 689-4145, weekdays 1-4:30 p.m.

HOSPITAL VOLUNTEERS TRAINED -- Garrett County Memorial Hospital's VIVA Volunteers attended a special meeting to be oriented to a new surgery liaison procedure. Volunteers will relay messages from attending surgeons and nurses to waiting relatives to keep them informed about their family members undergoing surgery. Cathy Miles, nurse manager of the Operating Room, Melvin Gonzaga, M.D., chief of anesthesiology, and Dr. John Porcaro have been instrumental in coordinating this new service with the VIVA Volunteers.

How To Save Up To $35,507.25 On Your Mortgage.

Now you can save substantial interest on your mortgage and pay it off more quickly. It's easy with a Bi-Weekly Mortgage from First Federal Savings Bank.

The idea behind a Bi-Weekly Mortgage is very simple. Instead of making one monthly mortgage payment, you make ½ a payment every two weeks. So how do you save all that interest?

Simple mathematics tells you that ½ a payment every two weeks over the course of a year equals 26 bi-weekly payments – or the yearly equivalent of 13 monthly payments. So your mortgage is paid off more quickly – meaning less interest as well.

Your payments will be automatically deducted from a First Federal checking account, so you won't have to worry about writing and mailing two checks each month.

Still not convinced? Well, just take a look at how much you'd save on both a fixed rate and an adjustable rate Bi-Weekly Mortgage versus a traditional monthly mortgage:

FIXED
Mortgage Amount	$ 75,000
Interest Rate	10.00% A.P.R. (Fixed)
Term	15 Years

BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT	$ 403.13
Total Paid (monthly)	$ 145,125.00

INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE!	$13,301.49
AND YOU OWN YOUR HOME IN JUST 12 YEARS AND 7 MONTHS, INSTEAD OF 15!

ADJUSTABLE
Mortgage Amount	$ 75,000
Interest Rate	8.00% A.P.R.* (Adjustable)
Term	30 Years
Monthly Payment	$ 550.50
BI-WEEKLY PAYMENT	$ 275.25
Total Paid (monthly)	$ 198,180.00
TOTAL PAID (BI-WEEKLY)	$ 162,672.75
INTEREST SAVINGS WITH BI-WEEKLY MORTGAGE!	$ 35,507.25

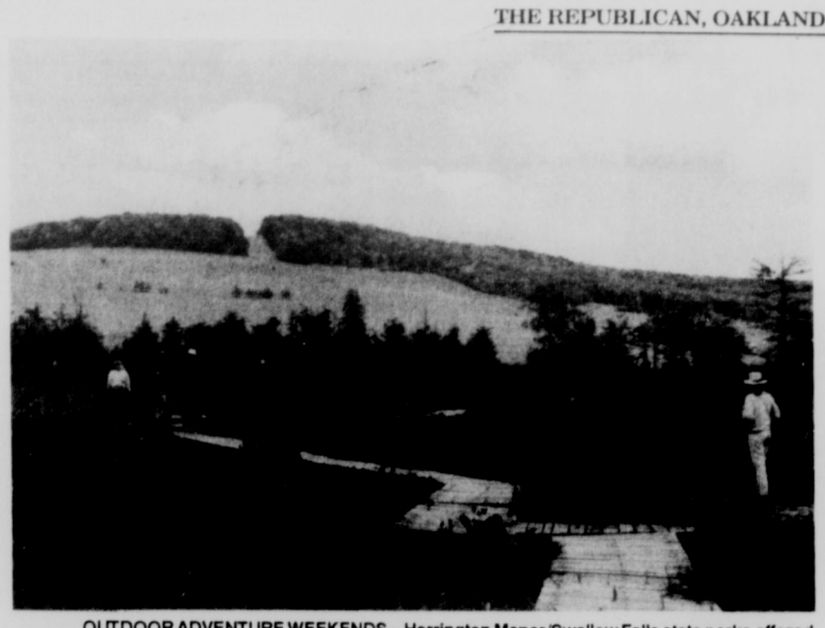
Top Students To Be Honored For Academics, Talent

Over 1,000 of Maryland's most outstanding students, including several from Garrett County, will be honored Saturday, Oct. 10, at Howard Community College. Governor William Donald Schaefer will address the students and their parents.

The students were selected as part of the state's Distinguished Scholars program, which offers $12,000 in scholarships over four years to top students who attend Maryland colleges and universities. Scholarships are awarded for both artistic talent and academic achievement. Budgeted for $4.2 million this year, the program will provide scholarships to 350 students in the 1993 high school graduating class.

Students from Northern High School invited to attend the event were: Sean E. Beachy, who received honorable mention recognition in the talent division for instrumental music; Michael W. Hetrick, semi-finalist, academic division; and Susannah G. Mathews, finalist, talent division, visual art. Those from Southern High School are: Ingrid R. Carlson, finalist, academic division; Maria G. Massi, semi-finalist, academic, and honorable mention, instrumental music; Amy J. Rice, semi-finalist, academic; and Chester M. Stacy, finalist, academic. Erin M. Sines, of Northern, and Patrick T. Shaffer, of Southern, received honorable mention recognition in the academic division.



"One of Maryland's highest priorities is to encourage its best students to go to college in Maryland," Governor Schaefer said. "This program, which provides $3,000 a year to students for education expenses, has provided an incentive for thousands of our best high school graduates to stay in Maryland and attend our excellent colleges and universities."

A record 2,700 students applied for the scholarship this year. Awards will be initially offered to the 360 finalists and to the 72 finalists in the talent competition. National Merit and National Achievement finalists are also offered Distinguished Scholar awards.

To be eligible for the academic portion of the Distinguished Scholars program, students must have an unweighted grade point average (GPA) of 3.7 or higher. Students are ranked on the basis of GPA and performance on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT). Talent competitors must submit a portfolio for evaluation by, or audition before, a panel of professionals.

State law limits the number of new recipients to 350 annually. Each year a substantial number of finalists accept the scholarships, which can be used for any college-related expenses. Remaining scholarships are then offered to semi-finalists.

All Distinguished Scholar finalists and semi-finalists, as well as the state's National Merit semi-finalists, are invited to the event at Howard Community College, where they will be recognized for their achievements and meet with representatives of Maryland colleges and universities.

OUTDOOR ADVENTURE WEEKENDS -- Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls state parks offered three Outdoor Adventure Weekends this summer. Those weekends included a welcome/orientation campfire program on Friday evening at Swallow Falls State Park, a five-mile guided hike from Swallow Falls to Herrington Manor State Park on Saturday morning after which lunch was served, a 30-mile modern hayride on a stake body truck which included a stop and hike in the Cranesville Swamp. A stop was also made at Friend's Store, where Jack Hinebaugh discussed the history of the store and the Sang Run area. Later in the evening, participants joined other campers for a campfire program at Swallow Falls. The weekend concluded with a Sunday morning canoe tour at Herrington Manor State Park, conducted by park rangers. The adventure weekends will again be offered next summer. The cost is $30 per person which includes two nights camping, guided hike, lunch, campfire program, and canoe tour. Shown above are members of the Marshall Stacy family, Swanton, and Cay Suel and Lu Lu Moller, Gaithersburg, exploring the Cranesville Pine Swamp.

Goldstein Notes Alcohol Awareness Program Changes

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said his office has approved 17 alcohol awareness training courses required for a licensee or an employee of an establishment that serves alcoholic beverages for either on-site or off-site consumption.

A new law, effective October 1, 1992, expanded the training requirement to establishments that serve for off-site consumption and requires all approved alcohol awareness training courses to include a section on how to determine if a customer is under the legal drinking age.

Off-site licensees who had not previously been affected by the training requirement must attend an approved training course before July 1, 1993.

According to other changes enacted by the legislature, licensees or employees who currently hold a valid alcohol awareness training certificate must be retrained every four years after July 1, 1993. An alcohol awareness training certificate issued on or after October 1, 1992, will have a four-year validity. The legislature also decided that an alcohol training certificate issued prior to August 1, 1989, will not be valid after July 1, 1993.

The comptroller has certified 17 training programs that can be used to comply with the new requirements under the state law. The programs provide training on the physiological effects of alcohol on the body, on serving alcohol in a way that minimizes intoxication, stopping service before the customer is intoxicated, and drinking and driving.

Penalties for non-compliance include a first offense fine of $100 and subsequent offenses carry a $500 fine and/or suspension of liquor licenses. Local Liquor boards are responsible for enforcement of the training requirement.

Nutrition: Value of Vitamin Use in Men
Results of two studies reported in a recent issue of American Pharmacy is good news for men. A UCLA study showed that men who took 300 to 400 milligrams of vitamin C daily had 45 percent fewer deaths from heart disease than men in a control group. A Harvard study of over 20,000 men suggests that those who took 50 milligrams of beta carotene (a vitamin A precusor) daily suffered half as many heart attacks or strokes as did men who did not take beta carotene.

District Court Judge Jails Three On VOP Charges

Three persons were remanded to jail as their original sentences were re-imposed after being found guilty of violation of probation by Judge Jack R. Turney in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week.

Robert Campanelli, 21, Keedysville, was found guilty of violation of probation (VOP) when he failed to meet with his probation officer on numerous occasions and when he was charged with other crimes in another state.

Campanelli had been found guilty of felony theft, assault, and malicious destruction of property on August 15, 1991. At that time, he was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections, fined $25 on each count, and placed on three years of supervised probation. He had been arrested by the Maryland State Police following an October 22, 1990, incident in which he led police in a chase, assaulted a police officer, and damaged a police cruiser in a vehicle he had stolen. He also attempted to flee the scene and was found to be in possession of a loaded .22 caliber firearm and metal knuckles.

A bench warrant was issued in May court proceedings for Campanelli for failure to appear in court on violation of probation charges.

Last week, Campanelli's probation was revoked and he was ordered to serve two years in the Md. Dept. of Corrections.

In another VOP case, Thomas E. Naylor, 21, Oakland, was found guilty of violation of probation and ordered to serve 12 months in jail (nine months was suspended) followed by two years of supervised probation. This was Naylor's second VOP since he was initially found guilty of fourth degree sexual offense against a 14-year-old female. He was found guilty of that charge on November 13, 1990, and at that time he was handed a one-year suspended jail term, fined $250, and placed on 24 months of supervised probation.

A motion to revise that initial sentence in September of 1991 was denied by the judge. The second VOP stemmed from a theft charge in which he reportedly forged a check to obtain cash.

David W. Troshak, Loch Lynn, was found guilty of battery in July court proceedings which was a violation of probation stemming from an earlier battery charge.

Troshak had been found guilty of battery in November of 1990 and given a one-year jail term, fined $50, and placed on three years of supervised probation. That battery charge had been brought by Jeffrey Bowman in July of 1989.

His most recent conviction for battery led to him being charged with VOP. The judge reimposed his jail term and suspended all but 30 days. Work release was ordered for him by the judge.

In other District Court news, David A. Wiles Sr., 21, Mtn. Lake Park, was found not guilty of harassment.

He had been charged on August 20 by Twyla Paugh, who stated that Wiles had repeatedly called her home at night waking her and her family.

Dannie A. Stemple, 38, Oakland, was found guilty of being intoxicated and endangering himself. A second charge of causing a disturbance while intoxicated was merged with the first count.

The judge sentenced him to 90 days in jail (all was suspended but 30 days), fined him $100, and placed him on 24 months of supervised probation.

Stemple had been arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after several residents in Crellin complained of Stemple walking down the streets and "banging" on doors. When apprehended by police, the shirtless Stemple told police he was attempting to locate his ex-girlfriend.

DWI CASES

Paul Allen Naylor, 65, Oakland, was found guilty of operating a boat while under the influence of alcohol (DWI). The judge then amended his decision and granted probation before judgment. He was fined $500 ($300 was suspended), and placed on 90 days unsupervised probation. He had already completed a DWI course with the Garrett County Health Department. Naylor had been apprehended by the Department of Natural Resources Police on July 15 on Deep Creek Lake.

Alfred Mullins, 55, Aberdeen, failed to appear on a violation of probation charge stemming from a DWI charge and the judge issued a bench warrant and set bond at $5,000.

Michael J. Dudash, 31, Frederick, had his earlier verdict of guilty for DWI revised to probation before judgment. The original conditions of his parole were imposed by the judge.

Franklin R. Wiedeck Jr., 35, Md., has his earlier guilty verdict for driving while intoxicated reduced to driving while under the influence in court proceedings two weeks ago.

Christopher M. Tasker, 20, Deer Park, was had been charged with violation of probation stemming from an earlier DWI charge had his case dismissed at the request of the State's Attorney's Office.

David Allen Evans, 30, Elk Garden, W.Va., was found guilty of DWI and handed a 30-day jail term (all was suspended but time served), fined $500, and placed on one year of supervised probation. $300 of the fine will be refunded to Evans after he completes DWI school in West Virginia.

Robert Kenneth Critelli, 35, Deer Park, was found guilty of DWI and given a 30-day jail term (all was suspended but time served), fined $500 ($300 suspended), and placed on one year of supervised probation.

Mark Kevin Godor, 37, Mt. Pleasant, Pa., was found guilty of DWI and handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $500 ($300 suspended), and placed on one year of supervised probation.

James Ora VanSickle, 43, Md., pleaded not guilty but was found guilty by Judge Turney. He was sentenced to one year in jail and fined $500.

Robert Leonard Glaze Jr., 55, Friendsville, was found guilty of violation of probation on a DWI charge. His initial sentence was re-imposed with the following conditions: 1) one-on-one counseling at the Garrett County Health Department, 2) extended previous probation six additional months, 3) do not drive a vehicle, 4) totally abstain from alcohol and/or illicit drugs, 5) enter the Alcoholics Anonymous program, and 6) submit to random urinalysis testing.

ROTARY WELCOMES SPANISH EXCHANGE GROUP -- The Oakland Rotary welcomed as guest speakers Virginia (Vicki) Buylla, Spanish exchange teacher, and Celia De La Fuente, Spanish Exchange student, to their last meeting. Mrs. Buylla and Miss De La Fuente gave a brief presentation on Spain and answered questions from the floor. The Oakland Rotary will hold its next meeting this evening, October 1, at the American Legion, with dinner starting at 6:15 p.m. The Club's next fund-raising event will be selling funnel cakes and French fries at the Oakland VFD Oktoberfest Oct. 10 at the fire hall.

GCC To Offer Freedom From Smoking Class

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College, in cooperation with the American Lung Association, will be offering a Freedom From Smoking class, a step-by-step approach to changing behavior. According to a GCC spokesman, the class incorporates many well-known techniques for assisting smokers who want to stop. There is a logical progression from awareness of the habit, to actual behavior change, to a program of maintenance. "The program focus is positive, group-oriented, and aimed at learning how to quit," the spokesman said.

The class will begin October 5 and continue through November 23. The class will be held Monday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. for a total of eight sessions.

Those who wish to register or need any additional information may contact the Continuing Education Division at 387-6666, ext 169 or 170.

State Receives EPA Grant For Pollution Control

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced this week the receipt of a $200,000 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to promote pollution prevention in Maryland.

"Maryland has some of the strongest environmental laws and programs in the nation," said the governor. "And our efforts have been successful at reducing pollutants released into our environment, especially the Chesapeake Bay. However, in order to make further progress we have to look for ways of preventing pollution rather than just controlling pollution after it has been generated.

"This grant will enable the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) to work more closely with industry to prevent pollution by using cleaner raw materials, changing processes, creating less waste, and recycling wherever possible," added Governor Schaefer.

The initiative is consistent with Governor Schaefer's strategy of focusing more state resources on "prevention." Included in this approach are new programs aimed at preventing crime and health problems.

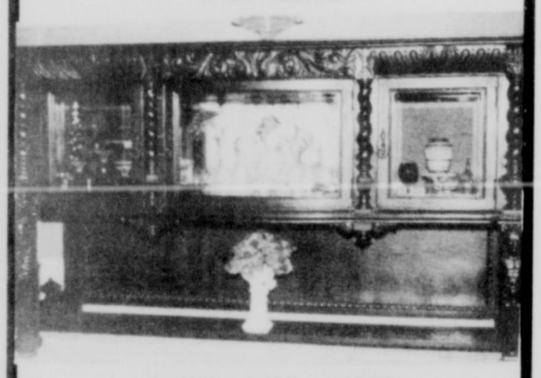
"We think it will be more cost-effective in the long run to prevent problems rather than just treating or controlling them after they have arisen," Governor Schaefer said. "In this case we are talking about reducing pollution over an entire industrial operation instead of concentrating mainly on the smoke stack or the discharge pipe."

MDE will use the grant to provide technical assistance to business and to continue to incorporate the principles of pollution prevention into all of its ongoing regulatory activities and long-term planning.

The funds will also allow the department to establish a tracking system to help document the effectiveness of various pollution prevention efforts.

Pollution prevention is a major component of MDE's efforts to develop a more comprehensive, multi-media (air, land and water) approach to environmental protection.

"Traditionally, pollution control programs have been organized according to the affected media -- such as air, land or water," said Maryland Secretary of the Environment Robert Perciasepe. "And we have learned that programs that focus on only one media may lead to added emissions or discharges in a another media.



"For example, as we get better at removing more and more materials from industrial wastewater we are creating more industrial sludge, which is a solid waste," he said. "We need to consider these factors in our strategic planning.

"We want to avoid removing pollutants from one media only to put them into another," added Secretary Perciasepe. "Pollution prevention, as part of a more holistic approach to environmental protection, will help address potential cross-media environmental impacts."

The pollution prevention effort will also include governor's awards to those businesses and organizations who begin or maintain outstanding pollution prevention programs.

Finzel Man Cited For Solicitation In Cumberland

A Finzel man was arrested Sunday night in Cumberland and charged in connection with an alleged solicitation incident.

Glenn Patrick Jordan, 40, was charged with four counts of solicitation for prostitution, according to an Allegany County District Court spokesperson.

Cumberland city police reported that they were contacted at approximately 11:30 p.m. by a person who complained of being approached by a man who wanted to perform unnatural sex acts. Police apprehended Jordan after the caller identified the car that had approached him.

Jordan was released on his own recognizance following a bond hearing before a District Court commissioner.

APPLE BUTTER BOIL HELD – The annual Apple Butter Boil was held recently at Herrington Manor-Swallow Falls State Park, with a total of 250 people participating in the two-day event, and approximately 12 bushels of apples being peeled and sliced the day before by park employees and visitors. Half of the apples were then cooked down on Friday at Herrington Manor and the other half on Saturday at Swallow Falls. The kettle was placed on the fire each day at 9 a.m. and the contents had to be stirred constantly until the pot was taken off the fire at 3 p.m. In the end, a total of 18 gallons (or 300 containers) of apple butter were made, dished out, and sold. According to park ranger, Lisa Baker, "People were waiting around Saturday afternoon for us to start dishing it out, and all 300 containers were sold by early Sunday." Shown in the above photo is Bobby Stemple, park employee, stirring the apple butter.

Md. State Police, Gov't Officials Initiate Operation Night Ride

Governor William Donald Schaefer, State Police Superintendent Col. Larry W. Tolliver, and Department of Education Secretary Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick, recently unveiled Operation Night Ride, a unique program aimed at educating high school students about the deadly consequences of alcohol and drug abuse.

Operation Night Ride is a new program in which high school students ride with state troopers on drunk driving patrols. The program objective is to use "reality-based" training to show teenagers the dangers of alcohol and drug abuse.

Governor Schaefer attended the kick-off Friday at Overlea High School and voiced his support of the program. "This is an innovative way to help our young people see how the use of drugs and alcohol can ruin their lives," Governor Schaefer said. "I hope parents will support the efforts of the State Police and the Department of Education by encouraging their teenagers to participate in this life-saving program."

Col. Tolliver, who developed the program with the cooperation of the Department of Education officials, believes Operation Night Ride provides a unique classroom in which students will learn vital information. "It is essential that young people believe our message that the use of alcohol and drugs can have a devastating impact on their lives." Tolliver said. "This program will show them in vivid detail that the best choice is to remain alcohol and drug-free."

After receiving parental permission, students participating in Operation Night Ride will ride with troopers in four hour segments on Friday and Saturday nights. Troopers with students will be working drunk driving patrols or sobriety checkpoints. These troopers will also respond to accidents involving the use of alcohol and drugs.

Operation Night Ride begins today in Baltimore County, Carroll County and Baltimore City public schools. Efforts are underway to initiate the program in other Maryland counties. Interested students should contact their school's guidance counselor or principal.

GOBA Discusses Upcoming Events

The Greater Oakland Business Association met recently to discuss various upcoming projects such as the "street fair" to be held in Oakland on Autumn Glory Friday, October 9, with the Silver Eagle band providing the musical entertainment.

The Christmas promotion and parade were also discussed, and interested merchants should contact Teresa Feather, who will be organizing both events.

The members then talked about "Fresh Air Christmas," during which a contest will be held for store front decorating, with customers voting, by way of donations, for the winning window. The theme for this year will be "Peace on Earth," and all donations will be contributed to the House of Hope.

The second annual "Make a Difference" Day was also a topic of conversation at the meeting and the group voted to implement a food drive for that day, November 14. Member Nancy Helbig will chair the committee.

Other plans are being finalized for the "Fresh Air Festival," to be held May 29 through the Memorial Day Weekend. Among the events will be Civil War reenactment, a 10K race, the outhouse race, a fishing derby, and a bike tour. Interested persons may contact Janna Naylor.

Barbara Ross was a high school student in a Philadelphia suburb in 1950 when she began a busy modeling career that took her to New York. In time, she bowed out to marry and raise two children in Philadelphia. In the late 1970s she returned to modeling. Now, nearing 60, she reigns as the silver-haired star of Philadelphia fashion shows. Often cast in bridal shows as the mother of the bride, she draws more applause than other models less than half her age.

GCC Enrollment At All-Time High

Garrett Community College is currently experiencing its largest ever enrollment of full-time students and its largest over all enrollment in the past 12 years, according to Deloris Edgar, registrar. A total of 665 students are enrolled in classes this semester, 389 of whom are full-time, making an F.T.E. count of 233.6, the highest in the history of the college.

This number represents an increase of 32 students over fall semester 1991, and an increase of 14 F.T.E.

The increase becomes more significant, Ms. Edgar said, when the fact that GCC is not offering English 101 at the two Garrett County high schools this year is considered. These two English 101 courses have accounted for 30-40 students during the past three fall semesters, and it is hoped that they can be offered again next year.

MSP Barrack W Welcomes Two New Troopers

The Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, recently welcomed two new members to its force. Tfc. Wayne L. Mowbray and Tpr. Mark E. Rodeheaver are now serving with Garrett County troopers.

A native of Barton, Tfc. Mowbray entered the Maryland State Police Academy in January of 1986. He was first assigned to the Cumberland Barrack and served there for 8 months before transferring to the Aviation Division. He served there for five and one-half years before transferring to McHenry.

Tfc. Mowbray holds an associate degree in criminal justice from Allegany Community College. He is also a nationally registered E.M.T.-Paramedic.

He presently resides in Barton with his wife, the former Erica Carlson, a native of Oakland, and their two-month-old son, Andrew.

Born and reared in McHenry, Trp. Rodeheaver graduated from Northern High School in 1987. He was hired as a cadet in July of 1989 and spent one year in that capacity at the New Market Scale House in Frederick.

He graduated from the Maryland State Police Acad-

Theodore J. "Ted" Lascaris Named Autumn Glory Golden Ambassador

A local retired restaurateur and staunch advocate of tourism in Garrett County, Theodore J. "Ted" Lascaris, has been named the 1992 Honorary Golden Ambassador for the 25th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. That announcement was made last night at the Kick-Off Reception held at The Wisp Resort in McHenry.

Lascaris was lauded for his promoting of quality businesses in the county that encourage a family atmosphere in tourism. The Honorary Golden Ambassador is selected each year by former Golden Ambassadors on the basis of contributions to local tourism and the economy.

A property owner in Garrett County since 1946, Lascaris located permanently at Deep Creek Lake in 1960. He and his wife, Celeste, acquired property that is now known as Alpine Village. They began building cottages in 1961, the motel in 1968, and the popular Silver Tree Inn in 1976 which the family still operates and continues to improve to meet the needs of increased tourism.

Lascaris served as vice president and president of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council in the mid-1960's -- about the time the seeds were planted for the Turkey Festival which a few years later became the Autumn Glory Festival.

This year's Golden Ambassador has always believed in supporting local businesses and stresses that everyone benefits by helping each other along the way. His endeavors have always been a "class act," according to many of his constituents.

Born in Uniontown, Pa., he attended Kiski Prep School and Columbia University. He then operated his family's theatre for 20 years before moving to Deep Creek Lake. Since his recent retirement, Lascaris remains active with two of his favorite sports -- skiing and golfing.

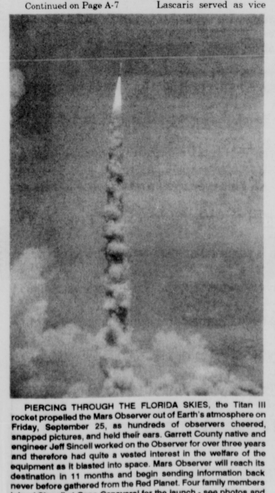
Ted and Celeste are the parents of three children, Elaine McDonald, Jim Lascaris, and Diane Waithall, all of whom continue in their parents' footsteps to promote quality businesses and tourism in Garrett County. The couple also has five grandchildren.

Lascaris will be the honored guest at numerous Autumn Glory functions throughout the weekend.

Young Oakland Man Jailed On Theft Charges

An 18-year-old Oakland man is currently lodged in the Garrett County Jail on an $11,000 bond after he was charged by Maryland State Police (MSP) on numerous charges of theft and burglary.

Russell W. Slagle was arrested by MSP after officers at the McHenry barrack were contacted by West Virginia State Police about thefts that had been occurring in Preston County.



According to reports, a juvenile was also involved in the incidents that occurred in Garrett County and in the Big Bear Lake area of West Virginia.

The juvenile was also arrested and, according to reports, has since been released into the custody of his parents.

The case involves the theft of numerous items from residences, including a Honda dirt bike, three remote control airplanes, numerous car stereos, chain saws, cassette tapes, and CD players.

Further investigation by the MSP revealed that many of the stolen items were PIERCING THROUGH THE FLORIDA SKIES, the Titan III rocket propelled the Mars Observer out of Earth's atmosphere on Friday, September 25, as hundreds of observers cheered, snapped pictures, and held their ears. Garrett County native and engineer Jeff Sincell worked on the Observer for over three years and therefore had quite a vested interest in the welfare of the equipment as it blasted into space. Mars Observer will reach its destination in 11 months and begin sending information back never before gathered from the Red Planet. Four family members joined Sincell at Cape Canaveral for the launch - see photos and a feature on the event on page A-8.

Deputies' Suit Against Commissioners Dismissed In Allegany County Court

A suit filed by 24 employees of the Garrett County Sheriff's Department July 13 against the Garrett County Commissioners to enforce what was charged as "approve" salary increases was recently dismissed in Allegany County Circuit Court by Judge Gary Leasure. A second suit, filed against Garrett County Sheriff M. Van Evans, was also dismissed and ordered by the judge not to be reopened.

According to reports, the plaintiffs contended that pay increments had been approved by the commissioners in January 1990 to be paid in three installments during the following three years. The first installment of $1,500 was paid in the summer of 1990 but the second and third were not, according to the employees.

The county commissioners had issued a written statement at the time alleging that attempts had been made to resolve the issue in a fair manner and one that was consistent with the budgetary problems facing the county and state. An adjustment that equalled half of the second scheduled pay increase of $1,500 was awarded to all non-union personnel, effective July 1, however.

The employees alleged that "a serious salary inequity" existed among the sheriff's office personnel, and that the commissioners and the sheriff had acknowledged that fact as the result of a study completed regarding the grade and salary structure within the county.

The agreement to increase the salaries in 1991 and 1992 was, reportedly, a verbal one initiated by the previous board of commissioners with the stipulation that the increases would be fiscally possible. Since then, funding cuts from the state level to the local jurisdictions resulted in no pay increases being given to non-union employees in accordance with emergency legislation passed by the Maryland General Assembly.

Attorney for the plaintiffs, Thomas B. Dabney Jr., stated at the time the suit was filed that the pay scale for the sheriff's office employees was below standard, comparing starting salary for a deputy ($15,299) to that of an entry level truck driver for the county roads department ($20,862.40).

Co. Commissioners Establishing New Salary Commission

The Garrett County Commissioners this week announced that they are in the process of establishing a Garrett County Salary Study Commission, whose purpose it will be to study the salaries of the various elected and appointed county officials and to recommend any changes in the structure.

Because of legislation introduced by District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards during the 1990 Maryland General Assembly session, the establishment of the commission is now the responsibility of the board of county commissioners, and now includes a broader base of representation. Previously, the delegate assumed the responsibility of that task, as prescribed by law. The commission then consisted of only five members.

The seven-member commission, which convenes every four years before January of the following year, will consist of one member from both the Republican and the Democrat State Central committees; a member of the League of Women Voters of Garrett County; a member of the Chamber of Commerce of Garrett County; a member of the Farm Bureau of Garrett County; a member of the Garrett County Council of PTA's; and a member of the Garrett County Volunteer Fire and Rescue Association.

Individuals representing each of those groups will be selected by their respective group. A chairperson will be selected by the commission from among its members after it convenes.

The commission will be charged with studying and making recommendations on the salaries of the county commissioners, the board of education, the board of supervisors of elections, the judges of the orphans' court, the liquor control board, the sheriff, the state's attorney, and the treasurer.

The group may recommend an increase or decrease to the commissioners for any of the salaries and, within 45 days after the commissioners receive those recommendations, they must set the salaries for each of the offices, according to the

Three More Stamp Designs By Stutzman To Be Unveiled Today By Postal Service

Three more postage stamp designs created by Mountain Lake Park resident Mark Stutzman will be unveiled today by the United States Postal Service. Stutzman was hired to do designs of Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens, and Bill Haley as a continuation of the new rock and roll stamp series, which is part of the postal service's Legends in American Music project. The artist's illustration of the young Elvis Presley received national attention this spring when it was chosen by popular vote over another illustration which depicted Elvis in his later years.

Stutzman indicated that he was commissioned to do the next three artists even before the voting procedure was finished, and actually had them completed several months ago. He noted that three other stamp designs of rhythm and blues artists will also be unveiled today. These illustrations were created by John Berkey, the artist of the competing Elvis stamp. Stutzman said several of the eight original artists who designed Elvis stamps are also working on stamps for various sections of the Legends in American Music series.

The unveiling will be covered on most major networks on this evening's news, and several morning shows will reportedly carry the story tomorrow.

The unveiling of the stamps falls on the first official day of Garrett County's Autumn Glory Celebration. This is a timely event, as Stutzman will serve as the Grand Marshal of the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade on Saturday in downtown Oakland.

MAKING MUSIC at the Northern High School football field Saturday night were the members of 11 area bands who came to compete in the Northern Tournament of Bands Marching Spectacular. The Keyser High School band was named Best of Show, while Westmar won first place in Division I, Central High School took first in Division II, and Somerset High School in Division III. Pictured above is a an action shot of the host band, Northern, which performed in exhibition. See more photos and tournament details elsewhere in this section. Photo by Mike Hetrick.

Bradley Manor Renovation Plan Accepted By Bankruptcy Court, HUD

The renovation plan for the dilapidated Bradley Manor area, west of Oakland, was approved Monday by the United States Federal Bankruptcy Court and by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). The plan was a result of a court order to the town of Oakland, HUD, and the Oakland Associates (headed by Morton Sarubin) to compromise and agree on the future of the deserted housing development.

Oakland Mayor Asa McCain attended the Baltimore hearing Monday and reported that he was pleased with the outcome. He explained that the town council's fear had been that HUD would not agree to the plan and would appeal the decision, thereby delaying further the demolition of the neglected housing units and the rebuilding of a viable development. But HUD representatives agreed with the proposal as did the judge and other involved parties. McCain said there remains at least two more court dates, and that the last hearing should be sometime in December.

"If all goes well, we can probably start demolition in the early spring (1993). The project will take about 10 months to complete," McCain said.

The reconstruction of the area will be done by Devlin Incorporated and the housing's management will be handled by Garrettland Realty, both local firms. These two firms have built and managed other successful housing developments in Garrett County, including Underwood South in Oakland.

The plan was presented following a formal survey of the Bradley Manor grounds and the completion of an architect's design. The new design consists of 64 housing units. Housing for the elderly will be available in 32 of the units, four of which are two-bedroom and the rest one-bedroom. This building will be modeled after Underwood South, McCain said. He added that because of funding circumstances, the elderly housing may not be completed in the first 10 months of development, but will be finished in a year or two.

The remaining housing development will consist of five separate buildings of two-story townhouses - 32 units in all. These will be one and two-bedroom units. One of the five buildings will be handicapped-equipped, McCain indicated, with its own management office and laundry facilities in a separate building.

A town recreation area will be constructed on the remaining property with tennis and basketball courts. A recreation center building is planned, with storage space, rest rooms, and areas for summer activities such as arts and crafts. The building to be used for this center will be the only remaining structure of the former Bradley Manor development. All other structures will be razed, McCain said.

A "free-form" walking track is also planned (as opposed to an oval running

Vindex Shooting Ruled Hunting Accident By DNR

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Police has determined that a shooting that occurred near Vindex Tuesday was the result of a hunting accident.

According to reports, Steven W. Whitacre, 25, Kitzmiller, was hunting just off Rt. 38 with William S. Arnhalt, 22, Mt. Storm, W.Va., when he shot at a squirrel and missed, striking Arnhalt in the left arm, shoulder, and right hand.

Arnhalt was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and was reportedly released the following day.

The incident was investigated by DNR Officer Richard Towers, who issued no charges in the accident.

MENTAL ILLNESS AWARENESS WEEK OBSERVANCE -- The Garrett County Commissioners have joined the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill and the American Psychiatric Association in observance of Mental Illness Awareness Week, October 4-10, and support the efforts to increase scientific knowledge about mental illness and to improve care for those persons affected by mental illness. According to the executive proclamation, "Every community experiences the tragedy of mental illness and must cope with the growing number of persons released from psychiatric hospitals who are unable to care for themselves and have no adequate programs or services to turn to . . . " The proclamation further stated that recent findings indicate schizophrenia and manic-depression are primarily caused by biochemical and genetic factors and that "fear and stigma attached to mental illness have contributed to the shortage of dollars and services." Shown above, left to right, are Elwood Groves, Garrett County commissioner; Carol Cox, president of the Garrett County Alliance for the Mentally Ill; and Brenda Butscher and John Braskey, commissioners.

Garrett County AMI Observing Mental Illness Awareness Week

An enthusiastic group of mental health advocates opened a week-long series of events Monday evening with a candlelight vigil and procession in downtown Oakland.

A visitor from Florida joined the walkers in a public show of support for this nationwide remembrance of those millions of Americans affected by the various forms of mental illnesses.

The candlelight procession was the first of many activities spearheaded by the local AMI group, including a series of newspaper articles: public service announcements on the local radio stations; the distribution of posters and brochures in key places throughout the communities; and the presentation of a proclamation declaring October 4-10 as Mental Illness Awareness Week to the Garrett County Commissioners.

According to Carol Cox, president of the Garrett County affiliate, these activities were coordinated to educate the public that mental illnesses are both prevalent and treatable. "The messages of this special week are many and include information, treatment and hope for the millions and millions of Americans and their families who are affected by these biological brain diseases," Mrs. Cox said.

"We want to draw the attention of people in Garrett County to the needless suffering of millions of Americans - many of them family and friends - who have treatable illnesses," said Cox. "We want everyone to know that those in pain don't need to be alone and that there is no shame in seeking help."

Other events of the week included a presentation of "A Mental Illness Awareness Guide for the Clergy" to area pastors and to the Ruth Enlow Library.

Those interested in further information are urged to call Mrs. Cox at 334-4357.

Local Resident Hears From Sister Via Ham Radio

When Hurricane Iniki struck Hawaii last month, Deep Creek Lake resident Walter Ramsay was greatly concerned about the welfare of his sister, Jeanne Bunyan, who resides on the island of Kauai.

Mrs. Bunyan's house, which was located on the beach and right at the center of the eye of the hurricane, was leveled by the storm, as was most of the previously paradise-like beach area on the western coast of Kauai. Because the storm wiped out nearly every means of communication, Ramsay was unable to find out whether or not his sister was all right.

Then some six days after the storm, Ramsay received a telephone call from a ham radio operator in Danville, Calif., who was relaying a message from Mrs. Bunyan to several members of her family that she was fine. While her house had been destroyed, she had moved inland prior to the storm and took refuge in the basement closet of a friend's house while the storm passed over.

Mrs. Bunyan has two sons who reside on the island of Oahu, a daughter on the main island of Hawaii, and a son in Puerto Rico, all of whom were finally notified of their mother's situation through the ham radio operator. She is currently residing in temporary housing provided by the U.S. Army.

Ramsay finally spoke to his sister this week via telephone. "She gave high praise to the U.S. Army for its assistance since the storm," Ramsay said. "She also said that the storm totally denuded what was one of the most beautiful areas in the islands. Two-hundred-year-old trees were ripped out by their roots and even the grass was pulled out of the ground by the winds."

Ramsay said this was the third hurricane Mrs. Bunyan has survived, as her house in Kauai was destroyed before by Hurricane Ewa in 1982.

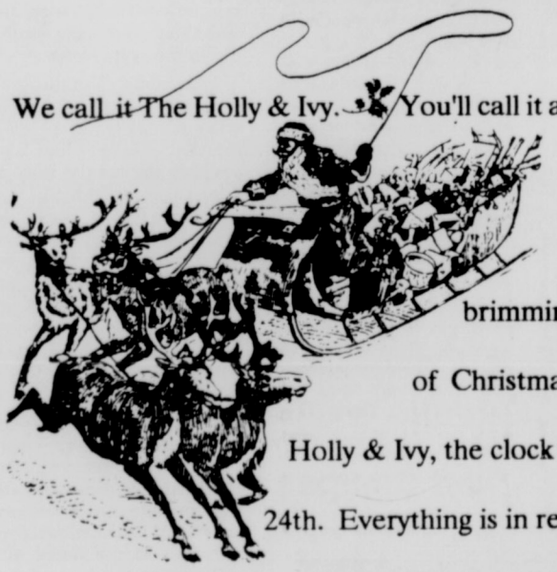
Festival Comm. Notes Parade Road Closures

The Autumn Glory Festival Committee reports that because of potential traffic and safety hazards in recent years, the Maryland State Highway Administration has again recommended policy for the 25th Annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade. The above map of Oakland indicates road closings on Saturday, October 10.

As has been customary with previous Autumn Glory Festivals, some roads will be closed for the parade; however, the festival committee requests that local residents please note that at 7 a.m. on Saturday, October 10, Green Street will be closed for vendors to set up on the street and in the Garrett National Bank drive-in parking lot.

At 11 a.m. on Saturday, October 10, all southbound traffic on U.S. Route 219 will be routed through Oakland via Fourth Street and trucks will be routed by Oakland via Sand Flat Road. Beginning at 11 a.m., Route 219 will be open to permit holders ONLY and all traffic will be southbound only. No parking will be allowed along Fourth Street or on Memorial Drive from Route 219 to Eighth Street. Roads will be closed in several more locations at 11 a.m.: U.S. Route 219 between Fourth Street and Oak Street; Memorial Drive between Third Street and Fourth Street; and Pennington, Crook and Omar streets on both sides of Third Street.

Center Street will be open for cross-town traffic only until 12:45 p.m. Signs advising travelers of the detour will be provided by the Maryland State Highway Administration, and personnel helping travelers at closed roads will be provided by Maryland State Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, and the Oakland Police Department. Permits are being issued by the festival committee to local merchants and festival participants who need to go through the roadblock on Saturday, October 10.



The units of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade will set up within the closed area, and the parade will begin at 1 p.m The roads will be open to traffic again as soon as possible after the conclusion of the parade. For more information, persons may call the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council office at 334-1948.

Baba Olatunji Uses Drums For More Than Musical Entertainment

by Joan Sussman

When Baba Olatunji and his "Drums of Passion" dance and drum troupe appear at Garrett Community College on Saturday, October 24, at 8 p.m., his intention will be not just to entertain, but to promote a better understanding of traditional African culture and of the African "self."

Olatunji, who has performed in more than 75 countries in his 40-year crusade to bring the beat of African music and movement to audiences worldwide, has achieved renown as one of the world's finest drummers.

In recent years, he has collaborated with superstar American musicians such as Carlos Santana and Greatful Dead drummer Mickey Hart.

Along with a successful performing and recording career, which includes several albums, Olatunji has composed scores for Broadway and Hollywood productions and films. He recently assisted with the music for Spike Lee's hit film, "She's Gotta Have It," but his primary loyalty continues to be the traditions of West African music, which features "talking drums."

Taking drums are tall, tubular drums of hand crafted intricately carved wood with animal-skin drum heads. "There is spirit in the wood, and the skin must be alive," he says.

Olatunji's performances on the talking drums include much more than rhythm. His drums speak with a melody that integrates mood, tone, and resonance into myriad of distinct, expressive voices.

"Rhythm is the soul of life," Olatunji says. "Every cell in your body or mind is in constant rhythm and frequency. That's the source - that's where I'm coming from."

Throughout the performance, Olatunji explains the origin, meaning, and aesthetic values of African music, celebrating his upbringing in a small Nigerian village. "I grew up in a traditional African society, where you wake up to hear the drums singing. When a child is born, there is music and dance. When you come of age, the rites of passage are celebrated with music and dance, when you take a giant step in life - when you get married - people come from all over and participate in this, with music and dance . . . The elders, when the moon is shining at night, get together and tell stories that have morals to communicate, and that's how you learn about life."

Although Olatunji originally came to America to attend Morehouse College in Georgia as a step towards acting for political change in Africa, he soon realized that his drums could speak louder than words. "It's the safest way," according to Olatunji. "That's what I discovered. It gives me an opportunity to be creative and to try to preserve the important things in the culture." He is currently working to establish a Center for African Performing Arts in his hometown of Ajido, Nigeria to perpetrate and promote African music and dance.

Audiences from the 1989 "Festival of Africa" at Frostburg State University will remember the compelling mixture of movement and music that Olatunji and his Drums of Passion dancers and musicians achieve. The two hour performance includes several opportunities for audience participation through repetitive chanting and movement.

Tickets to the Olatunji performance in the gymnasium at GCC are available at the GCC Library, Englander's Pharmacy, Arrowhead Grocery and Deli, the Accident branch of the Ruth Enlow Library, Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville, and Main Street Books in Frostburg. Tickets are $10. The concert is sponsored in part by grants from Garrett Community College and the Garrett County Arts Council.

Local Man "Fair" Following Mishap On Motorcycle

A 44-year-old Oakland man is listed in "fair" condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after he sustained injuries in a motorcycle accident that occurred Monday on Mayhew Inn Road.

According to reports from the Maryland State Police, John B. Furr was operating a 1985 Honda motorcycle at 6:55 p.m., travelling westbound, when a deer jumped into the path of the vehicle, ejecting Furr as it overturned. A passenger on the motorcycle, Shelly A. Frye, 16, also of Oakland, was treated for injuries and released from the hospital.

Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported the victims. Deep Creek Lake Volunteer Fire Department also responded.

The accident was investigated by Cpl. Gary M. Long.

DWI Arrests

In other news from the Maryland State Police, five persons were charged with driving while intoxicated during the past week.

Russell D. Geiger, 53, Orwigsburg, Pa., was arrested Thursday by Tfc. Mowbray.

Melissa D. DiSimone, 20, Oakland, was charged by Tfc. Broadwater on Friday.

Donald D. Slotter, 29, Duncannon, Pa., was arrested Friday by Tfc. Becker.

Michael D. Brown, 24, Salisbury, was arrested by Tfc. Becker on Saturday.

Mona B. Cree, 49, Oakland, was charged on Sunday by Tfc. Becker.

Jail And Sheriff's Office Smoke-Free As Of Oct. 15

The Garrett County Jail and Sheriff's Office will be smoke-free effective October 15, according to Garrett County Sheriff Van Evans.

The damage caused by first and second-hand smoke from cigarettes and other tobacco products precipitated the decision to enforce the smoke-free policy, Evans indicated.

"Since this office values the health of our employees and feels a responsibility to protect the health and rights of those in our custody, smoking will no longer be permitted in the Garrett County Jail and Sheriff's Office," Evans said. This decision was made partly because there is no safe level of exposure to tobacco smoke and because tobacco causes significant air pollution.

Other benefits to a smoke-free environment were noted by Evans, including a reduction of fire hazard, a reduction of potential damage to bedding and clothing as a result of cigarette burns, and a simplification of building maintenance as there will no longer be smoke stains on walls and ceilings. Litter in the form of cigarette butts, wrappers, ashes, and matches will no longer be a problem, and with the elimination of tobacco smoking, some other forms of contraband may be easier to recognize if introduced into the jail, Evans explained.

Cigarettes and matches will become contraband on October 15.

Swanton Man Sentenced To Three Years In The DOC On Two Counts Of Battery

A Swanton man was sentenced to three years in the Maryland Department of Corrections in Garrett County District Court proceedings last week stemming from two battery cases against him.

Robert Eugene Johnson Jr., 27, Swanton, had one year of his sentence suspended and was given credit for the 46 days he had already served in jail. He was also fined $200 for each count and placed on 36 months of supervised probation following his release from prison.

Johnson had been charged with the two counts of battery as the result of an altercation at Shorty's Bar on May 7 and another on April 20 at VFW Post 10077. He had also been charged with two counts of malicious destruction of property and two counts of disturbing the peace. Those were not prosecuted in a plea agreement with the State's Attorney's Office. The sentences are to run concurrently.

In the incident at Shorty's Bar at Gortner, the proprietor, William T. Finch, asked Johnson to leave since he had already been barred from that establishment. Johnson reportedly then broke a pool stick and hit Finch in the chest. Finch, using his night stick, forced Johnson from Festival Founding...

For those of us who have been around for every Autumn Glory Festival, it's hard to believe that this year's event, which was kicked off via a reception at the Wisp last night, is the 25th annual. Literally hundreds of thousands of local residents and visitors have taken part in and enjoyed the various events and activities of Autumn Glory during those two and one-half decades.

For those who wonder how the festival originated, we take a look back in time and picture a small group of Oakland area business people having lunch together, probably in September or October. There was no particular hurry to finish their meal because, since Labor Day, business had fallen off to a snail's pace. The main topic of discussion was, what could be done to stimulate some fall business before the onset of the Christmas season? The Garrett County countryside is, after all, the most beautiful during the autumn months.

Thus, the idea of holding a fall festival was born in the minds of that small group and, through the efforts of the Promotion Council and ultimately dozens of organizations and hundreds of individuals, the Autumn Glory Festival has been held successfully ever since.

For local businesses and various participating non-profit organizations, the Festival does provide a nice shot in the arm during what is otherwise a sluggish time of the year. For many former residents of Garrett County, the Festival is the perfect homecoming opportunity. For new visitors to the county, the Festival is a demonstration of what Garrett County and its people have to offer. For the organizers, the Festival represents a lot of work, but also, hopefully, a sense of satisfaction and accomplishment. For local residents who participate in the many events, the Festival is simply a time for some great fun.

We have been told that every available room in the Oakland and Deep Creek Lake areas have been reserved for this weekend. With the exception of a few rain showers after midnight tonight and early tomorrow morning, the weather looks generally good. The kickoff reception last night was a major success. All systems are "go" for the numerous events. So, on with the festival and let's have a blast!

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

GOBA (Greater Oakland Business Association) is spearheading a county-wide food drive, in conjunction with USA Weekend's second annnual Make A Difference Day challenge.

GOBA invites any and all organizations to help their fellow Garrett Countians. The drive would be during the week of Nov. 8-13. November 14, Make A Difference Day, foods collected will be weighed and donated to Community Action, where disbursement will be free to qualified families.

Garrett County has seen a significant increase in "the new poor," families faced with an emergency crisis. Groups who already have a project in place may join this day by letting GOBA add their poundage to the total sum.

The Garrett County Commissioners will proclaim November 14 as Garrett County's Make A Difference Day at their October 27 meeting and media coverage will follow announcing all contributing organizations and where their drop-off points are.

A report will be submitted to USA Weekend, where 16 different volunteer projects will be honored and $8,500 in charitable donations will be awarded.

GOBA hopes your organization will join forces with us. If so, please contact Nancy Helbig (Gonder Insurance) at 334-2401, or Connie Margison (Marvin's Men's Wear) at 334-9211.

Thanks for your support,
Nancy Helbig

To the Editor:

When I read the letter about the person dragging the dog on the bumper of a truck, it really made me mad.

Was this person charged with animal cruelty? If not, I would like to know why. I think it would be appropriate to chain them to the bumper of a truck and drag them for about 10 miles and see how they like it.

Until these judges start doing something with people like this, it looks like other people will have to take the law in their own hands and believe me I wouldn't hesitate to do it, so animal abusers had better stay away from me.

I am an animal lover and I don't care who knows it or whether they like it or not. I will do what I can to help the animals.

I am glad the animal shelter responded so quickly. Thank God someone cares, especially Noel Hershman. This is just another reason we need a spay/neuter program. What is wrong with our commissioners? They don't mind spending the taxpayers money to have animals killed. Why not spend this money to stop the population of unwanted animals?

This is just one example of what happens to animals that people don't want. They can't even put them in a car and take them to the animal shelter, they have to be dragged and this is an outrage. This person should be at least fined and spend sometime in jail to think about what they have done. Also, they could do some community service. Maybe other people would think before they committed such a horrible act.

These are my words and The Republican is in no way responsible for what I have said.

You better watch out, animal abusers. You don't know who might be watching you.

Sincerely,
Mrs. W.G. Gnegy

To the Editor:

I am writing about Question 6, Maryland's Referendum on Senate Bill 162. While much attention and concern has focused on protecting the woman's "right" to choose to have an abortion, there has been very little concern expressed about the provisions of this law which may endanger the health of the woman, but protect the physician performing the abortion and the abortion industry itself.

S.B. 162 states that "an abortion must be performed by a licensed physician." It does not require that such a physician meet any standards of certification, training, competency, etc., allowing any physician to perform an abortion so long as they have a license. Also, the physician is explicitly protected from any criminal penalties or civil damages for deciding to do any abortion as long as it is done in "good faith" and with the "best medical judgment." These clauses in the law hardly hold him accountable. Additionally, the law does not specify where an abortion may be performed nor does it mandate licensing, inspections, or health requirements. Those who fear unsterile "back alley" abortions really do have reason to fear.

Another radical aspect of S.B. 162 is its handling of parental notification. Although it says that one parent should be notified before a minor has an abortion, it allows some important broad exceptions, giving the physician the final authority to decide for the minor. In the final analysis, the law guarantees that no matter what reason he uses for not notifying a parent, he will face no civil or criminal penalties as a result.

In conclusion, there are several aspects of S.B. 162 that are extreme, radical, and potentially dangerous for women. This law protects the abortion industry, not women. If you vote for part of it, you have voted for all of it. Is this what the citizens of Maryland really want? If not, vote NO against Question 6.

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter to let our community know what a fine job the Silver Tree Inn does for the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division.

During this past year, the American Heart Association has worked with Elaine McDonald and the Silver Tree Inn on several different projects.

Each year, for the past three years, the Silver Tree has promoted heart-healthy eating by featuring these meals on their menu and donating a percentage of each heart-healthy meal ordered to the AHA during the month of February.

Also, for the past two years, Elaine has chaired the Celebrity Waiter event which has been held at the Silver Tree and has raised over $11,000 to support the research, and professional and public education and community service programs of the American Heart Association.

On August 31, the 45th Annual Dinner and Volunteer Awards Ceremony was held at the Silver Tree Inn. The dinner was attended by 70 AHA volunteers who were very impressed with the dinner and the atmosphere of the restaurant.

At the Annual Dinner and Volunteer Awards Ceremony, the Silver Tree was presented the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Division, Garrett County Branch's "Outstanding Achievement Award."

I would like to say thank you to the Silver Tree Inn, Elaine McDonald and her staff for their generous support of the American Heart Association.

Sincerely,
Jeffrey A. McKenzie
Division President

Daffodils
by Sheila Hetrick

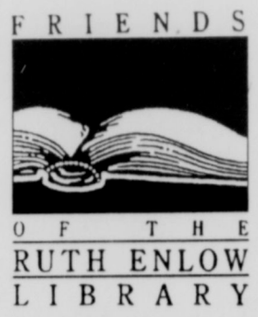
Narcissus is a genus name of this extremely popular and versatile category whose common name is "daffodil." Many people think that "narcissus" applies only to the common forcing variety you see in bulb bowls late in winter, the very fragrant Paper White. This is narcissus, but so are the other species and varieties, regardless of form or color. They also are all daffodils, this being the common term. Whatever you want to call it, the daffodil is an extremely adaptable flower which deserves a place somewhat in almost every home landscape.

It is desirable to plant daffodil bulbs early enough in the fall to ensure good root growth before extremely cold weather arrives. However, they should not be planted before the soil has a chance to cool somewhat after the summer heat, since root growth is triggered by cool temperature. Normally, a good time is the middle of September.

Ideally, daffodils should be located where they will receive ample light, good drainage and protection from high winds. Good light will give more blooms on stronger plants. As with many plants, good drainage is essential, although daffodils like the equivalent of at least an inch of water per week from the time they are planted in the fall until after blooming time.

For best results, incorporate complete fertilizer that is low in nitrogen and high in phosphorous and potash into the soil below the bulb zone at planting time. Do not have bulbs rest on fertilizer as it could damage them. Flowers tend to be better grown with moderate amounts of fertilizer rather than with heavy applications.

After you have planted bulbs to a proper depth with the soil firmed above them to eliminate air pockets, mulch and water the beds. Clean pine needles make a beautiful mulch for daffodils. A good mulch of two-three inches over well-structured soil with ample watering should give good results.



Very important in the life of a daffodil is that interval after the blooming period until the foliage dies down. It is then that the bulb is replenished and provided with next year's flower bud. If the daffodil is to increase in size and divide, it must have foliage with which to carry out this process. Too often, gardeners cut off foliage immediately after the flowers fade. Actually foliage is the only means by which the plant can survive and flourish. The foliage should be left on at least until it starts to turn brown at the tips but not necessarily until it is completely brown. Tying foliage into knots, which is practiced by many, will only hinder photosynthesis, and seldom helps the look of the garden--what could be more unnatural than "leaf knots" in the landscape?

While daffodils may often be left in the ground for several years, there comes a time when they become crowded and need to be lifted and replanted. You may dig them at any time after the foliage begins to turn brown. Bulbs should be cured in a location that is airy and out of the hot sun. As the bulbs become dry, you may store then in mesh bags, in open flats or any other device which allows free air movement and relatively cool temperatures. At any time during the digging and curing process when a bulb shows signs of disease, discard it. A disease would ordinarily show up as a soft, discolored bulb rather than one that is firm and clean-looking. Any daffodil whose foliage has unnatural looking stripes, white or yellow, might be harboring a virus, and your only practical recourse is to dig up the bulb or clump with the soil immediately around it and completely dispose of the entire mass.

In the average garden, daffodils are quite trouble free, and the incidence of disease is very infrequent. For so much beauty, and so little trouble, what can surpass daffodils!

Endorsement Letter Policy

We do not usually accept letters of endorsement for political candidates, simply for fear that we would be inundated with them. However, we have reserved space in our October 22 issue for as many endorsement letters as space will allow. These letters must be received by us no later than October 19. If more space is needed, we will publish the remainder of the letters in our October 29 issue; however, we will publish no letters of endorsement that are received after the Oct. 19 deadline. As always, these letters must be signed.

This column contains two rave reviews: one for a person and the other a book.

Edith Brock is retiring as of October 10. She has been the director of The Ruth Enlow Library for 42 years. In the minds of many Garrett Countians, Edith personifies the library. Several people have told me that when they were young, they thought that she was Ruth Enlow and that it was her library. In a way, they were right. Many of the attributes of our library are a reflection of Edith's personality. Many people remark on the help and personal attention they receive from the Ruth Enlow Library and one of the reasons for this is because of Edith's caring and her desire to provide the best service possible to library patrons.

She has given unselfishly of herself and her time, with no regard for her own interests other than the fulfillment that comes from loving your work and doing it well. An era is ending in the history of The Ruth Enlow Library, as we will be fortunate to find a new director who approaches Edith's level of commitment and caring. Hopefully, the high quality of service she has brought to the library will continue in the years to come.

An open house will be held in honor of Miss Brock on October 18 at the library in Oakland from 2-4 p.m. Please attend and join us in thanking her for her years of extraordinary service and in wishing her a happy, fulfilling retirement.

I bought David James Duncan's first novel, The River Why, because it was about a fly fisherman and was very pleasantly surprised to find that it was a wonderful book, only superficially concerned with fishing. Duncan's second novel, The Brothers K, is even better. The title is a dual reference to The Brothers Karamazov by Dostoevski and the symbol" K", which is used to denote a strikeout on baseball scorecards.

The Brothers K is the story of the Chance family. The father is a baseball player dealing with the failure of his career and the turmoil of his family which includes his wife, a strict disciple of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, his four sons and two daughters, who range in religious faith from his wife's Adventist faith to atheism. The narrator of the story is the third son, Kincaid, who strives, along with his father, to hold the family together through very trying times. I once read a very brief, scathing review of a book, which said that the covers were too far apart. Although it is a rather long book, the covers on The Brothers K are too close together.

Enchanted April

Miramax Films; directed by Mike Newell; starring Miranda Richardson, Josie Lawrence, Joan Plowright, Polly Walker, Alfred Molina, Jim Broadbent and Michael Kitchens.

Enchanted April is a perfectly delightful adult fairy tale. Set in the 1920's, it is awash with color, abloom with love and good will, and no more substantial than the most delicate will-o-the-wisp.

Abandon rational thought, ye who enter here. This movie is a cause for gentle celebration of the romantic imagination alone.

The story begins in a dreary London downpour. Lonely and downtrodden housewife Lotte Wilkins (Josie Lawrence) chances to see a tantalizing ad in the paper, inviting "those who appreciate wisteria and sunshine, to rent an Italian Medieval castle."

Desperate to escape her overbearing husband and mousy existence even for just a month, Lotte galvanizes into action.

First, she convinces Rose Arbuthnot, a similarly repressed acquaintance, to join her. Rose's (Miranda Richardson's) problem is quite different from Lotte's. Her boorish husband Frederick authors novels, under a pen name, about the immorality of fallen women. His time is spent pandering to rich patrons and lusting after their daughters. He is only too glad to have Rose gone for a time.

Financial reasons necessitate the would-be lady travellers taking on two companions to share the rent. Thus it is that they join forces with disagreeably indomitable dowager Mrs. Fisher (Joan Plowright) and stunning flapper Lady Caroline (Polly Walker), who seeks a time of peaceful contemplation away from the world of fawning men.

It is a lovely touch that the meek adventuress' arrival in Italy takes place on a night as dismal and depressing as the world they fled.

Ah, but next morning, they awake to a dream world of glorious Italian sunshine, a villa of magnificent vistas and lush foliage. The radiance around them seeps into all their bones and they all four become women renewed, newly able to embrace life and love.

Movies have long been fascinated with the contrast between staid British and emotionally liberating Mediterranean temperaments.

A Room With a View was a grand and glorious depiction of the emancipating effects of the Italian countryside on sedate English libidos. Shirley Valentine was a getly satiric picture of a frustrated Liverpool housewife delightedly running wild on a Grecian vacation.

Enchanted April may owe less to these forebears than to Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" where supernatural potions propel each lover to his rightful beloved. In "Enchanted April," the potent magic of the Italian air and beauties of nature seem to render the same effect--and more, for now the dowdy become radiant, the old become young, the faithless become true. It is a charming image, and one that is suffused with wit, gorgeous photography and an abundance of engrossing performances.

Lament that Enchanted April is a "soft" film if you will, but rejoice that there can be places where, as one character states, you just "feel flooded with love"-- and that they can be so eloquently depicted.

Rated PG for adult situations.

1-10 Rating: 8. Repressed Britishers become romantically renewed on a vacation to the Italian countryside.y

Taxpayers Give For Restoration Of Chesapeake Bay

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced this week that 90,111 taxpayers contributed $1,110,178 to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund on their 1991 Maryland income tax returns so far - surpassing the total for all of last year by more than $16,690 and marking the fourth successful year of the program. 127 of Garrett County's taxpayers contributed $1,234.56, according to the report.

"This year's successful total continues to underscore the commitment and concern Marylanders show for the Chesapeake Bay and our natural resources. It is especially noteworthy when you consider the severe economic downturn Maryland and many other states have struggled with in recent months," said Goldstein. "The continued participation of taxpayers also demonstrates that Marylanders will strongly support a single tax checkoff program which benefits the Chesapeake Bay and our natural resources."

The comptroller noted that taxpayers' contributions to the fund are even more significant because they have risen each year since the program began in 1988 - while most states experienced a fall-off in contributions after their first year of a tax checkoff program.

"More than 1,967 taxpayers donated $50 or more, including four who gave &1,000 or more each," he said. More than 60 taxpayers donated $200 or more.

"The 90,111 contributors also included more than 13,500 taxpayers who donated even though they owed additional state and local income taxes with their final returns," he concluded.

Montgomery County led the way with the largest number of taxpayers contributing (21,871), the largest amount contributed ($329,784) and the highest average contribution ($15.08). Baltimore County had the second largest number of taxpayers contributing (13,726) and the third largest amount contributed ($141,553), while Prince George's County provided the second largest amount of contributions ($160,671) from the third largest number of donors (13,001).

Howard County had the highest percentage of participation, with 4.3% of its taxpayers contributing to the fund. Montgomery County was in second place with 4.2% of its taxpayers contributing.

Talbot Countians donated the second highest average of $14.58. The average amount contributed state-

DEED Announces Unemployment Phone Service

The Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development (DEED) has installed a new telephone information service to provide current information on Unemployment Insurance services for Maryland citizens.

Baltimore City residents can call 410-333-7294 and those outside the city can call toll-free 1-800-827-4839 to reach the Maryland Unemployment Insurance Telephone Information Service, a 24-hour, seven-day-a-week automated telephone answering system. Individuals with hearing impairments can contact the service by calling 410-333-7295 from Baltimore and those outside of Baltimore City may call toll-free 1-800-827-4400.

"In these difficult economic times, it is often critical for people to know exactly when their unemployment insurance check has been mailed or what their immediate recourse is if their claim has been denied," said DEED Assistant Secretary for Employment and Training Charles O. Middlebrooks. "This new system gives up-to-the-minute information on individual claims and also offers general instruction for people in job transitions."

Through the new service, callers can enter their social security numbers into the system to learn the status of their unemployment insurance checks. They will also be able to obtain general information about how and where to file an unemployment insurance claim, including how to file for benefits if they worked for the federal government, served in the military or worked in another state.

In addition, callers will have access to recorded information about the denial of unemployment insurance benefits, appeal rights, and the current Emergency Unemployment Compensation Program.

For those people with special questions or problems, unemployment insurance staff are also available during business hours, 8 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday through Friday, through the new telephone information system.

Accidental discovery may end obesity

WASHINGTON -- Researchers may have discovered a way to end obesity ------- by accident!

In a study with a potential cholesterol lowering agent, scientists noted an unusual side effect. Instead of lower cholesterol levels, patients receiving a natural plant colloid lost weight while body weight in a control group remained constant.

The scientists say the mechanism behind the weight loss is not clear, but suggest it is partially due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories. Scientists in another study published in the British Journal of Nutrition, found that patients consuming the same colloid lost weight in spite of being instructed not to alter normal eating patterns. Despite this evidence, other scientists may not agree on the weight loss benefits of colloids. Someday, pending further study, there could be universal agreement that colloids are helpful in confronting the problem of obesity.

National Dietary Research, whose research topics have been the subject of articles published in recent medical and nutritional journals, has successfully incorporated a series of colloids into a chewable food tablet called FS-1. When used as directed, FS-1 replaces high calorie fats with lower calorie nutrients, thus providing optimum nutrition with a minimum number of fat calories. According to an article published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, consciously limiting the amount of food one consumes is not necessary to lose weight, provided you limit the fat.

A Florida company has obtained exclusive distribution rights to FS-1, which is available through pharmacies and other health care professionals. ©1992 Omicron International

Patricia Gnegy Weds Jeffrey Hinebaugh In June Ceremony At St. John's Church

Patricia Lynn Gnegy and Jeffrey Glen Hinebaugh were united in marriage at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, on June 6, 1992. The 6:30 p.m. ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Louise Knotts.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorraine G. Gnegy, Oakland. The groom is the son of Mrs. Shirley Hinebaugh Severe and the late James C. Hinebaugh.

The bride chose a white San Martin gown with a Queen Anne neckline. The gown featured a full, beaded sequin and pearl bodice with a keyhole back trimmed with strands of pearls and a candy box bow. The pouf mutton sleeves were trimmed with Alencon lace cut-out appliques. A Colonial pick-up skirt was trimmed with bows over tiers of crystallized organza ruffles into a semi-cathedral train.

The beaded and sequined theme was carried out in the bride's hat that was worn off to the side. A pouf waist-length veil complemented her headpiece.

A pair of diamond earrings, a gift from the groom, and a pair of her mother's pearl earrings completed her ensemble.

She carried a summer cascading bouquet of tiger lilies, roses, gypsophelia, and wedding stars accented with pearl sprays.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with tails and a white cummerbund and bow tie. John Culp, the groom's uncle, served as best man. He was attired in a black tuxedo with tails and teal accessories. Dr. David Gnegy, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Steve Gnegy, P.A., Morgantown, W.Va., brothers of the bride, served as ushers and wore black tuxedos with black accessories.

Serving as maid of honor was Kendra Stemple, Oakland, lifelong friend of the bride, who wore a teal, tea-length dress featuring a fitted bodice and open back with a swag and rosette at the waistline. Her accessories, rhinestone earrings and necklace, were a gift from the bride. Black patent leather heels completed her outfit.

Bridesmaids were Pam Gnegy, Baltimore; sister of the bride, Renate Gaither, McHenry; and Sandy Mason, Morgantown. Their dresses were patterned after the maid of honor's dress.

Leslie Gaither, McHenry, was the flower girl for the bride. She wore a teal floor-length gown with a fitted bodice. It featured a swag and rosette at the waistline. Her outfit was completed with rhinestone earrings. She carried a white wicker basket with flower petals. The attendants' dresses were made by Grace Fraley, Oakland.

Margaret Nagel, Baltimore, future sister-in-law of the bride; and Charlotte Cussins, cousin of the bride, Oakland were wedding helpers. Guest book attendant was Vickie Donham. Twin cousins of the groom, Erica and Jenna Culp, distributed birdseed packets to the guests. Elaine Roth, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va., cousin of the bride, served as organist. Soloists were Mark Weeks and Becky Mason, Oakland, who sang Friends, The Wedding Song, and After All. Arlene and Willie Lantz, Hedgesville, W.Va. videotaped the wedding ceremony and reception. The photographer was Judy Wilt, Oakland.

A reception was held at the B.P.O. Elks Club, Oakland, immediately following the ceremony where a buffet dinner was served. The cake was baked and decorated by Mary Jane Gnegy and Diane Donham, Oakland, cousins of the bride. Serving the cake were Lorene Dodge, Wilda Davy, and Delores Gnegy, aunts of the bride; and Lori Tichinell, cousin of the bride. The wedding party and guests were entertained by Joey Price, disc jockey.

Following the wedding rehearsal dinner, a chicken barbecue dinner was served in the church basement. A Sunday brunch the next day was prepared by the bride's family at which time the new Mr. and Mrs. Hinebaugh opened their gifts with the bridal party, friends, and family present. The bride and groom departed the brunch for a honeymoon trip to Williamsburg, Va.

Upon returning, the couple set up residence in Oakland where Mr. Hinebaugh is employed as a nurse manager at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Escorted by her stepfather, the bride wore a formal white brocade satin gown, with short off-the-shoulder sleeves and a fitted bodice both embellished with pearls and sequins. A full skirt fell from the Basque waist into a sweep train.

The back waist featured a large satin bow. Her headpiece was a crown of rhinestones with a pouf and a floor length veil. She carried a bouquet of white tiger lilies, mums, green eucalyptus and ferns.

Honor attendant was Sonja Roberts, friend of the bride, Clarksburg, W.Va. Bridesmaids were Tiffany Nicholson, sister of the bride, Oakland, and Andrea Boos, sister of the groom, Columbia. All three wore black brocade satin, tea-length, off-the-shoulder dresses. The dresses were made by Shirley Snyder, Oakland. They carried bouquets of ruby tiger lilies, eucalyptus and ferns.

Flower girls were Kailee and Kenzie Craig, Oakland.

Funding for this endeavor will come from state, local, and private sources, McCain said. The town's largest contribution will be through in-kind works, such as sewer and water services.

"I'm not completely at ease yet," McCain said, noting that there are still some "hoops to go through." But the mayor indicated that progress has definitely been made in the town's pursuit of rectifying the Bradley Manor dilemma.

BLAST OFF! The Titan III rocket, shown in these photos as it shoves the Mars Observer away from Earth, is an ICBM, or an Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile, originally designed to deliver atomic bombs to Russia. The rocket has been re-designed for peaceful missions, such as the Mars Observer lift-off. A remarkably accurate piece of equipment, the Titan wavered a mere .2 miles from left to right in its trajectory (path) during this launch, and a tiny .3 miles in elevation. The entire journey for the rocket before separation was 30 miles. Those witnessing the launch noted the strangeness of not hearing the blast immediately. Standing four miles away, the sound was of course delayed. When it finally did reach the ears of the observers, the noise was tremendous. The cloud left in the wake of the lift-off is extremely toxic, and for that reason as well as the potential for a devastating explosion, persons are not allowed within two miles of any launch. The cloud dissipates quickly and is soon harmless.

MARS OBSERVER ENGINEER - Jeff Sincell, son of Robert and Hannah Sincell, Mountain Lake Park, worked for over three years on a complex orbiter that will study Mars more thoroughly than any other probe sent to date. Hundreds of scientists, engineers, and technicians have constructed the Mars Observer over the past several years. Sincell was initially hired to study the Failure Modes and Effects Criticality Analysis. (See story for details.) Jeff stated that he attributed a good part of his success to his schooling in Garrett County. "I had a quality education there, despite my lack of attention," he said. Sincell graduated from Southern High School in 1968, and went on to Potomac State College and West Virginia University. He obtained two degrees from WVU, one in psychology and the other in electrical engineering. Graduating second in his class in engineering, he also received cum laude honors. He and his wife, Linda, reside in Berlin, New Jersey, and operate their own company, Worst Case Associates, Inc. Following the exhausting work on the Mars Observer and several months in Florida, Sincell is now resting at home, taking time to re-organize his office and romp with his dogs. He has already received offers for more work, and says he will continue in the area of high-reliability science-oriented equipment.

County Native Sincell Helps Send Off Mars Observer After Years Of Work

by Mary Sincell McEwen

"T-minus 10, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, - lift off! Lift off of the Titan III rocket with the Mars Observer and America's return to the Red Planet."

With an earth shaking noise, a Titan III rocket with the 5,700-pound Mars Observer spacecraft situated on its top left the surface of this planet on Friday, September 25, at 1:05 p.m., from Cape Canaveral, Florida. In a matter of seconds, the rocket was gone from sight in the cloudy Florida skies as the residual cloud of blast-off smoke lingered at the launch pad, soon dissipating and gone. The Mars Observer was off on its journey, carrying with it the intense, painstaking work of hundreds of engineers, scientists, and technicians who meticulously created and constructed the spacecraft over the past several years.

One of those engineers was Garrett County native Jeff Sincell, who has worked on the spacecraft for over three years. Contracted by General Electric (GE), Sincell began work on the spacecraft in July 1989 at GE's Astro-Space Division in East Windsor, New Jersey. The Mars Observer project has been managed by the California Institute of Technology Jet Propulsion Lab (JPL) in Pasadena and funded by NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration). Sincell's initial effort on the project was entitled FMECA, or Failure Modes and Effects Criticality Analysis.

"It's a mind game you play where you look at every part in the design and figure out how each part can fail," he explained, "Then you figure out what effect the failure of each part has on the satellite. You write that down, and when you put it all together, it lets you see if there are any 'single point mission-critical failures.' That's what I was looking for: Can a single thing fail and cause the loss of the mission."

Working under Steve Teitelbaum, chief engineer for the project at GE, Sincell tested literally thousands of parts and circuits in the past three years, finding approximately 12 areas that could have caused failure of the mission. All but three of these problems were removed from the design, and the possibility of the remaining three actually causing mission failure is exceedingly remote - less than one chance in a million missions, Sincell said.

The failure of the Mars Observer (MO) mission would be a great loss, as its purpose is to provide information never before gathered from the Red Planet. There are seven science instruments on board that will study mineral content, weather, magnetic fields, and atmospheric properties. A complete topography map will be made with use of MO's laser altimeter, and a high-resolution camera will return detailed images of key areas ten times the resolution of the best Viking Orbiter images, sent back nearly 17 years ago when the Viking landed on Mars in 1976.

The MO spacecraft was propelled away from the Earth via the Titan rocket and after almost two minutes, the booster rockets separated and fell back to Earth. It crossed over the Atlantic Ocean and shot over South Africa. As it flew over Australia, the final part of the rocket - the transfer orbit stage - completed its burn and separated from the spacecraft. At that point, MO was sent into outer space, beginning its 11-month journey to Mars. It is now electrically powered by a large solar ray panel that is directed at the sun for the entire journey.

Once it reaches Mars, onboard rocket engines will slow the spacecraft, allowing it to be captured into an elliptical orbit. Firings of small onboard thrusters over the next several months will move the spacecraft into a polar orbit, providing scientists with the opportunity to make global observations and measurements over the entire surface of the planet. It will orbit the planet for one Martian year, equivalent to 687 Earth days, sending back volumes of information. The mission is a possible pre-curser to a future manned mission to the planet in the next 20 years.

When first sub-contracted to the project, Jeff said he never expected to be involved nearly as long as three years, and had no idea he would be sitting in a NASA ground station to monitor the launch of the spacecraft.

"Because of what I did initially, I came to know the spacecraft in a very detailed way. I became more valuable to GE and JPL and they just kept coming up with more stuff for me to do," he said. "I remember being shocked (last year) to realize that I had worked on the thing for two years. It ended up to be just over three years, of course."

The investment of time, energy, and stress was costly for Sincell, as he was relocated to Cocoa Beach, Florida, from his New Jersey home in June, away from his wife, Linda, and their seven dogs. Although the accommodations were more than adequate - a townhouse on beachfront property, all expenses paid by GE - Jeff had little time to appreciate his surroundings. As the September launch window neared, the work became intense and the hours grew long. When asked if he would accept an offer to

COUNTLESS HOURS SPENT - Sincell stands next to one of the orbiter's computer boxes that is now zipping along in the Mars Observer toward the Red Planet. The engineer spent literally thousands of hours testing the Observer's parts and circuits, figuring out ways for the spacecraft to compensate for any possible failure. The protective covering he is wearing in the photo was required of all engineers and technicians in the later months of work, as the orbiter had to be kept free of dirt. There are so many intricate workings on the spacecraft that one speck of dirt has the potential of causing serious problems.

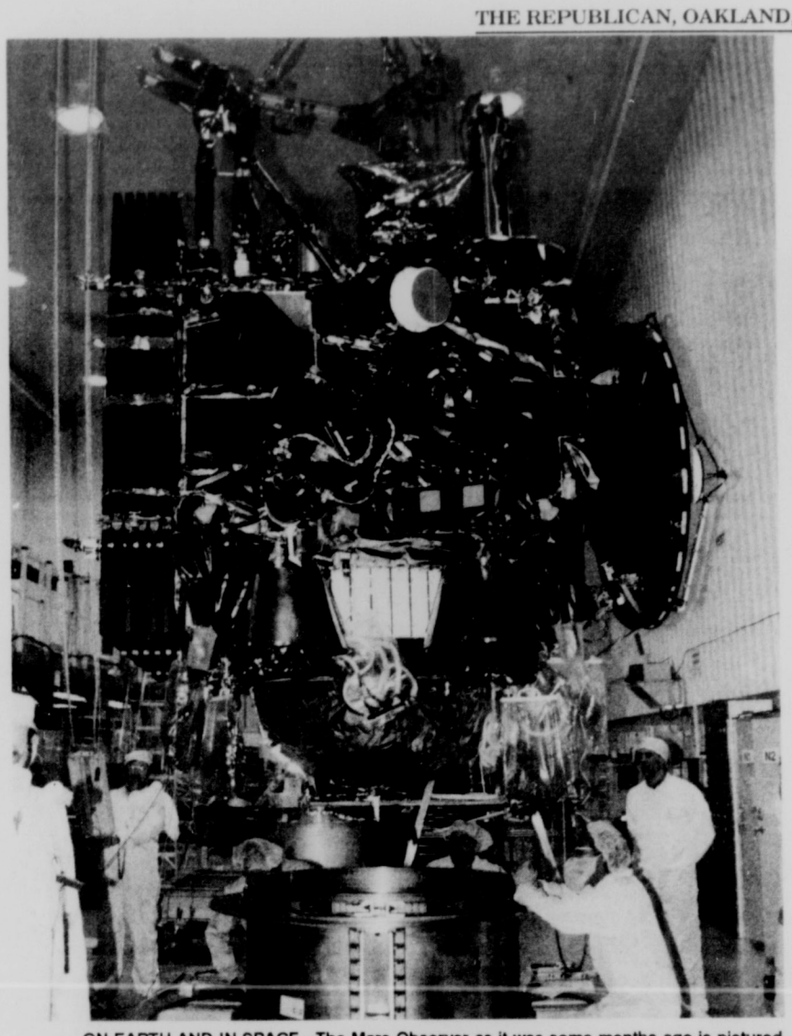
work on other spacecraft projects, Sincell said he would prefer to wait a few years.

"It takes a lot of time out of your life. It tends to be a schedule-driven thing and that means it's hard to work an eight-hour day and go home," he said. "You end up working six or seven days a week at 10 or 12 hours a day. It can be exhausting."

The stress of the last month was difficult for all the engineers as they faced various obstacles, including a launch delay because of contamination of the spacecraft. Several days before the original launch date, which was September 16, one of the technicians noticed flecks of dust and dirt all over the spacecraft - this after extreme measures had been taken for months to keep the Observer spotlessly clean. As it was already on the launch pad, it had to be removed - a time-consuming, tedious process - and taken back to the hangar where it was thoroughly cleaned. The contamination apparently occurred during emergency preparations for Hurricane Andrew when the spacecraft was purged with nitrogen gas. The purging is a normal emergency procedure, utilized when the spacecraft is to be left unattended. The hurricane did not affect the observer, but the nitrogen gas apparently contained the contaminating dirt.

With a re-scheduled launch date of September 25, the engineers hurried to get the spacecraft back on the pad and to complete all tests. Launch-day morning was not promising as cumulus clouds swept the sky and wind gusts blew along the coast, but the project administrators pressed on, reluctant to even consider scrubbing the launch. Time truly is money on projects such as this, so the sooner the MO safely flew, the better it would be for NASA.

Four members of Jeff's family - Kathryn Sincell and John, Mary, and Robert McEwen - were present for the launch. They were transported by NASA to a viewing location four miles from the pad, while Jeff stayed at the MO ground station with his eyes fixed on a spacecraft telemetry screen. Because ignition of a launch can technically be halted as late as T-minus one second, the engineers must sit at the controls to be able to recycle their equipment at literally a second's notice.



Fortunately, the weather began to clear as the launch time approached, and all systems were "go." Jeff's two sisters, brother-in-law, and nephew sat nervously at their viewing spot, listening to launch conductor Marshall Lynch as he checked off the final procedural steps of the countdown to lift-off. (Lynch is, ironically enough, a native of Cumberland.) After a 30-minute hold, the countdown began at T-minus 30 minutes at 12:25, stopping only one more time for 10 short minutes. At last came the final 10-second count and the rocket ignited, lifted, and was off.

Although the lift-off was exhilarating and nearly flawless, the engineers had several hours of anxiety ahead. Approximately 15 minutes after launch, the TOS (transfer orbit stage), which is a smaller rocket used to send MO on its way toward Mars, was to separate from the Titan rocket. There were two airplanes in the vicinity to witness the separation, and the TOS transmitter was supposed to report the success (or failure) of the action. However, the transmitter apparently failed. The pilots did not receive confirmation of the separation.

"All we had for over an hour was that the last thing seen was this big orange flash, and that was it," Sincell said. "We found out later by playing back MO's tape recorder that the flash was actually the TOS firing exactly as it was supposed to do, but for a long time we simply didn't have confirmation." A great deal of floor-pacing and Tums-popping apparently took place as the engineers waited for that confirmation.

All was not well yet for Jeff, however, as he later that evening watched one spot on his computer screen showing that the high-gain antenna on the Observer had not completely deployed as it should have. The antenna is on a long folded arm that was to expand after leaving the Earth's atmosphere and its operation is critical to obtaining high resolution data from Mars. With passing thoughts of the recent Hubble telescope

Turnovers, Oates-Dodson Combo Lead To Ram Loss

The 1992 football season is becoming quite long for the young Southern High School varsity, as the Rams traveled to Romney, W.Va., last Friday night and lost to the Hampshire High Trojans, 28-8.

Turnovers and the duo of quarterback Travis Oates and senior receiver Jeff Dodson were the major nemeses for the Rams, who saw their season mark drop to 1-4. Southern was considered by most area odds makers as a slight favorite going into the contest, and in total offense they actually out-distanced the Trojans by a 278-256-yard margin. But the Trojans turned each Ram mistake into points to record their second win in six games.

Dodson accounted for three touchdowns, as he hauled in two passes from Oates and one from second team quarterback Chris Sevigny. His first was a 57-yard play at the 8:15 mark of the first quarter. Jamie Ganoe's conversion kick gave the Trojans a 7-0 lead.

The Rams responded with a solid drive, taking the ball on their own 32 on the kickoff and marching deep into Trojan territory. But the Hampshire defense rose to the occasion and took over possession on their own seven-yard line after a fourth-and-two carry by Jeremy Bosley was stopped cold.

Bosley was held to just 15 yards rushing for the entire evening.

The Oates-Dodson combination struck again on the ensuing drive, this time for a 65-yard score on a third-down-and-12 play. Ganoe's point-after kick made it 14-0 with 3:39 remaining in the half.

Again the Rams were stopped on their next drive and the Trojans, led by a strong running by fullback Bradley Davidson and tailback David Foster, resulted in a one-yard scoring plunge by Foster with 1:31 left in the second quarter. Ganoe was again successful on the conversion kick and it was 21-0 at halftime.

The third quarter was scoreless; however, a fumble by Bosley with 29 seconds left in the period gave the Trojans possession on the Rams' 36-yard line. After moving to the 26 on running plays, Sevigny hit Dodson with his third touchdown pass of the evening. Ganoe's kick completed the Trojans' scoring.

The Rams averted a shutout when C.J. Getson and Bosley combined on an 84-yard touchdown pass play. Getson then passed to Brandon Ross for the extra two points.

"The turnovers just killed us," stated Southern Coach Fred Gregg. "After looking at the films, our whole staff agreed that it wasn't a case of our playing so badly, but we made crucial mistakes at the most inopportune times, and they capitalized on them. Hampshire has excellent skill people and they played a very good game.

"Because we have a young team, when we make a mistake, it's tough to overcome it," he continued. "But we have to play with the cards we're dealt and learn either to not make the mistakes, or how to overcome them when we make them."

Co-Special Teams Player of the Week

Strawser, a 5-8, 152-pound junior, was recognized for outstanding play on all special teams against Hampshire, while Cassidy, a 5-10, 145-pound junior, was honored for his performance on the punt receive and kickoff teams.

The Rams obviously missed three of their starters who are sidelined because of injuries. They were tight end and linebacker Rich Warnick, running back and linebacker Josh Woods, and linebacker Steve Eyler. Warnick has since returned; however Woods and Eyler are not expected to play this Friday night.

While the Rams may have been considered a favorite against Hampshire, they will undoubtedly be the underdog this Friday night when they entertain cross-county rival Northern. Although the Rams have dominated the series with the Huskies for the past few decades, the Northern program has climbed to new heights during the past two or three seasons and the Huskies are currently enjoying an unbeaten, 5-0 record.

When asked what concerns him most about the Northern squad, Coach Gregg responded, "Everything."

"They have an outstanding defense, they have excellent hitters, they have good size, they have good speed in the secondary, they are experienced, they are well coached, and they are a very confident team right now," he said. "They have an extremely potent offense with a lot of weapons to beat you. Rob Speicher can throw the ball and Chris Wachter and Bill Younkin are excellent receivers. They have very good linebackers and their interior line is solid. Jason Fazenbaker and Greg Wagner are big and strong and Paul Edwards and Chris Rowe are two of the best defensive ends we've seen this year."

The Huskies are coming off an embarrassing 61-6 win over Notre Dame of Clarksburg, W.Va., last week, as the Northern defense continues to limit teams to an average of about two points and just over 100 yards of offense per contest. Meanwhile, the offensive unit is averaging over 30 points per game.

"There is no doubt we are the underdog this week," Gregg said. "We are taking on the role of spoiler, though, and will do everything we can to win."

When asked if he plans to change his game plans for the Northern game, Gregg said, "No. We strongly believe our game plans are sound. We just have to do a better job of executing, like we have done at times in every game and, against Frankfort, for the entire game."

He said the offense will continue to mix up the plays to try to "keep the defense guessing."

With the county title game being played in the middle of the Autumn Glory Festival, a large crowd is expected to attend. The kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Oakland Jets Edge Raiders In Overtime

The Oakland Jets of the Mountain Top Youth Football League ended their regular season undefeated with an 18-12 win in overtime over the Oakland Raiders Saturday night on the Southern High School field.

The Raiders scored first to take the early lead and the Jets came back to tie the score at 6-6. The Raiders scored first again in the second half and again the Jets came back and tied the score with a touchdown of their own. The game went into overtime before a large crowd at the Southern High field.

The Raiders received the ball first in overtime and fumbled on the second play. The Jets then took over the ball on the 10-yard line and drove the ball to the one yard line on the first play. A fumble on the second play left the Jets with a third and goal situation from the 11. On the next play, Howie Crosco scored to give the Jets their second overtime win of the season.

Head coach Vic Compitello of the Jets praised his whole team for the winning effort, stating, "When the game was on the line, our group of young athletes really took the challenge head on and responded extremely well. It was again a total team effort and we are pleased to come away with a win. The Raiders have A fine team and I am sure their coaches are proud of them. The fans got to see a very exciting game tonight."

The Jets will play the Raiders again this week in the opening round of the league playoffs. The game will be played at the Southern field. Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. The second game of the day will feature the Northern Steelers against the Parsons Vikings.

Steelers Blank Vikings In Youth League Contest

The Northern Steelers improved their Mountaintop Youth Football League record to 3-1 Saturday evening on the Southern High School field by shutting out the Parsons Vikings, 14-0.

After a scoreless first quarter, Cody Brenneman put the first Steeler points on the board with a six-yard touchdown run. The score was set up by a Scott Sisler pass to Herman Arndt that covered 36 yards. The kick for the two-point conversion failed.

The Steelers wrapped up the scoring on the last play of the first half when Zack Leverenz connected with Terry Howard on an eight-yard halfback pass for a touchdown. Brenneman booted the conversion kick for the extra two points.

The entire second half was scoreless, as both defensive units excelled. Leading the Steeler defense were Jason King, Shaun Savage, and John Snelling.

"We play Parsons again this week in the playoffs and we're looking for a very tough game to make it into the championship game," stated Steeler Coach Ben Sisler.

The Steelers will play the Vikings in the 3:30 p.m. game Sunday on the Southern field. The 1:30 game will pit the undefeated Oakland Jets against the Oakland Raiders. The winners of the semi-finals will meet in the championship game the following weekend.

Northern Girls Win A Pair On Volleyball Court

The Northern High volleyball team upped its record to 4-2 with a pair of wins this week, topping Bishop Walsh on Monday in Cumberland and then blanking host Beall last night in three straight games.

The Huskies dropped the first game against the BW Spartans, 15-13, but then won the next three, 17-15, 15-8, and 15-11.

Amy Platter recorded 24 service points for the Huskies, while Tonya Mehanna paced the Spartans with eight. The loss dropped the Spartans to 4-4.

The Northern junior varsity was also victorious, topping the BW jayvees 15-11, 4-15, and 15-3.

Against Beall last night, the Huskies coasted to victory, 15-6, 15-5, and 15-5.

Lisa Stephens and Wanda Swartzwelder each scored 10 service points to lead the Huskies. Jyme Long scored four for the Mountaineers, who dropped to 1-7.

Lakers Split A Pair Of Matches

The Garrett Community College volleyball team played a pair of tri-matches this past week and came away from both of them with splits.

The Lakers, coached by Margaret Quinn, traveled to Frederick Community College last Thursday where they lost to the host team, 7-15, 13-15, 15-10, and 9-15, but then rebounded for a 9-15, 15-9, 15-8 victory over Mercersburg.

Then on Monday at the New Kensington Campus of Penn State, the Lakers whipped Penn State-Shenago, 7-15, 15-9, and 15-9, and lost to Boyce CC, 4-15, 15-12, and 4-15.

Against Frederick CC, Tracy Feather was 15-for-15 in serving, while Heather Shepherd finished 18-for-19 and led in attacks with a 34-for-39 effort. Charity Taylor added seven of seven from the service line.

Sheila Butt paced the Lakers' serving in the win over Mercersburg, as she was perfect in all 17 attempts. Shepherd was 16-for-17, Peggy Evans finished seven-for-seven, and Dawn DeShong was 12-for-14 in attacks.

Butt led the Lakers with a 22-for-23 serving effort in the win over Shenago. Taylor was 13-for-15 and DeShong finished at 10-of-12. Shepherd led in attacks with 13 for 16 and Butt also led in sets with 24 of 25.

DeShong was nine-for-11 in serving against Boyce and finished with a 30-of-33 mark in sets. Butt was eight-for-eight in attacks.

The Lakers, whose overall mark is now 8-6, will visit the McKeesport Campus of Penn State this evening for another tri-match.

Christy Crews recorded 13 service points, including four aces, and also contributed eight kills to lead the Rams over Beall, three games to one.

Southern won the first two matches, 15-9 and 15-8, dropped the third, 15-5, and then won the fourth, 15-10.

Trisha Marple and Sherry Niner each had eight points for Southern, while Keri Kratofil had 10 assists. Niner, Marple, and Angie Elsie each recorded three aces.

Leading Beall were Jyme Long and Rebecca Race with 10 points each. The loss dropped Beall to 1-6.

Southern won its first game last night against 6-1 Westmar, 15-12, but dropped the next three, 15-7, 15-1, and 16-14.

Renae Kinnie finished with 23 service points for the Wildcats, while Crews recorded 12 points and 11 kills for the Rams.

Niner added seven points and seven kills, while Crews recorded 11 kills and two aces. Setters Kratofil and Crystals Sines had seven and six assists, respectively.

Coach Sue Snyder's Rams, now 4-4, will host Oldtown next Wednesday.

In last night's preliminary match, the Southern junior varsity was defeated, 15-13 and 15-4.

Angie Elsey and Gretchen Trickett each scored four points for Southern.

Huskies Rip Notre Dame To Record Fifth Victory

The Northern High Huskies had no difficulty whatsoever in recording their fifth straight win of the season Friday night as they dismantled home-standing Notre Dame High School of Clarksburg, W.Va., 61-6.

The Huskies ran only six offensive plays, but scored on every one of them in the first half and led 34-0 at halftime, after which Northern Coach Tom Vent played his second and third teams the rest of the evening. They, too, scored almost at will against the out-manned West Virginia squad.

Chris Wachter paced the first-team offense, as he scored all four times he touched the ball and amassed 265 all-purpose yards.

The Huskies took command of the game quickly, as Alan Sebold returned a punt 35 yards in the early minutes of the first quarter for the first touchdown.

Quarterback Rob Speicher followed with a 55-yard interception return for a touchdown on Notre Dame's next possession.

Then Speicher connected with Wachter on a touchdown bomb and Jon Hinebaugh's extra point kick made it 21-0. Hinebaugh made good on seven of nine conversion attempts.

Paul Edwards picked up a fumble early in the second quarter and returned it 65 yards for the Huskies' fourth touchdown. Then Speicher hit Edwards with a scoring aerial midway through the quarter to give the Huskies their 34-0 advantage.

Notre Dame finally got on the board in the third quarter when Hector Lopez connected with Smith on a nine-yard scoring strike.

The Huskies' second half scoring consisted of a 75-yard kickoff return and a 65-yard punt return by Wachter, a 24-yard touchdown run by Larry Wigfield and a 35-yard scoring jaunt by Brett Newman.

Wachter was named the Offensive Player of the Week, while Chris Rowe was selected Special Teams Player of the Week and the entire defensive unit shared the Defensive Player of the Week award.

"I really don't think Notre Dame is that bad, and we probably aren't that good," stated Coach Vent. "They had a lot of turnovers and we seemed to turn every one of them into points. We really tried to take it easy in the second half, but you can't tell your second and third team players to hold back.

"Actually, it was not good for us to win that easily," Vent continued. "It didn't give us an opportunity to try some of the things we will probably need against other opponents."

One of those "other opponents" on Vent's mind was undoubtedly this week's foe, cross-county rival Southern, who will host the Huskies in this week's contest. What is different about the Northern-Southern game this year compared to those of most other recent seasons is that the Huskies will be a heavy favorite, as the young Southern squad is struggling. The Rams will go into the contest with a 1-4 record, coming off a 28-8 loss last Friday at Hampshire.

"I must say our kids are really focused this week, and they have been since minutes after Saturday's game," Vent said. "We've had probably the best week of practice we've ever had and we are 100 percent healthy. We're really looking forward to meeting Southern."

However, Vent is not expecting an easy encounter and was quick to point out that it will take a strong performance by his team to defeat the Rams.

"Regardless of all of Southern's ills right now, they have a very good football team," he said. "They're kind of banged up right now, but they have enough offensive weapons to score 100 points against you. C.J. Getson and Jeremy Bosley are two of the best athletes on our schedule."

Vent said he plans to do nothing different this week in terms of game plan. "We're just going to line up and really go at them," he said.

"A lot of people are still wondering if we are a legitimate team, so this is a big game for us," he continued. "They will do everything they can to be the spoiler and we have to make sure they don't play that role."

The kickoff at Southern is set for 7:30 p.m.

Dawson Leads SHS Jayvees Over Spartans

A touchdown by Scott Dawson was all the Southern High School junior varsity needed to defeat visiting Bishop Walsh last Thursday evening, 6-0.

Dawson, who recorded over 100 yards rushing, scored on a 15-yard run on a fourth down and eight play early in the second quarter. The run for the conversion failed.

Also excelling on offense was quarterback Andy Woods, while linebacker Paul Berkeridge, tackle Randy Murphy, and safeties Ben Getson and Adam Moomau were standouts on defense for the Rams.

The win upped the Ram jayvee record 3-1. They will travel to Accident this evening to take on cross-county rival Northern. The kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

Southern, Northern Cross Country Teams Fare Well In Area Meets

The Southern and Northern high school cross country teams recorded considerable success this past week in the Frostburg State University Invitational, held Saturday at Rocky Gap State Park near Cumberland, and in the Area Meet on Tuesday, also held at Rocky Gap.

The Southern boys and the Northern girls each captured fourth places among 15 and 13 teams, respectively, in the FSU meet. Leading the Southern boys were Bryan Clickener, who placed seventh, while Matt Newcomb finished 11th among the 136 racers. The Southern boys finished with 153 points, behind Handley, of Winchester, Va., with 47, Allegany with 63, and Keyser with 113. Frankfort was fifth with 186, Northern finished seventh with 208, Beall was ninth with 240, Fort Hill placed 11th with 255, and Bishop Walsh was 15th with 442.

Leading the Husky boys were Dan Seaman, who placed 15th, and Rich Bowser, 20th.

Handley also won the girls' team title with 56 points, followed by Boonsboro with 57. Northern placed fourth with a score of 97, followed by Fort Hill, fifth, 143; Allegany, sixth, 169; Southern, seventh, 175; Frankfort, eighth, 177; and Beall, ninth, 237.

Bobbi Dolan led the Northern runners by finishing third out of the 87 runners competing. Her time was 22:11. Danelle Fike and Suzannah Mathews placed 13th and 20th, respectively.

The top Southern finisher was Jenny Reams, 14th.

Behind Bobbi Dolan's first place finish, the Northern girls captured second place among the eight teams participating in Tuesday's Area Meet. She recorded a time of 21:42, 19 seconds ahead of Fort Hill's Sarah Manger.

Dolan took command of the race during the third mile. She is the first Northern runner to ever make the All Area team, as the top seven finishers in the Area Meet receive that honor. Teammates receiving awards for finishing among the top 20 were: Suzannah Mathews, 13th; Danelle Fike, 11th; Stacy Dolan, 17th; and Chris Umbel, 18th.

The Northern girls finished with a team score of 60, while Keyser won the meet with a 46. Fort Hill was third with 80 points, followed by Allegany, 91; Frankfort, 126; Southern, 132; Bishop Walsh, 172; and Beall, 214.

The top Southern finisher and also named to the All Area team was Jenny Reams, who placed fourth with a time of 22:26.

The Southern boys finished fourth among the nine teams vying for All Area boys' team honors. Clickener again led the Ram charge by placing second behind Allegany's Todd Buckbee. Clickener's time was 17:52.

Also named to the All Area team were Matt Newcomb, who finished sixth, and Northern's Rich Bowser, who placed seventh. Dan Seaman, also of Northern, received a two-20 award for placing 17th. Both Bowser and Seaman are sophomores.

Allegany won the boys' team title with 58 points, followed by Keyser with 82, Hampshire with 110, Southern with 113, Beall with 114, Fort Hill with 116, Frankfort with 122, Northern with 147, and Bishop Walsh with 256.

In B team competition, Southern placed second with 38 points and Northern was third with 54. Keyser won with 31, while Allegany's and Frankfort's scores were incomplete.

Southern's Aaron Chorpenning placed second among the B team boys, while Tammy Butt led the Southern girls with a fourth place. Shad Wachter was the top Northern finisher, followed by George Sank and Dave Schofield.

The next competition for both Northern and Southern will be the county championships, which will be held Monday at Northern, beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Garrett CC To Hold Whitewater Weekend Oct. 16-18

A Whitewater Adventure three-day weekend, during which participants will learn fundamentals of whitewater kayaking and/or canoeing, has been scheduled by Garrett Community College for October 16, 17 & 18, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. According to Mike Logsdon, director of the Adventure Sports program at the college, students who register for this weekend will earn one college credit to OED 148, a course that will be instructed by Bob Ruppel, owner and operator of Riversport in Confluence, Pa. Sessions will be held on the Youghiogheny River near Confluence and possibly in another location as well. It is not necessary for participants to have had previous whitewater experience to enroll in this course.

Tuition and fees for the three-day course for Garrett County residents will be $110. This fee includes all instruction, equipment rental, and other costs.

Instruction will cover equipment selection, reading the river, maneuvers on moving water, fundamental stroke technique, and basic self rescue and river safety. Overnight camping will be available at the river site for those who so desire.

Persons interested in registering for the Whitewater Adventure, or those desiring further information, should call Logsdon at the college at 387-6666.

Cross County Championships Set; Huskies And Rams To Host Events

The Southern High School cross country teams will race in two more championship cross country meets next week. During the past seven days the Rams ran at the Frostburg State University Invitational on Saturday and the Area Championship Meet on Tuesday. Those results are reported in a separate story.

The Northern Huskies will host the 1992 Garrett County Cross Country Championship Monday. The Northern boys and the Southern girls are the defending 1991 champions in the event. The two teams met in closely contested races in the 1992 season opener. The Southern boys edged the Huskies by one point while the Northern girls took a two-point win from the Rams. Both teams competed in the FSU invitational and the Area Meets and the Northern girls and the Southern boys teams are favored.

Bobbi Dolan, Danelle Fike, and Suzannah Mathews of the Huskies and Jenny Reams of the Rams are favored in the girls' race. Rams Bryan Clickener and Matt Newcomb and Huskies Dan Seaman and Rich Bowser will be the favorites for the boy's title.

The Northern High cross country course is regarded as one of the fastest in the area and the coaches expect to see some of the quickest times of the season at this meet. The top seven varsity boys and girls will receive medals and be designated as all-country runners.

The Rams will host the Potomac Valley Conference Cross Country Championship at the Broadford Park Course on Thursday, October 15. Teams from Keyser, Frankfort, Hampshire, Berkeley Springs, and Elk Garden will have runners competing in varsity, junior varsity, and freshman/junior high races.

The Rams' home course is the most physically demanding of the area cross country sites. Runners face numerous hills and turns as they race through the woods and along the lake shore. Although speed is important, endurance and courage are needed to do well on the Broadford Park Course. The first race is scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m.

The Frankfort boys are the defending PVC boys champions, but Keyser, which has been dominate during the past decade, is favored to reclaim the boys' title. Both Hampshire and Southern have shown strength and could surprise the favorites.

Bryan Clickener and Matt Newcomb of the Rams, D.J. Likens of the Golden Tornados, Bret Ridgel of the Falcons, and Jason Keener of the Trojans will go head-to-head for the individual championship in the boys' varsity race.

Southern's girls are the defending champions with consecutive wins in 1990 and 1991. Keyser's strength in earlier meets makes them favored to capture the girls' team event.

The girls' individual championship appears to be a race among Southern's Jenny Reams, Keyser's Jamie Nutter, Erin Cuppett, and Valerie Smith, and Frankfort's Krista Hawley.

Tentative race times are: boys and girls freshmen/junior high at 2:30 p.m.; boys and girls junior varsity at 3:15 p.m.; girls varsity at 4 p.m.; and boys varsity at 4:45 p.m.

Ribbons, medals, and the team trophies will be presented immediately after boys' varsity race.

BROCK HONORED BY LITERACY COUNCIL -- The Garrett County Literacy Council recently held a reception honoring Edith Brock, who will soon retire as director of the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County. wide is $12.32.

"Nearly three percent of taxpayers contributed to the fund, just about the same participation rate as last year," the comptroller said.

Taxpayers contribute to the fund on line 63 of their Maryland long or short income tax form and reduce the amount of their refund or add to any additional tax they owe. Contributions made on Maryland income tax returns filed are deductible on federal and state income tax forms filed the following year, if taxpayers itemize deductions.

Money donated to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund is evenly divided between the Chesapeake Bay Trust and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. The Chesapeake Bay Trust provides grants to community groups, schools, and non-profit organizations for Bay restoration projects. The projects include beach clean-ups, tree planting, marsh restoration, teacher training, and water quality testing.

The Department of Natural Resources uses the funds to support the protection of Maryland's endangered species and non-game and urban wildlife.

Birthday Remembrance For
who passed away April 4, 1991 and who would've celebrated her 55th birthday Oct. 12.

In tears we saw you sinking,
And watched you fade away,
Our hearts were really breaking,
But we could not make you stay.
God watched you as you suffered,
He knew you had your share,
He closed your weary eyes,
And took you in His Care,
And when we saw you sleeping,
Peacefully free from pain,
We could not wish you back
To suffer that again.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
and secret tears flow,
What it meant to lose you
Only God will never know.
To your resting place we wander
Where we lay flowers with care.
No one knows the heartache
As we turn and leave you there.

THE GIFT BUGGY, in McCoole, specializes in unique gifts and collectibles, including figurines by June McKenna, who will make a special appearance at the shop on October 20.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

The Gift Buggy

The Gift Buggy is now in its ninth year of business. Located at the "Y" in McCoole, the store was formerly located in an adjacent building and known as Rags & Riches. The new shop opened for business in October of 1987, and is a family owned and operated business. Mary and Ron Welch, along with daughter and son-in-law, Sherri and Chuckie Kalbaugh, are the shop's proprietors. Upon entering the shop customers will also be greeted by Wilda Fazzalore, more commonly known as "Granny" to the customers, who is yet another family member, Mary's mother.

It is not unusual to see Dave, Debbie, or Nicholas Welch busy at work during special events and occasions. Dave is the son of Mary and Ron Welch. Also while at the shop, customers may meet Amie and Chuckie Kalbaugh, children of Sherri and Chuckie Kalbaugh. They are Santa's helpers from November throughout the Christmas season. And last, but not least, Butterscotch Kalbaugh, the shop's feline friend darts across the workshop floor in search of a treat.

Peggy Shaw, friend of the family, has been with The Gift Buggy from its start. An artist in her own right, the beautiful bows that adorn all of the florals from the shop are Shaw's creation.

The Gift Buggy specializes in unique gifts and collectibles. They carry a registry on all collectibles for the customer's convenience. A few of the lines represented include Dept. 56 lighted houses, Snowbabies, Annalee, Byers' Choice Carolers, Bessie Pease Gutmann, Disney by Schmid, Beatrix Potter, Yankee Candle, Hudson Pewter, 1928 Jewelry, and many more. They also specialize in "specifics:" firemen, teachers, retirement, nurses, doctors, graduations, and much more.

Of special interest to many are Christmas collectibles by the renowned sculptor June McKenna, also handled by The Gift Buggy. As a special treat for their customers, The Gift Buggy will sponsor a personal appearance by June McKenna from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, October 20.

In appreciation of the following that June McKenna has gained since starting in 1983, the artist has introduced a "Personal Appearance Santa Collection." The personal appearance collection includes small, detailed replicas of all the sold-out limited edition Santas - beginning with the 1983 limited edition "Father Christmas." Others include the 1984 "Old Saint Nick," the 1985 "Woodland," and the 1986 "Victorian."

There are, perhaps, two ways in which the success of a collectible line can easily be measured, and June McKenna Collectibles achieve high marks on both counts. Although McKenna only began carving her Santa Claus figures in 1982, her major limited edition pieces for 1983 through 1988 have already sold out. Quite a feat for a collectible line! And the second criterion for success, one set by June McKenna herself, is that her pieces are designed to be both attractive and affordable to everyone from the young child who loves Santa to the most serious collector.

June McKenna figurines range in size from five to 17 inches, and are available in a wide variety of prices, starting at $25. The artist, using minute dental tools sculpts the figurine in clay, achieving such realism that people are often seen touching the lace collar on one piece or the gold braid on another to see whether they are made of fabric or wood resin. Next, a mold is formed and wood resin poured into it and allowed to harden. Finally, artists meticulously hand-paint each individual figure and then cover the finished piece with the antique finish which gives the distinctive old world charm and appearance, with intricate attention to detail, which is such a striking part of McKenna's work. The artist creates approximately 15 new pieces each year.

Owners of The Gift Buggy, whose motto is "We Treat Our Customers Like Gold," invite everyone visiting the area for Autumn Glory to stop by the shop for a visit. "You will be glad you did," they say.

NEW DIRECTOR OF LOCAL RED CROSS – Donald Einolf Jr., took office September 9 as the executive director of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Einolf is retired from the Baltimore County Police Department, after 20 years of service, 15 of those years as a detective. Seeing an ad in his local newspaper which read "land for sale." Einolf and his wife, Lois, drove to Garrett County, looked at the land, and within a day decided to buy the property and build a house. That was in 1983. He says serving people was always the focus of his job in the police department. "Helping people without the problem of arresting people will be enjoyable," he said.

OCTOBER IS "MARYLAND YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL" MONTH – The Garrett County Commissioners this week proclaimed the month of October as "Maryland You Are Beautiful" month in Garrett County. The proclamation stated, "Maryland's most valuable and cherished resource is her citizens – beautiful people who are kind, caring, and proud, and people who give so generously of themselves to make a positive and productive difference in the lives of others . . . " Shown above, center, is Rev. William E. Carlson, Accident, who was recently selected as Garrett County's "Most Beautiful Person," along with Dr. Lillian Mitchell, left, and Edith Brock, right, finalists in the selection. Members of the nominating and selecting committee were Pat Vetter, county coordinator; Lois Martin, chairperson; and members, Pam Ashby, Pat Gregg, Susie Scott, Jim Shaffer, Sybilla Sharps, and Betty Jo Swauger.

JOBLESS CAN HELP THEMSELVES BY SUPPORTING EACH OTHER

When you're out of work, you're fighting more than the slow economy. You're up against social attitudes that infect your friends, your associates and your very being.

Americans devalue the jobless, as if everyone who is out of work probably deserves it. Somewhere in our minds lies the illusion that the world is just. Therefore, the logic runs, if you were capable you wouldn't have been fired.

In today's economy, these beliefs are patently untrue. Plant closings, downsizing and business failures hit outstanding good and mediocre employees alike.

Still, many employers look with suspicion on the unemployed. And the unemployed themselves are often overcome with shame and self-blame, as if their predicament were solely their own fault.

To battle these destructive feelings, the jobless (more accurately, call them "job seekers") are increasingly banding together in support groups. No one keeps count of their number. But they're springing up everywhere, in churches, clubs and community halls.

At one such group, members range from a man who was until recently homeless to an executive fired from a quarter of a million dollar job. They open each meeting with a "two-minute drill" that summarizes who you are professionally, what you've done and what you want to do. In the two minutes you tell what you want people to remember about you, if they have an opportunity to mention you to someone else.

At another group site, the leader announces job openings, many of them forwarded by people connected with the community group that provides the meeting place.

Some members volunteer to call for details about the available positions and pass the information along to others.

What do support groups talk about? How to lick a common problem, like getting past the secretary of somebody you would like to see. Ways to redesign a resume for today's results-oriented market ("bank vice president" doesn't impress anyone; you have to sell yourself as bundle of transferable skills). Whether anyone knows someone who can open a door at a particular company.

Many groups invite speakers -- outplacement counselors, ministers, psychologists, representatives from the unemployment office.

But most of all, they help themselves by helping each other. If you can make a useful call for another group member, you feel more competent and valuable.

A great deal of research has been done on the mental state of the unemployed, says Dr. Barrie Greiff, a psychiatrist and co-author of "The Psychosocial Impact of Job Loss." Without doubt, he says, social support relieves your sense of stigma and personal failure. Support groups can't save you from economic deprivation, but they buffer the perception of deprivation, which is a form of salvation in itself.

Virtually no research has been done on what happens to the spouses of the unemployed. It does appear that their level of personal anxiety may be higher than that of the job seeker. The job seekers feel so isolated and lonely. For those with jobs, keep seeing and talking with your unemployed friends.

If you would like to start a group and for further information, please contact Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Extension Agent, Home Economics, The University of MD System, Cooperative Extension Service, 202 S. Third Street, Oakland, MD; (301) 334-1990.

REFLECTIONS DONATED TO SHS - Lee Teter's haunting painting of the Vietnam Wall, Reflections, hangs in governors' offices, colleges, and U.S. embassies abroad. It is now hanging in Southern High School, a gift of the 1967 class of SHS. Many of the students in that class went to Vietnam for one or more tours of duty. In the painting, a man reaches up to touch the cold, black granite wall. Behind the lines of names etched in the slab, images of veterans look out at the grief-stricken man. The black granite panels in Constitution Gardens, Washington, D.C. bear the names of 58,175 soldiers killed or missing in Vietnam. The young Marine reaching out to touch the hand of the visitor is Mickey Banks, who was killed in action in Vietnam. Teter painted his likeness at the request of a friend, working from photographs. The other veterans were represented by models, including Teter's cousin, the kneeling vet, who was wounded twice in Vietnam. The memorial visitor depicted is a departure from the Vietnam veteran stereotype dressed in combat fatigues. The depiction was to create more universality. The visitor could be a father, brother, cousin, or friend, as well as a veteran. Teter, a native of Cumberland, while much younger than Vietnam veterans, has befriended many of them and even joined Chapter 172 of Vietnam Veterans of America. Teter has sold the copyright of the painting to Chapter 172. They have raised $200,000 and have used it for scholarships, counseling, hurricane relief, and repairs to the Vietnam Memorial. Reflections is 26 inches by 19 inches plus border. Prints cost $50 plus $3.25 for shipping and handling. They may be obtained by calling 301-7777001 or by writing VVA No. 172, P.O. Box 176, Cumberland, Md 21502. Shown above left to right are Rob Sharps, class of '67; Art Refosco, principal at Southern, and Roger Ruff, class of '67.
